

REA COORDINATOR—Suzanne Stevens pauses from her Iarper Center work. Photo by Nader Hamidpour.

New coordinator calling the shots

by Belinda Peoples

Suzanne Stevens, the new area coordinator of the iving-Learning Center, arrived at Elon College full force. ust as she is becoming familiar with Elon's policies and tudents, students are becoming familiar with Suzanne.

A native Tar Heel, Suzanne enjoys North Carolina. After wo years at Davidson Community College, Suzanne ransferred to UNC-Charlotte, where she received a B.A. elegree in human development and learning in 1979. Before coming to Elon she attended graduate school at the University of Florida, where she received a master's of ducation with a concentration in student personnel in higher

"Elon feels like home," Suzanne said. She likes Elon ecause "it is small enough to know who the people are." rofessionally, Elon offers her a chance to engage in ifferent areas of interest: advising, personal counseling, ssistant co-ordinator of housing, Staley flag-football and tudent affairs.

She said that being area co-ordinator gives her a chance to tilize her creative energies. "Harper Center," she insisted, has never exercised its fullest potential. It is supposed to be living-learning resource center, where students live and earn in the same environment."

She said that she and the resident counselors intend to rovide quality programs in six areas including intellectual, ocial, emotional, physical, spiritual and vocational interests. he Harper Center staff plans to hold forums, similar to the isitation forum held recently, to keep students aware of ssues on the Elon campus. Other plans include movies, lances, and parties. These ideas only provide the framework

f plans for Harper Center, she said. Aside from Suzanne's life at Elon, she enjoys backpacking; white water rafting; music, especially the piano; and sports. Suzanne joked, "I am a wife to my husband, Mark, on veekends!" She is also an organist for The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Saturday and Sunday Special

RIB-EYE

*325

w/salad bar, potato,

Texas toast

$ 7 25

BAR-B-O Sandwich French Fries & Tea CO-ED SPECIAL every night $250

Steak sandwich with lettuce, tomato, & mayonnaise, French fries, ice-cold beverage

Present Elon I.D. for meal 1836 S. Church St. 226-8602

Fun and games

Gibbs, Bellamys to perform

The North Carolina State Fair continues this week through Saturday, Oct. 24. Besides the usual attractions and exhibits, the Jack Kochman Hell Drivers are presenting three shows daily of driving skills and thrills at the Fairgrounds' Grandstand

A different performer will be in Dorton Arena each night for a show that is included as part of the $3 admission price.

Terri Gibbs, the pop and country singer who is known for the song, "Somebody's Knocking," will perform tonight in the arena. On Friday, Oct. 23, the Bellamy will delight audiences while Rex Allen, Jr. and Margo Smith will perform together on Saturday, Oct. 24.

All arena shows begin at 7 p.m. and are free of charge. MUSIC

The second Musical Arts Guild dinner and concert, featuring music that ranges from Dixieland jazz to opera, will be held tonight at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro at

The program, entitled "An Enchanted Evening," will begin with a 7 p.m. social hour and buffet dinner followed by the 8:15 concert. All of these events will be in Cone Ballroom of Elliott University Center.

The annual event is a semi-formal fund-raising program sponsored by the Musical Arts Guild for the UNC-G School of Music. More information is available by calling the School of Music office at 379-5789.

Coming soon to the Elon campus are the Conti-Guglia Brothers, duo-pianists, who will present a free concert Thursday, Oct. 29, at 8 p.m. in Whitley Auditorium. This concert is the first in the Lyceum Series programs offered to the public by the college.

The Weatherspoon Art Gallery on the UNC-Greensboro campus is presenting "Beach Paints," by James Tucker through Sunday, Nov. 8. "Plants in Art through the Centuries" will also be on exhibit through Nov. 8 and will be sponsored by the UNC-G Biology Department. This traveling exhibition from the Hunt Institute for Botanical Documentation at Carnegie-Mellon University offers 50 watercolors, drawings, and prints of the last five centuries of western civilization.

"Abeles, the First Twenty Years," a retrospective exhibition of prints and drawings by the noted graphic artist, Sigmund Abeles, will also be on display at the campus gallery. The Weatherspoon Art Gallery is open 10 a.m. -5 p.m. Tuesdays through Fridays and 2-6 p.m. on weekends.

"The Color of Autumn" in oils and watercolors by 19th and 20th century European and American painters is the featured exhibition at the Priestley Fine Arts Gallery through October. The gallery is located adjacent to Elon College. THEATER

"The Importance of Being Earnest" by Oscar Wilde will be presented by the Alabama Shakespeare Festival tonight at 8:15 in Aycock Auditorium on the UNC-Greensboro campus.

Then at UNC-Chapel Hill, "Betrayal" by Harold Pinter will be presented by the Carolina Playmakers Reportory Company at the Paul Green Theater. Perfomances are tonight and Tuesday, Oct. 27 through Saturday, Oct. 31 at 7:30 p.m. On Sunday, Oct. 25 and Sunday, Nov. 1, shows will be at 2 and 7:30 p.m. Ticket information is available by calling the box office at (919) 962-1121.

FILM

A film series about struggling relationships with family, society, and God is being sponsored by the Episcopal Church of the Holy Comforter in Burlington.

Orson Welles' "Citizen Kane" will run Friday, Oct. 23, and "A Man for All Seasons" will be shown on Friday, Oct. 30. Both films begin at 7 p.m. and are open to the public without charge. Discussions will follow the

Yorktown Battle honors ROTC cadets

The 200th anniversary of the Battle of Yorktown was celebrated by the Elon ROTC last week on the field by East Gymnasium. A short speech commemora-ting the event was delivered by Capt. Perman McIntosh and was followed by an awards ceremony.

The Distinguished Military Student award was presented to Hampton E. Hite for being in the top 10 percent of his military science class. and in the top third of his academic classes. Hite also received an award for recondo completion. This is a one-day session in confidence training that involves such activities as a 40-foot rope drop and a "slide for life" down a rail into water.

Michael King was awarded a certificate of completion for land navigation and joined as a recipient of a recondo completion award.

Other awards were certificates of completion for ROTC advanced camp going to Gerald Galloway, Michael Ross, Owen Studt, and Timothy Thompson. During camp, students developed marksmanship, skills in land navigation, first aid techniques, and leadership qualities.

All awards were presented by Col. Charles Jackson, professor of military science at North Carolina A&T University.

Personally Yours, Ltd. offers 25% off any fall skirt through Oct. 30

Special for Elon students, foculty! staff Bring this ad and receive 25% off any one box of imprinted stationery or notecards. Offer good through October 31.

Personally Yours Ltd. Located in the Bird's Mest