

Hirsch to Teach at Elon

Readers' Digest writing fellow to enhance English program

Tandie Ebrahimi
Staff Reporter

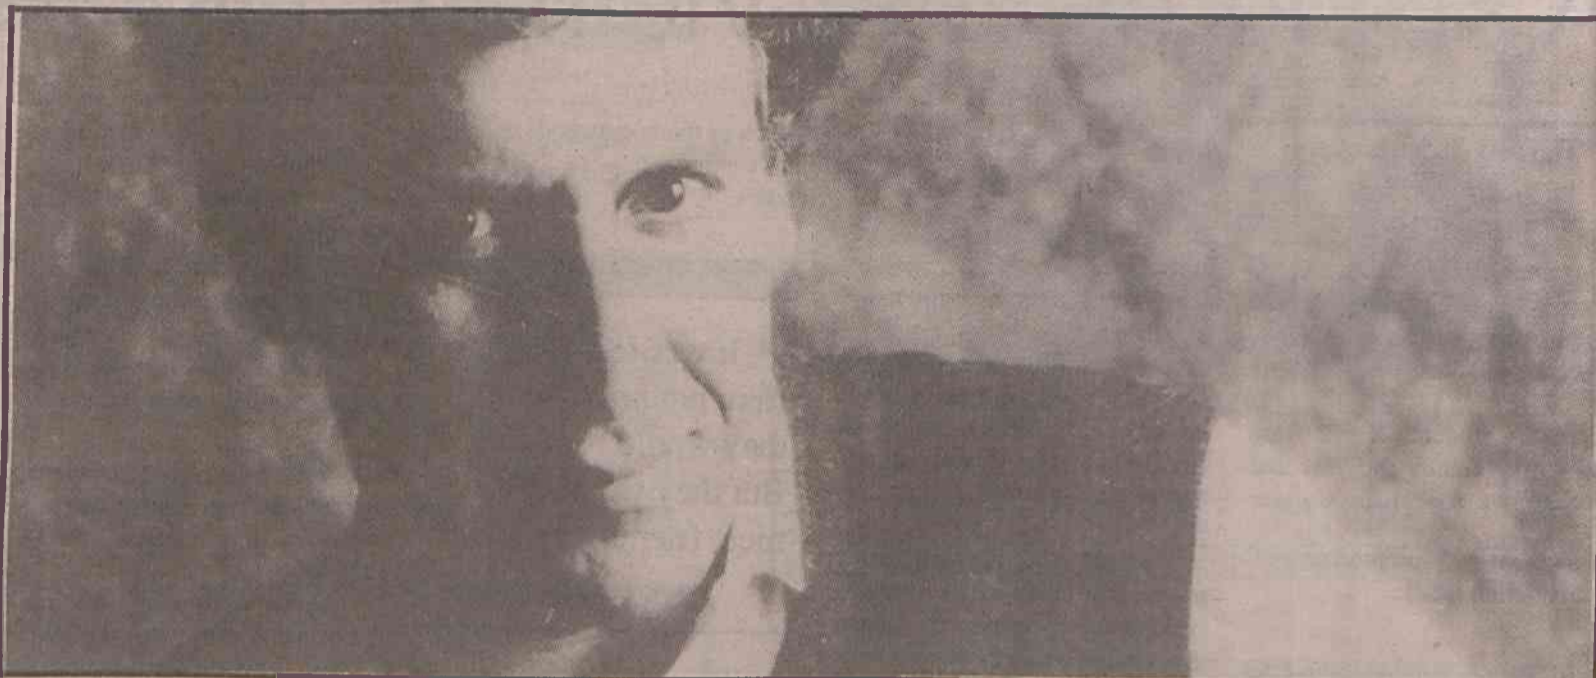

Elon has been chosen as one of 18 schools to participate in the Lila Wallace - Readers' Digest Writing Programs.

Elon will host writing fellow, Edward Hirsch teach during this academic year.

The faculty, students, and community will have the opportunity to work with him. He will be teaching ten classes ranging from fine arts and literature to writing and creative writing.

English professor Kevin Boyle is the coordinator for this program. Boyle said that Hirsch was chosen because his poems are accessible to the average reader.

He also says that he has a good reputation for interacting with students and his background as a professor is impressive.

File Photo

Some of his writings include Night Parade, Wild Gratitude, and For the Sleep Walkers. According to Boyle, his main themes focus on the praise or loss of a subject.

"It will be great to have a well-known writer on campus to talk with," said Boyle.

Hirsch will also be having a poetry reading on Sept. 29 in Yeager Recital Hall.

and The Burlington Writers Group.

Hirsch will be interacting with the community by working with the teachers of Eastern High School

He will teach at Elon for one week in September, one in November, and one in March.

E C T V		TV GUIDE
		7:30	8PM	8:30	9PM	9:30	10PM	10:30	11PM
T F S S	New Programming Coming Soon	ECTV News	Current Events	Vision Thing	Biology Review	Vietnam: A TV History
	CNN Programming				Movie Review	Deep Cover (R, 1:52, 1992) Starring: Larry Fishburne
	CNN Programming
	Popcorn Cinema					A River Runs Through It (PG, 2:03, 1992) Starring: Craig Sheffer, Brad Pitt, and Tom Skerritt			