

Musical Medley delights audience

By Patricia Aycock

If you are wondering what a Mozart lookalike, a Robbie Robot and a high school prom were doing in Alumni Gym last Sunday, then maybe you should have been there.

The cast of Up With People, with more than 120 young people from 14 different countries, performed to an enthusiastic crowd that clapped, whistled, swayed and sang along with the group.

The two-hour musical included a little bit of everything, from 50's medleys, including Elvis Presley's "Blue Suede Shoes," to more modern, computerized performance by "Robbie Robot and Transisters."

concert review

The stage was a pastel kaleidoscope of color as the performers whirled around stage, performing such dances as the cake walk, the Polka, breakdancing and even gymnastic feats.

Songs such as "What Color is God's Skin?" and "Can We Sing a Song of Peace?" expressed the group's concern with racism and war. Many other songs and dances represented various different countries such as Sweden, Mexico, Brazil, Yugoslavia, Belgium, Poland and Canada.

UP WITH PEOPLE—The group has performed before 8 million people and in over 47 countries. They appeared at the Alumni gym last Sunday evening.

song about their experiences traveling world wide. "It's the people who make the place memorable" expressed their basic theme of interest in people and in building better understanding among people of the world.

As for the people there Sunday night, Up With People gave them an entertaining experience. It was an "upper."
