Elon College named David Hibbard as the new Sports Information Director last Monday. Hibbard, a 1989 Elon graduate, has spent the past four years as SID at Presbyterian College.

Elon's former Sports Information Director, Bill Grubbs, left the position to further his education.

"I'm gratified and excited to have this opportunity to return to Elon," Hibbard said in a press release. "I am impressed by the commitment Elon has made to its athletic program, and I look forward to being a part of the future success of Elon athletics."

Hibbard, 25, has spent his four years at Presbyterian building the sports information office from scratch.

Beside working as SID, Hibbard served as chairman of the South Atlantic Conference Sports Information Committee for two years, worked as David Hibbard statistical crew coordinator at three NAIA National Basketball Tournament and also earned several citations for excellence in producing athletic brochures and publications.

"We are delighted to have someone with David's knowledge and enthusiasm for our institution filling this important position," said Athletic Director, Dr. Alan White. "He is not only familiar with Elon, but with our SAC affiliates. We are confident he will provide the needed direction for this important support service to our programs."

Hibbard will begin working as SID at Elon May 17.
