

IFC plans to improve frat rush

The Inter-Fraternal Council (IFC), an organization composed of each fraternity's president and an elected representative, has made plans to improve this fall's fraternity rush program.

The IFC is attempting to unify the six fraternities on campus and has scheduled designated dates, Sept. 23, 24, 25 and 30, Oct. 1 and Oct. 2 for fall rush.

Each individual fraternity has chosen one of these six nights to hold its formal rush. Only on that night will the fraternity be allowed to rush prospects. Sept. 26 through 29 is considered open rush for all the fraternities and any of them are free to rush.

After the last fraternity has its formal rush party on Oct. 2, rush will be closed until fraternity bids go out on Oct. 8.

This Sunday, Sept. 20, at 2 p.m., all of the fraternities will be holding an open house.

Entertainment abounds near Elon

by Teresa Warren

Burlington, Graham and the surrounding cities offer Elon College students many opportunities for theater, music, art and fun.

The 32nd annual Alamance County Veterans Fair is available for the entertainment of Elon students through Saturday night. The fair is located on Huffman Mill Road and will offer exhibits and the Magic Midway Amusement Company Show.

Mike Cross, instrumentalist and singer-songwriter, will be appearing Friday, Sept. 18, at 8 p.m. and again at midnight on Duke University's campus.

The North Carolina Symphony will stage a free pops concert in Chapel Hill's Forest Theater on Sunday, Sept. 20, at 4 p.m. Concertgoers are encouraged to bring blankets and picnic lunches to the event.

The symphony will also present a pops concert at Cummings High School in Burlington, Thursday, Sept. 24, at 8 p.m. Eric Knight will be the conductor.

The Barn Dinner Theater, located at 120 Stagecoach Trail in Greensboro, is currently presenting "Ten Nights in the Barroom." The show starts nightly at 8:30 except Mondays, and the doors open for dinner at 6 p.m.

"Arsenic and Old Lace" is also still running at the Pinehurst Dinner Theater. The performance will be at 8:40 tonight. Dinner will be served from 7 until 8:20 p.m.

The North Carolina Shakespeare Festival is still sponsoring "Just A Song" at the High Point Theater at 220 E. Commerce St. The presentation will begin tonight at 8:15, and a matinee performance will be given Sunday, Sept. 20, at 2 p.m.

"The Front Page," by Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur, is being presented by the Playmakers Repertory Company at Paul Green Theater in Chapel Hill. Performances will be given today through Saturday, Sept. 19, at 8 p.m. Shows will be at 2 and 8 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 20.

In the area of art, the locality offers Priestley Art Gallery, located adjacent to Elon's campus on Williamson Avenue. The gallery is currently sponsoring "Art For Sportsmen and Nature Lovers" through Oct. 3. Anyone may visit the gallery, which is open from 1 to 6 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday.

The Alamance County Arts Council is presenting the costumes and costume design of the Playmaker Repertory Company and Carolina Playmakers from Chapel Hill. In gallery II, the watercolors of Dodie James are open to the public, while gallery III is sponsoring the handicrafts of local senior citizens. The Firehouse Galleries at 135 W. Elm St. in Graham is open 9 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Community concert to open

The Alamance Community Concert Association will begin its fall campaign Monday, Sept. 21, through Friday, Sept. 25.

In the past, Elon faculty, staff and students could use their Elon I.D. as a membership card. Now Elon people have to join the association to attend the performances.

All concerts will be held at Cummings High School auditorium at 8 p.m.

According to Gayle Scott, Medical Technology program director and campus liaison for the association, the 1981-82 season offers: The Magical World of Shigema Matsumoto, October 13, 1981

"Miss Matsumoto is a Japanese-American soprano who is stunningly beautiful and has a voice to match. The first half of her program will be Japanese folk songs accompanied by the Koto with the artist in Japanese national costumes. The second half will be a variety of musical numbers by the artist accompanied by the piano, and with the artist in a traditional evening gown."

The New York Vocal Arts Ensemble, December 1, 1981
"The New York Vocal

Arts Ensemble will provide music ranging from madrigals to part-song and from Renaissance music to pure Americana. The group consists of a soprano, mezzo-soprano, tenor, brass-baritone, and the pianist/leader. All the singers have outstanding voices."

Keith and Rusty McNeill, April 1, 1982

"The McNeils will present a "Celebration of American Heritage in Folksong." During the evening they will play more than 30 folk instruments including the five-string banjo, guitar, bagpipes, African drums, and clarinet. They are frequently invited to return to an area due to their highly entertaining program."

Stecher and Horowitz, April 13, 1982

"Stecher and Horowitz are internationally-acclaimed duo pianists who travel with two perfectly matched Stein-ways. Their program will contain such variety as Gershwin and Chopin. Their virtuosity and versatility should delight the audience."
