Bookstore Opened At Harper Center

By BETTY ANDERSON

There has been a "birth" on campus at Elon and most of the students, especially those from Staley and Moffitt dorms, are glad to see the new addition.

The new addition is, of course, the Campus Shop, Jr. and is now in full operation in Harper Center. Carrying the same products, in general, as the Campus Shop, the store is stocked with school supplies, records, stationary, gift and toiletry items and also carries sandwiches and snacks.

The Campus Shop, Jr. is run by Ed Powers, Wayne Thrift and Scott Bailey and is open from 10:00 til 4:00 Monday through Thursdays and from 6:00 until 11:00 Monday through Thursday nights. Beginning March 14, the shop will also be open from 7:00 to 10:00 on Sunday nights.

According to "Buck" Bayliff, Campus Shop manager, the smaller shop will be cashing checks for no more than $5.00 while the main shop will be cashing checks for no more than $20.00. "Because of the added expense of handling checks," Bayliff commented, "it would be best

'Iron Butterfly' to Appear Here

By ROGER OLIVER

In a recent interview with Entertainment Comment Committee Chairman, Neil Hening, the Maroon and Gold explored some of the problems and plans for entertainment this year.

The first question was naturally about Spring Weekend. This year there will be two concerts. On Saturday night entertainment will be provided by "The Happenings." The show Sunday afternoon will be provided by "The Happenings." The show Sunday afternoon will be the "Iron Butterfly." There will also be a dance Friday night. The Hening stated that "This is the first weekend since Homecoming of 1967 that there have been two concerts."

Major problems faced this year, according to Hening, included: the uncertainty of S. G. A. funds due to the audit, people who try to help but who are actually a hindrance, S. G. A. politicking, and the stereotyped choice of entertainment on the Elon campus.

Hening said that the students expect expensive entertainment while only limited funds are available. "I am afraid that the students will not even attend such shows as "The Happenings," feeling that since it is not a 'big name' show it will not be good." He added that "there is a lot of good entertainment at a small price."

Hening felt strongly that there is an "element of students" who received no entertainment at all on campus that they truly enjoyed. He suggested that another weekend would help to make a more well - rounded entertainment season on campus. Other suggestions included: more money, perhaps, if possible, from the college itself, and more participation in the entertainment now provided.

Finally Hening was asked if the Spring Weekend show was the best possible? He replied that this was the "best all-around" show could be obtained with such limited funds and time. He added that the senators, officers, and other members of the S. G. A. were polled as to their preference and that this was the most preferred show.

Tweetsie Railroad, restored near Boone, is one of the most famous and most authentic tourist attractions in America.

Visiting Scholar Emphasizes Value of Recreation

By RICHARD SMITH

Dr. Richard G. Kraus, noted scholar on physical education, visited the Elon College campus March 4. Approximately 125 students and faculty members were on hand to hear the lecture given by Dr. Kraus.

In his lecture Dr. Kraus emphasized the value of recreation to every individual living in the U.S. His lecture was given in 3 categories pertaining to the field of recreation: recreation itself, race, and inter-city crises.

Dr. Kraus stated that the concept of recreation is widely misunderstood. The term "play" is often referred to in summing up recreation, but there is much more to recreation than just the term "play."

Play in itself only restores you physically and mentally to work. Through his personal viewpoint recreation serves as a release, an emotional outlet. In having a true meaning of recreation, a person can keep himself physically fit throughout adulthood, conditioning his recreational activities.
