Dany Bass and Carl E. defeated the team of Bill Sharpe and Herby Spruill to win the annual spring SUB spades tournament.

Volume IV Number 19

Elon College, North Carolina

March 16, 1978

Spring symposium, April 11-14

Forum commemorates 20th year

Elon College will celebrate its 20th annual Spring Sympos-ium this year when "Myth, ium this year when "Myth, Dream and Archetype" will be explored by critical thinkers in their fields.

The symposium will be held on campus April 11-14 and is open to the public.

A special feature of this A special feature of year's symposium will be the presentation of "Noye's Fludde," a medieval Chester Miracle Play set to music by the eminent 20th century English composer Benjamin Brit-ten and directed at Elon by Dr. Walter Westafer, chairman of the department of fine arts. The Liberal Arts Forum is a committee composed of Elon College students. Founded in 1958, its principle function has been to foster intellectual and cultural interests. Forum events tend to concentrate on the humanities in the widest sense of the term.

said the Spring Symposium this dream, year promises to be one of the realities deeper than we know, most interesting in its 20-year he said.

Modern man is also recoverespect for arche-understand, we tell stories to of every person who comes explain what makes our form into the world. There are of life worthwhile." These archetypal themes, such as the stories, he said, have the search for identity and the fall quality of myths. Myth isn't into knowledge-sex-guilt. There seen as a fiction which is dispensable when science advances. Myth is seen as a way of perceiving the deep truth of the human journey.

this deeper sense of myth, along with a respect for dreams.

"Our dream-life somehow complements and sheds light he humanities in the widest upon our waking-life. The world of dreams, of the deeper Dr. John G. Sullivan, chair-layers of the unconscious,

The Liberal Arts Forum of on College will celebrate its the annual Spring Symposium this year when "Myth, said the Spring Symposium this dreams put us in touch with the said the Spring Symposium this dreams put us in touch with the said the Spring Symposium this dreams put us in touch with the said the Spring Symposium this dreams put us in touch with the said the Spring Symposium this dreams put us in touch with the said the Spring Symposium this dreams put us in touch with the said the Spring Symposium this dreams put us in touch with the said the said

"In living, we act out life ering a respect for archestories," Dr. Sullivan extypes, those universal, recurplained. "Our life has the rent patterns that stand as quality of ritual. In seeking to interpretation of the journey are archetypal images, such as the young hero and the wise old man, or the earth mother. These images and themes emerge in our dreams, remind Today, we are recovering us of the most ancient myths, resonate in our art and poetry. to our deepest dreams.
"In exploring

exploring

cont. p. 3

Elon graduate, Paige Garriques, elected to a two-year board

Commuters voice discontent with new election bill

by Victoria Huffman

A commuter meeting held in Long Student Center last Thursday morning reflected the general frustration of commuters concerning the recently passed SGA election bill which revises election procedures of the college.

Charles V. Hopkins, senior class president, was on hand to discuss the bill with the day students. Sylvia Buckner, representing commuters, said that commuters at Elon have represented the students of the stud no identity. Ms. Buckener stated that since commuters have no base from which to work, they are expected to "tag along" under the new election bill with candidates of dormitories, fraternities or so-

Other commuters expressed their reactions to Mr. Hopkins' statements that perhaps commuters are not so concommuters are not so con-cerned about the college elec-tion precedures since they are not active in attending SGA meetings and the like. Mr. Hopkins asked the question, "Why should we (the SGA) have to come to you (commuters) with information?"
He said that it is the responsibility of concerned students to find out information for themselves. To these responses, commuters explained the difficulties of finding babysitters in order to attend evening meetings, the respon-sibility of students who are at work when meetings are held, in Long Center every Thursday and the difficulty of traveling morning at 9:30.

great distances back to the college to attend meetings after class hours.

Finally, it was brought out that there is no effective communication for commuters since information bulletins are not placed in various buildings campus. A request was made that information bulletins be placed in several buildings in order that all commuters have a chance to be informed on matters of in-

Since commuters are attempting to organize into a unified group, all commuting students are urged to become involved in the meetings held

Two new trustees elected

Two new trustees were elected to the Elon College Board of Trustees during the annual Spring meeting on Wednesday, March 8.

Miss Paige Garriques, a 1977 graduate of Elon, was elected to serve a two-year term on the board. Maurice Jennings, president of Biscuitville, Inc. of Burlington, was elected to a four-year term. Both trustees will take office on July 1.

Jennings is a native of Burlington and attended public schools and Elon College. He is a prominent civic and church leader and a member of the First Baptist Church of Burlington where he serves on the finance committee.

A native of Potomac, Md., Miss Garriques now lives in Burlington, where she is a social worker trainee for the Alamance County Department of Social Services

She was graduated Magna Cum Laude with a double major in philosophy and Eng-lish. While at Elon she was Cum Laude editor of the campus newspaper and co-chairman of the Liberal Arts Forum. A student government senator and litermagazine staff member, she was chairman of the fine arts committee and a member of the student union board.

Elon College President Dr. Fred Young said the diverse backgrounds of the two new trustees should bring an added measure of dynamics to the

"Miss Garriques is very outgoing and will be a good representative of student opin-ion," Dr. Young noted. "Mr. Jennings' business background is expected to add a measure of experience to the financial management of the institution. I think we have found two fine people to complement our board of trustees."

In another event during last week's board meeting, Secretary of State Thad Eure won re-election as chairman of the board. Other officers elected were Royall Spence Jr. of Greensboro, vice chairman, Greensboro, vice chairman, and T.E. Powell III of Burlington, secretary.

The trustees also approved a $5.8 million budget for the 1978-79 fiscal year. The increase will be reflected in a $120 boost in yearly tuition and $55 in board. No increase in room rates was necessary

Elon to host AAUP legislative seminar

"Prospects for Higher Edu-tion" will be discussed at the annual legislative seminar of the North Carolina Conference of the American Association of University Professors being held today at the Burlington Hilton. Hosts for the conference seminar are members of the Elon College Chapter of the AAUP.

The seminar has been arranged by the AAUP state committee on legislation, committee chaired by Prof. Henry Ferrell, history department, East Carolina University, to allow faculmembers, administrators, into two panel sessions, one at 4 ·p.m., with Dr. Ferrell as moderator and with panelists Harlan Boyles, N.C. State Treasurer; James Ferguson, chancellor of UNC-G; Grady Love, president of Davidson County Community College; Sen. Ralph Scott of Alamance County; and Roger Marshall, representing the administration of Duke University.

After a social hour at 6 p.m. and dinner at 6:30, the group cont. p. 3 and legislators to discuss issues of 50 to 60 will reassemble of mutual concern in higher for the second session when ducation.

The seminar will be divided into two panel sessions, one at will moderate a discussion led by panelists Sen. Roger Sharpe, Morganton; Rep. Carl Ste-wart, Gastonia, speaker of the house; Rep. John Gamble, Lincolnton; Rep. J.P. Huskins. Statesville; and Rep. Henry Frye, Greensboro.

Notable guests for the semi-nar include President William Friday of the UNC; Dr. Cameron West, N.C. Association of

Senate passes three bills

by Bryant Colson

The SGA Senate, being more consistent in attendance, met last Thursday for its first session in March

During this meeting three bills were introduced and brought on the floor for voting. First a bill was passed unanimously to allocate $125 in travel expenditures for the member of the National Supervisory Board of the National Student Association from Elon. Senator Robin

Moser currently serves on N.S.B.

A bill to approve the revised SGA budget for 77-78 was approved. Also a resolution passed to request a crosswalk on Williamson Ave. for stu-

A resolution to improve the safety at two entrances to NC 100 was introduced. The resolution asked that the first

cont. p. 3