longest international borders. In no other part of the world do such vast and stark contrast co-exist, according to a pamphlet being distributed by the group.

The students and staff will be living in the fellowship hall of a church in McAllen, Texas. Each day they will travel ten miles to the Reynosa, a community on the Mexico side of the border to work.

McBride said they are not sure what the work will be. "It could be we'll be helping to build a dwelling - a house"

The community the group will be helping to establish is sited on a dump. They have no electricity, no sewage and no clean water.

The total budget for the trip is $6,000. The group plans to give $1,500 of that to the Puentes de Cristo as a gift. They will be asking the entire college community for silver change donations.

Some of the remaining $4,500 will be funded by the college, but the majority must be raised by the group. They plan to raise some of this money by selling "shares" in the project.

The shares will cost $10 each. Shareholders will receive a printed shareholders certificate, a post card from the group while they are in Mexico, and an invitation to a dinner for the shareholders, where they will hear about the trip.

The group consist of Rev. McBride and Betsy Savage; Kristi Blake, Drew Christian, Missy Greaves, John McCormick, Marie Pilkington, Melisa Privett, Faith Uhar, Kim Stanly, and Anne Withers.

They plan to be traveling by van for approximately four days and will use the time to practice some conversational Spanish as well as to get to know one another better. "We see ourselves as ambassadors from our community to their community," said Betsy Savage.

Phon-a-thon

Things can get a little exciting. On the first night, one potential donor -- listed as Elon Class of '44--suggested he be taken off the list. He got thrown out of school in 1941, he explained.

"We get lots of stories," said Mrs. Stanley. "Some will say, 'I played football there; or I really enjoyed my time there:'"

The funds go for what Mrs. Stanley called "in and out" money, like utilities and maintenance. As with the United Fund, some local employees match their employees pledges.

Last year's efforts had a $150,000 goal and collected $159,000. This is the ninth year of the phone-a-thon.

Kennedy's Children illustrates five persons' lives who are shattered as a result of John F. Kennedy's assassination. Their personalities are molded by events which cause them to plunge into tragedy, confusion, change, and even newfound happiness.

The Elon College performers are Annette Saunders as Rona, a political reactionary whose life was once damaged by drug and riots; Karen Zeller as Carla, a tired, budding starlet whose life goal is to be the next Marilyn Monroe.

Peter Smith as Sparge, a confused person who relates his hardships and acquaintances to the bizarre world of off-Broadway and Stephanie Hulin as Wanda, schoolteacher for the underprivileged.

The final character, Marjorie, played by Williams High School senior John Crowe, son of Elon College Professor David Crowe is the typical American young man who is taken off to fight in Vietnam and struggles with the dilemma of serving God and fighting wars.

Kennedy's Children is directed by Todd Olson, Elon College instructor of drama.
