SGA Officers Seek Reforms and Unity

By Roger Oliver

The officers - elect of the S.G.A. were recently interviewed as to their goals and plans for the 1970-71 school year. At the interview were Lee Loy, Alex Vardavas, Dean McBrayer, president, vice-president, and treasurer-elect, respectively, of the S. G.A., and Barry Simmons, presidential advisor.

When asked what were the goals for next year, Loy replied, "We are going to try to increase unity among students." He stated that in doing this there will be reform and change throughout the S.G.A. Such areas as elections, committees, and procedures will be completely revamped. Vardavas added that the S.G.A. will attempt to give the students more voice in how their money is used. "Their $10.00 will be spent, within reason, like they want it to be spent." This will be accomplished by referendums and polls.

As for the business end, McBrayer said that a new accounting system will be employed and that the books would be audited at the end of the present administration.

Commenting on Administration - Student Government relations, Loy stated that he will attempt to get on better terms with the college's officials. "More can be done through cooperation," he said but quickly added that "this does not mean we will sell out the students. If students' interest and welfare is being violated, we will stand up for them. That's our job."

The three stated that they hope to get the Administration to bear more of the cost of bringing academic events and lectures to the campus.

Alex Vardavas added, "Next year more activities; Elon is socially dead, but we will attempt to resurrect it." Vardavas served, more or less, as the group's spokesman. "I am not a poli-

Goldwater Is Guest Speaker At Executive Club Dinner Here

By LARRY SAGE

"What is developing as a major issue for 1972?" was the main question Sen. Barry Goldwater posed at the supper meeting of the Alamance Executive's Club. About 325 people attended the supper in McEwen Dining Hall, Mon. night April 6. "Inflation, the Supreme Court, welfare, decline on the value of the dollar, Viet Nam, Laos, Cambodia, are all prevalent problems today", commented Sen. Goldwater, "however, over the last 10 years there has been a desire on the part of some Americans to drift back to an isolated state as in the 1920's-1930's."

Sen. Goldwater went on to explain the events surrounding World War II, our world power at the end of the war and how Eisenhower and Dulles formulated the various treaties involving the U. S. in world affairs. "The Pacific area is important, that is why we are in Viet Nam, friendly to Japan and Nationalist China. If they fall, we lose control of these vital areas and sit here in fortress America. We must have some control over our enemies," emphasized Goldwater. "Freedom is worth taking dangers over."

"There are no easy answers, no good dialogue, but hopefully, middle area so we might see some way out of this dilemma without injuring America and peace in the world."

"By 1972, one may see a candidate proposing complete withdrawal, another adherence to our commitments. The American people will have the opportunity to say what they want to do," ended Goldwater.

A question and answer period followed in which a number of questions involving areas of the Supreme Court, the war and the welfare system, were raised.

The audience was greatly receptive and responsive to Goldwater's answers.

Food Survey Reveals Favorite Foods

By Becky Carter

The results of the Food Preference Survey has revealed some of the student likes and dislikes concerning cafeteria food. Of the 620 students polled, only 489 handed in legible forms.

According to Mr. Steve Bucko, manager of the food service, the majority of the students polled consider the preparation, appearance, temperature and quantity of the food as acceptable or above average.

For the majority of the students, solid meat items were considered important to the menu. Some of the more popular choices were roast beef, steak, roast turkey, chicken in different forms and Italian dishes. Some of the more disliked foods were ham loaf, roast veal, baked halibut, lamb stew and corned beef.

Mr. Bucko considers the results of the survey an important tool in planning future menus and plans to comply with the wishes of the students. Mr. Bucko stated that the cafeteria did not want to become repetitious in serving certain foods but they do want to serve foods liked most by the students.
