...Spring '79

As spring returns at last to Elon's campus, the T.K.E. brothers held a car wash to help remove the winter's coating of mud, dust, and grime from the cars of those who would stop by. Proceeds from the car wash went to one of T.K.E.'s many worthy causes. Photo by John Hurd.

Elon College rates high in low tuitions

by J. King White

In this day and age a quality college education has become a necessity in preparing young adults for the challenges of "the working world." With prices for everything from food to fuel constantly rising, institutions of higher learning must strive to remain affordable. To date, Elon College has one of the lowest tuition rates per student for private institutions in North Carolina — only Atlantic Christian College has a lower rate.

Student tuition fees pay for a surprisingly small portion of the amount required to operate a small college. At Elon, for example, tuition and fees account for only 60-70 percent of the funds needed to meet expenses. The other 30-40 percent has to be procured through various means, including grants, earnings from established endowment funds, and contributions from individuals, foundations, businesses and industry. Income from these other sources is a very important factor in the quality of education the college can provide, and determines whether future tuition increases will be necessary.

Town to get new switching station

by Bob Henritze

Southern Bell plans to build an electric switching station on the site of the car wash in Elon College.

The electric switching station is an advanced form of relaying calls. Giving your number to the operator each time a long-distance call is placed will be eliminated with this system. Other advantages will be the possibility of many multi-party or conference calls and touch-tone dialing.

The electric switching station (ECS) will primarily be an operations building employing only two people. The ESS will route all 584-exchanges, thereby increasing efficiency.

The completion date set by Southern Bell for this station is May 24, 1980, and all services should be changed by February 7, 1981, according to a Southern Bell technician.

This shapely Elon coed took time out from her sunning to pose for our photographer. She is one of many Elon students who are taking full advantage of the recent and, we hope, prolonged, spring weather. Photo by John Hurd.
