

Played at Elon College Kentucky coach appointed

About three years ago, Debbie Yow helped Elon's women's basketball team defeat the University of Kentucky's basketball squad in a regional tournament.

Now she has been appointed Kentucky's coach -- the first full-time women's basketball or any athletic coach in the state. Miss Yow believes her Kentucky team just needs time to develop.

Miss Yow, whose sister Kay Yow coaches at N.C. State, believes that she can build the Kentucky program up to one of great quality and good competition.

Cheer on, gang

The 1976-77 cheerleading squad is boosting Elon College school spirit as the Christians battle other colleges and universities.

The cheerleading squad is made up of Catherine Watkins, Kathleen Butler, Gwendolyn Crawford, Karon DeClark, Eve Donahue, Christy Jones, Lynn Nessett, Ann Washburn, and Mary Womber. The new adviser for the spirited group is Coach Barbara Yarborough.

Students are urged to support the teams this year and join with the '76 cheerleaders to boost Elon College to many victories this year.

Ski course is offered to Elon students

Elon College in conjunction with the French-Swiss Ski College in Blowing Rock, N.C. will hold a snow skiing class open to Elon students Dec. 19-23. "The experience is one which every college student should have before he or she graduates," commented Elon instructor Don Kelly.

The fee for the classes is $75 which includes a variety of items: five sessions of skiing (1 night, 4 days) unlimited instruction, all equipment, boots, skis and poles, slope fees, lift fees, lodging for five nights, accident insurance, and membership in the French-Swiss Ski Club.

One of the teaching topics will be the "learn stop power." The revolutionary new technique is used to teach how to stop and control snow skis the first time you put them on. It was developed for the U.S. Army 5th Special Forces Green Beret Winter Training Orbit Shot I and II.

The five-day class is open to all Elon students. Those interested should contact Don Kelly in the P.E. department as soon as possible concerning registration.
