Female tennis results

The women's tennis team won their first match Monday afternoon, defeating Pfeiffer 7-2. Sanda Gonzalez lost at number one, but the rest of the top six were victorious.

Karen Wall, playing number two, and Mary Beth Hughes, at number three, won in three sets. Winning in straight sets were Wendy Warren and Amy Burch, playing numbers five and six respectively. Kate Jewett won at number four by default.

In doubles, Gonzalez and Hughes lost a tough match, 7-5, 6-4. Warren and Jewett won in three, and Wall and Burch won by default.

The team plays at Wingate this afternoon and Lenoir Rhyne tomorrow.

Lainberry places 2nd

Jay Lainberry, a 126-pound freshman concluded his wrestling season by establishing an 17-3 overall record to earn an invitation to the Nationals at Central State University in Edmond, Okla.

The transfer student from U.N.C. at Chapel Hill was elected champion at the Catawba Tournament as well as the Washington and Lee Tournament. He also placed second in the conference and district competition.

Throughout the season, the three defeats came from All-Americans. Lainberry won one and lost one at the Oklahoma nationals. During the defeat match, he broke his hand, but he is now looking forward to returning to the nationals next year.

Elon wins tourney bid

Coach Mary Jackson's Golden Girls will be traveling to Lenoir Rhyne College this weekend to begin play in the Regional Tournament.

After winning the Carolinas Conference and taking third place in the NAIWA Division II Tournament, the Golden Girls posted a 27-2 overall record. A conference meeting was held Sunday night to discuss whether Elon should get a bid to the regionals.

The conference ruled that with Elon's outstanding record and conference championship, the team should be eligible to compete in the Regional Tournament.

Carolinas Conference coach of the year, Mary Jackson, is very enthusiastic about being able to compete in the tournament. The girls never gave up hope and practiced several times this past week to be prepared if the ruling was passed for their bid.

Intramural racquetball has begun and last year's winners are dominating the court again. Men's and women's singles are being played daily on individual challenges on the ladder.

The men's singles division is in tight competition but Mark VanKirk has pulled ahead one notch up the ladder in front of the rest. He won his division last year but was beaten in the final tournament by Kyle Wills who is now on the approach up the ladder.

In the women's singles tournament, Susie George and Linda Blythe are ready for the semi-finals. Susie George won the women's championship last year.

Basketball continues to have dominating teams in each division. The fraternities are being led by NHG, 6-0, and KA-A, 5-1, in division I, while in division II, Devo Foods #1 are in control at 6-0 and Sig Ep Pearls follow with 5-1.

The three dorm division leaders are Studio 26, 7-0; Triad Bombers, 6-1; and Heads, 7-0. In the women's division the Prime Time Players are leading 6-0, and the Swat Team is in a tight second place with 6-1.

Intramural softball will soon be getting underway. A managers meeting is called for Tuesday, March 17, at 7 p.m. in the Jordan Gym classroom.

Graphic artist raises some eyebrows

"The painting definitely stopped people and raised some eyebrows," says Dean Jones, 19, graphics artist who joined the Learning Resource Center last November, about his latest painting displayed in the LRC last week.

Jones came to Elon College from the North Carolina School of Arts in Winston-Salem to which he plans to return to complete a bachelor of fine arts degree. His specialties include acting and theater design. Some day he would like to study at the American Academy of Dramatic Art in New York City.

A native of Burlington, Jones attended Southern High School from which he was graduated in 1979. From Southern he won a place at the School of Arts. His appreciation for the visual arts is eclectic, he says, for he likes what is good in various schools of painting and of different eras. He tries to experiment in varied media and to mix some of them for heightened effects.

and we plan to involve ourselves as much as possible with some of the children," said John Daye.

The brothers have expressed a concern about starting to involve one's self in a young person's life and then suddenly disappearing. "Volunteer work is one of the most rewarding experiences in anybody's life," commented John, "and we plan to continue to give as much time as we have to help somebody else feel good."

energetic.

The rest of the movie is filled up with Tomlin, Fontana, and Parton each indulging fantasies of doing Hart in. Then there's a long chase sequence that turns the heroines into hysterical female stereotypes.

Finally the movie ends as expected — happy, which is what makes the movie glow.
