Boston Baroque Sponsored By Lyceum Series Here

On Tuesday, April 21, the Boston Baroque Ensemble presented a concert in Whitley Auditorium under the auspices of the Lyceum Committee. Composed of Raymond Toubman, oboist; Sibylle Weigel, flutist; Robert Bizink, violinist; John Miller, bassoonist and music director; Olivia

Toubman, cellist; and John Gibbons, harpsichordist, it presented mostly works by famous masters. Combining three and four instruments as well as the six, it presented a very fresh musical sound made from material that many have thought died some 300 years ago.

Parking Lots

As for now, stated Dean Berry, the only solution is for students to accept the problems until they are corrected and for them to think of other students when they park in the wrong facilities or where they block other cars.

Correction

In last week's Maroon and Gold it was incorrectly stated that the new gym would be available to the physical education department only. The new physical education facility will include a teaching gym, that is, it will not be used for athletic contests and will not be equipped with bleachers. According to Coach Red Wilson, the facility will be open to all students, faculty and staff, as will the swimming pool. The Maroon and Gold regrets this error and is glad to correct it.

made 29 points and had numerous rebounds. Scott made several unbelievable passes, many of which his teammates found unbelievable too. Scott's team would have fared better had he forgotten to pass and taken some of the easy shots under the basket. The attendance was approximately 2,500, and when the game was over the crowd left with mixed emotions. Several stars did not show up, Scott was late to arrive and left quickly after the contest, the teams were poorly matched, but it was North Carolina basketball, and a chance to see the former UNC star, Charlie Scott play.

representation on several faculty committees, that this proposal should be given further consideration as more experience is gained with the representation which is being planned."

The question of co-ed visiting hours was also presented to the Education Committee. "The Committee felt that the proposal needed further consideration by both students and the Education Committee before being presented to the Board," said Dr. Danieleley.

President Danieleley asked Loy to appoint four students - two men and two women - to discuss the wearing of slacks and bermuda shorts to classes and in administration and faculty offices and to meals. These four students will "meet with Deans Berry, Looney, and Strum to develop these recommendations in more detail. Administrative action on the recommendations of the committee will follow immediately," he commented.

On the proposal to re-establish commuter mail box service on campus, Dr. Danieleley said, "This is an Administrative matter." He has asked Mr.

146 Pints for Bloodmobile

On Tuesday, April 14, the Red Cross Bloodmobile visited the Elon campus from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. The visit was coordinated by members of Iota Tau Kappa fraternity and Beta Omicron Beta sorority. The drive's goal of 150 pints was almost achieved, attaining 146 pints.

Larry McCauley, director of the Physical Plant, to discuss the service with Loy and to proceed to provide the service.

The last proposal, to have the Administration withhold final grades of students who are delinquent in the payment of their SGA fees, was passed by the committee and voted by the Board.

The Board of Trustees generally considers proposals which have been considered by one of the three standing committees: Business, Development, and Education. College Administrators W. E. Butler, Robert C. Baxter and Dean Fletcher Moore meet respectively with those committees.

WORTH TALKING ABOUT

To those who doubt the validity of our democracy, the value of our free enterprise system, and the vigor of our society, let us show our faith by deeds. Let us answer their protestation by our participation. Let us reply to their dissent by our involvement. Let the doubters be shown by the doers. . . . Let each of us as workers make our job our vocation. Let each of us as businessmen make our financial venture a human investment. Let each of us as parents make our house a home. Let each of us as citizens make our community a neighborhood.
