Forum to explore marriage

Beginning with the film "Scenes from a Marriage," at 7:30 p.m. on April 13 in Mooney Theatre, the Liberal Arts Forum will explore the question, "Does Marriage Have a Future?"

A workshop, "Decision-Making for Dual-Career Couples," will be conducted at 8 p.m. in the lounge of The Oaks dormitory complex on April 15, by Jim Hackney and Len Brinkley.

Hackney, in career development and placement as well as area coordinator of student affairs, is a graduate of Wofford College and Yale University Divinity School.

Mrs. Brinkley, a career development counselor with Lifespan Center and director of financial aid at Salem College, graduated from Salem College and Florida State University with a master's in career development.

Both Hackney and Brinkley have done research on dual-career decision-making and have presented workshops and lectures on the topic.

"Marriage: Absolute or Obsolete" will be the topic of a lecture by the Rev. Donna Schaper at 8 p.m. April 20 in Whitley Auditorium.

Ms. Schaper, pastor of the First Congregational Church in Amherst, Mass., served earlier as associate chaplain at Yale University. She also had experience as the urban minister at the Tabernacle Church, Philadelphia, as associate pastor of the First Congregational Church in Tucson, and campus ministry intern at Gettysburg College.

She majored in English and minored in sociology at Gettysburg College and holds the M.A. degree in divinity from the University of Chicago, and a master's degree in divinity from the Spring has finally arrived with its warm, sunny days and temptations to be outside. This weather brings out the sunbather in many Elon students. These sun worshippers relax on Elon's "Virginia Beach." These bathing beauties caught the eye of a Pendulum photographer. Staff Photo.

Aiello reads paper at Alpha Chi convention of the three ahead of him does not take up the scholarship. He is a rising senior at Elon.

"It was the interdisciplinary liberal arts atmosphere, as opposed to a professional meeting, that made this convention exciting for me," Aiello says.

Wendy Ford and Nancy McLawhorn, students, and Dr. Robert G. Blake, Alpha Chi chapter sponsor and president of Region III, also attended the convention.

Aiello with a grade point average of 3.82 has had several honors already at Elon. He received a $1000 Humanities Scholarship during his sophomore and junior years. He is on the Honors Program Advisory Board and was the college nominee for the Truman Scholarship.

This senior English major plans to attend law school; which one will depend upon his LSAT in the summer. He has served as first assistant to the student attorney general, a member of the SGA Senate, twice editor of Colonnades literary magazine; a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, leadership society; president of Sigma Tau Delta, English honorary; and member of Phi Alpha Theta, history honor society.

Media Board chooses editors

Leaders of Elon College student communications for 1981-82 have recently been designated by the Media Board.

Charlotte Alford, a junior from Burlington, assumes the editorship of the campus literary magazine, Colonnades. Staff adviser is Dr. Andy Angyal.

At the helm of the Phi Psi Chi yearbook next year will be Ann Wickham as editor-in-chief, with Diane Mc-Sheehy and Bryan Crook as associate editors. Wickham served as editor of the 1980 edition, while McSheehy and Crook are newcomers to the staff. Dr. Mary Brittain advises the yearbook staff.

Vic Vickers, a junior, takes the post of manager at WSOE—FM radio station. Vickers served as WSOE music director during 1980, with Professor Gerald Gibson as adviser.

Previously announced co-editors of The Pendulum are Teresa Warren and Mari Behrend, both juniors and veteran members of the newspaper staff. Dr. Mary Ellen Priestley serves as staff adviser.

Bill Sharpe, chairman of the Media Board, says he is extremely pleased by the enthusiasm and experience of the leaders of student media for 1981-82.

Greeks plan competitive weekend

The Greeks of Elon College will open their annual competition on April 9, the beginning of Greek Weekend.

A committee of two representatives from each sorority and fraternity, as well as two co-presidents and a treasurer, have prepared a program of 45 events.

The Greeks will challenge each other at several athletic events. They will run the track, dive into the pool, race in their chariots and throw eggs at each other. For non-athletes, a backgammon contest will be held. These, however, are just a few of the events planned.

"Greek Weekend is a time when all the Greeks can unite in competition and get unified as a whole for an enjoyable time," says Vicki Shaw, treasurer of the Greek Weekend Committee.

Each Greek organization hopes for a successful weekend. Non-Greeks are invited to attend all the events and witness what each Greek member considers one of the most important weekends of each year.

Paul Aiello, a member of the Elon College chapter of Alpha Chi, recently presented a paper on Hawthorne's work to the National Alpha Chi convention. Photo by Avrette.

"What we gained at the national Alpha Chi convention in Nashville was the discovery that so many people out there are academic and like the academic atmosphere," says Paul Aiello, English major who gave a paper on Hawthorne's fiction before "about 60 people who were very receptive."

Aiello was also named runner-up for the Nolle scholarship, a $400 stipend to be used during undergraduate work. He will not receive the award unless one
