Elon students set to dance

Arts Alive hits stage Saturday

By Felicia Fogleman
Arts Editor

All arms of the Alamance Arts Council will participate in the Arts Alive in Alamance set for 8 p.m. Saturday at Cummings High School on Sellars Mill Road in Burlington.

Arts Alive began two years ago as part of the Arts Council's 25th anniversary. With such a success, Arts Alive is performed every year with a number of participants.

Performing Saturday will be The Gallery Players, the Woodwind Quintet, the Children's Theatre, the Reader's Theatre, Image Makers, the Alamance Chorale, and the Alamance Civic Dance Company.

Elon students will perform in this event also. Vickie Horne and Janet Schroeder will be guest dancers in the Broadway musical Cats.

Other Elon students who are members of the Alamance Civic Dance Company are Nigel Carlton, Robin Agnew, Tony Lupo, Felicia Fogleman, Ricky Ross, Tanya Carden, Jill Goodman and Jane Wellford, Elon dance instructor.

The civic company will perform four dances. Rodeo, a cowboy ballet; Playful Adagio, a slow ballet and modern dance solo; All Night Long, a jazz number based on African moves to present "break" moves, and Cats.

Students are admitted for $3 and general admission, $5.00.

Abernathy speaks tonight

Civil rights leader Ralph David Abernathy will speak at 8 p.m. tonight in Whitley Auditorium. Abernathy, at the side of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., when he was assassinated, succeeded his friend as president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference in 1968. Abernathy will help Elon College recognize Black History Month.
