

New Circle K Club Is Formed At Elon

Eleven Elon College students have just become charter members of the new Circle K Club on the Elon campus, the club being a service group which was organized under the sponsorship of the Burlington Kiwanis Club.

The charter members of the group include no seniors, so all of them will be back in college next fall, and already they are laying plans for service projects in keeping with the "We Build" motto of the parent Kiwanis Club.

The officers of the new club include Ernest Wilkinson, of Kenly, president; Buck Cobb, of Virginia Beach, Va., vice-president; and Joe Sigler, of Miami, Fla., secretary and treasurer. Ronnie O'Brien, of Fayetteville, is a director of the club.

Other members include Scott Bailey, of Silver Spring, Md.; Al Blom, of Staten Island, N. Y.; John Goins, of Winston-Salem; Lee Loy, of Burlington; Keith Osborne, of Kernersville; Terry Rice, of Arlington, Va.; and Eddie Williamson, of Thomasville.

Year" at Elon College.

Dr. Watts will be honored with the distinguished alumni award at the annual alumni banquet, to be held in the ball room of the McEwen Memorial Dining Hall on Saturday night, May 24th. The banquet will climax the Alumni Day program, which itself forms the first day's events of Elon's 1969 commencement weekend.

Dr. Watts, who graduated from Elon College with the Class of 1937, will be a guest speaker for the Alumni Banquet and will speak on the subject of "Habituation And Addiction To Drugs."

The Elon alumnus went on to Duke University to earn the doctorate and has served as professor and chairman of the Department of Pharmacology at West Virginia University Medical Center from 1953 until 1966, when he became dean of graduate studies and professor of pharmacology at Medical College of Virginia.

His contributions to physiology and pharmacology include development of breathing equipment for aviators, research in treatment of hemorrhagic shock, and studies of the affect of nicotine and smoking on the secretion of epinephrine, a hormone which affects blood pressure and cardiac output.

Elon Faculty Members Study On Summer Sabbatical Leave

Five members of the Elon College faculty have been awarded summer sabbatical leaves for the coming summer to work toward an advanced degree or to do refresher study in their fields.

The sabbatical study is made possible jointly by the Piedmont University Center and Elon College, due to a grant from the Fund For Advancement of Education. Normally the grants are for a full summer's work to a maximum of $1,000 per recipient. The grants awarded include the following:

Dr. Kostas V. Cepas, associate professor of German and Latin, a native of Lithuania, plans to do refresher work in German, with research in the problem of teaching German language to non-Germans.

Mrs. Terrell Cofield, assistant professor of music, will study with Luigi Ricci in Rome, Italy, for eight weeks. Ricci is a recognized authority in the area of bel canto.

Prof. Roger Grimson, of the math department, will do research for his dissertation, seeking to complete requirements for his Ph. D. at Duke University. He will prepare his dissertation for publication.

Prof. William C. Ramsey, of the English department will do research and writing on his doctoral dissertation at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, working in a study of the Faulkner novels.

Coach Gary Mattocks, of the physical education department, will do additional graduate work in the field of physical education at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.
