LIBERAL ARTS FORUM SPONSORS ANNUAL SYMPOSIUM WEEK APRIL 19-24

By Phil Larrabee

The Elon College Liberal Arts Forum will sponsor its annual Symposium Week April 19-24. This year's list of guests and speakers is, as usual, an impressive one.

The forum's guests for the week include:

Recital organist Robert B. King. Mr. King has studied organ at Furman University and won the Prix de Virtuosite from the Schola Cantorum in Paris, as a recipient of a Fulbright award. He is presently Organist-Choirmaster of the First Presbyterian Church in Burlington, N.C., and has been a member of the music faculty of Elon College.

Professor Kemp Malone, Emeritus Professor of Linguistics and Philology at the Johns Hopkins University. He has been honored by governments in Europe and North America for his distinguished achievements in Old English and in early Medieval scholarship. This represents the third consecutive symposium in which he has participated.

Professor Roland H. Bainton, Emeritus Professor of Church History at Yale University. Born in England but educated in the United States, Professor Bainton is renown throughout the academic world for his distinguished and prolific contribution to the scholarly literature of the Reformation period. Among his many honorary degrees is one from the University of Marburg in Germany.

O. B. Hardison, Jr. who will present the fourth in his series of six Humanities Lectures. In the spring of 1966, he appeared on the cover of Time magazine in an issue devoted to outstanding university teachers in the United States. In July of 1969 he succeeded Dr. Louis B. Wright as Director of the Folger Shakespeare Library.

Bertie Wilkinson who will deliver the Konstantinas Avizonis Memorial Lecture in History. A native of England and a graduate of the University of Manchester where he earned his Ph.D., Dr. Wilkinson has served as Professor of Medieval History at the University of Toronto since 1938. He founded and is the director of the Medieval Centre at Toronto which only recently awarded him the honorary Doctor of Laws degree.

Carlos Baker, who will give the Alfred Garvin and Mary Claire Engstrom Lecture in Literature. Professor Baker, who is best known to the reading public as the official biographer of Ernest Hemingway, is a specialist both in English romantic literature and in modern fiction and verse. He has taught at Princeton for over 20 years and now serves as the Woodrow Wilson Professor of Literature.

Eli M. Adams, the former Chairman of the Department of Philosophy at the
