

Spring Activities Started By Greeks

By Roger Oliver

With pledging and initiation over, Elon Greeks have turned to other spring activities, such as banquets, public service, and fund raising.

Iota Tau Kappa, with the help of its sister sorority, Beta Omicron Beta, conducted a successful Blood Drive on April 14. The fraters have also been helping the Elon College home by giving parties and taking the children out to various functions. The fraternity held its banquet on April 25.

Tau Kappa Epsilon is resting following its Public Service Week-end. This year the fraters cleaned, painted and repaired North Park in Burlington on the weekend of May 1. The annual Red Carnation Ball was held on April 18 in Raleigh on the 20th floor of the new Holiday Inn. It was a great success. A truck wash is planned to raise money. New president is Rodney Miller.

TKE's sisters, Pi Kappa Tau, held their banquet April 25 in Winston-Salem. As usual, it was a tremendous affair. The sisters are continuing to serve as usherettes at Lyceum and other programs. Work in the various offices of Alamaance, is helping to build the sorority's treasury. De Dehart will serve as president next year.

Walton Leads Tennis Team

By Ernie Wilkinson

The Elon College tennis team is enjoying perhaps its best season in the past ten years. Coach Jerry Tolley attributes much of the credit for this to John Walton.

John Walton is a senior from Burlington, North Carolina. He is the captain of this year's team. This is the second time in as many years that he has assumed this position. John has been on the tennis team at Elon for all of his four years here. For the past two years he has assumed the number one position and is recognized throughout the Carolinas Conference as a very strong tennis player.

Coach Tolley says that John is having "a very fine year" and he is becoming stronger as the season progresses. Coach Tolley speaks highly not only of John's playing ability, but of his leadership abilities. John has had a great two years as captain of the team. Coach Tolley gives a great deal of credit for his (Coach Tolley) knowledge of tennis to John. Tolley said, "I was new to the game and John helped me a great deal."

As for honorary Greeks, Alpha Psi Omega pledges Bill Shaver, Bill Swartz and Al Watson have been cleaning up the Elon Campus as part of their pledge project.

"Where are most of Florida's fantastic floating islands?"

These floating islands, masses of vegetation that actually move about in the water, are located in Lake Griffin State Park, three miles north of Leesburgh, in one of the largest lakes in central Florida.

"Which bird flies the farthest round trip during its annual migration?"

The long distance migration record probably belongs to the Arctic tern, a sea bird which breeds within 8 degrees of the North Pole and winters in the Antarctic regions at the other extremity of the earth. To do this, the tern must fly about 12,000 miles in each direction.

The Colonnades: In Review

By David Spicer

After a year's absence from Elon, the COLONNADES was published recently. This magazine, which is a student publication, has in the past achieved a reputation for selecting only a small group of student's work. This year, however, the magazine swerved from this course and represented many students who had not published before (only four, as a matter of fact, had been selected for COLONNADES publication in the past). It also offered a wide variety of artistic genres: poetry, fiction, drama, sketches, and photography. Although some of the material in the Colonnades was very mediocre, the magazine contained many works which testify to the fact that many Elon students are creative, thinking beings instead of the blobs they are stereotyped as. These works also testified that the COLONNADES should be published every year.

a person who is extremely happy in his present situation. If any one song were to stand out from the others, it would be "Maybe I'm Amazed," a song which I believe will rank with his classics of "Hey Jude," and "Yesterday."

In the past it has been, in the majority of cases, bad luck for a person to break from a group and try to make it on his own. But, in the future, I believe we will see more of the big name groups splintering or dissolving and a major emphasis placed on the individual artist and his individual work.

Speaking before a group of Elon College students and faculty members, Dr. Arthur Larson explored the subject of "Protests, Extremism and the Not-So-Silent Majority" Friday, April 24 in McEwen Dining Hall.

Dr. Larson, a one time adviser to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, is a true diplomat, scholar, and statesman.

In his speech, he stated that there is a definite difference between legitimate protestors and the extremists such as the Weathermen and the Black Panthers.

According to Dr. Larson, most protest today has stemmed from the Vietnam War. Perhaps not all protests are about the war itself but the fact that we got ourselves into it. Dr. Larson seemed to feel that we should not have gotten involved in the first place and that there is no legitimate action that we can now take to get out.

In 1964, the people of the United States voted for President Lyndon Johnson who escalated the war. The fact that we, as Americans, elected him left us no other means for protest except illegitimate channels.

According to Dr. Larson, Martin Luther King was successful in his movement. The American Negro has progressed much in the past ten years. Before 1963, the extremists in our country were on the "Right" side such as The John Birch Society and the Minutemen. Now, however, they are on the left wing.

Behind every act of civil rights legislature there has been an act of violence such as the killing of M. Evers and the assault on Meredith. This proves that violence spurs adversaries to action. Each act of violence on the extreme right instigated legislation which defeated that same side. In other words, according to Dr. Larson, violence defeats its purpose.

Dr. Larson further stated that the majority of the people can not be listened to. President Nixon was elected by the "Silent Majority" and had no backing from strong minority groups such as Negroes or Puerto Ricans. If he listens to his electors, he will overlook the rights of minority groups. However, the minority has to have a voice.

According to Dr. Larson, we need liberals in the majority to sympathize with minority groups. Without them, the United States has real problems. Legitimate protest is useful and good and the President must listen to the protestors. Extremists, however, are defeating their purpose.

fault in the magazine was its editing. The magazine received many works that were rejected for reasons not related to their value as literary accomplishments. Instead of publishing poems that portrayed life as it is today; i. e. as brutal and realistic, it printed sentimental feelings expressed in poetic feeling. The main thing the editors failed to recognize was that poetry must be concise and concrete in order to be called poetry. Just because a student spurts out fourteen lines in a poetic rather than prose form, it does not mean that those lines constitute a poem. The only works that really could be classified as poems, and in this case, good poems of considerable literary value, were "White Joy" and "Soul at Peace" by Barry Simpson, "Summer Shadows" by Bonnie Dorman, the untitled poem on page 22 by Carl Reynolds, "With My Eyes" by John
