Gallery Players set drama

Come Back Little Sheba by William Inge will be performed by the Gallery Players this weekend at the Paramount Theatre on 128 E. Front St.

This classical drama revolves around the lives of Doc (Lloyd Skinner), a middle-aged chiropractor, who had to quit medical school to marry his frowsy wife Lola (Thelma Cousins), who lives her life dwelling in the past.

Doc, a reformed alcoholic, and Lola take in a college female border, Marie (Randi Kemp) to make ends meet. Doc takes to the bottle again when he sees Marie playing fast and loose with Turk (Jeff Pierce), a college athlete, forgetting her trustful fiancée, Bruce, in Cincinnati.

Doc then returns home and erupts into an avalanche of furry.

Come Back Little Sheba is directed by Susan Metz of Greensboro and concludes performances this weekend on Friday and Saturday nights at 8:15 p.m. and Sunday at 2:15 p.m.
