

Elon Board of Trustees meet next week

Amy Logerwell
Asst. Managing Editor

The Elon College Board of Trustees will hold its spring meeting on March 8 in the Moseley Center at 10 a.m. and some members have high expectations.

"I expect we will have tenure coming up," said Barbara Bass, a trustee member and chair of the international affairs committee.

"We would also like to hear how the curriculum is going. The focus of the college is the curriculum," Bass said.

The Rev. G. Melvin Palmer, chairman of the board, said he won't go to the meetings with any preconceptions already made.

"The board has a mind of its own," Palmer said.

Palmer said they plan to follow the agenda and hear reports from committees and then make recommendations.

He did say, however, the board has been trying to have a better representation of women. Palmer said two women will be nominated for trustees and he expects them to be voted in.

Among the topics on the agenda are committee meetings on campus life, development, educational affairs and financial affairs. There will be an election of members, officers and trustees, and installation of members and officers.

During the board meeting, The Elon Vision will be discussed, as well as public relations, long range

...the key to the college is the curriculum."

-Barbara Bass, trustee member

planning, membership and development of the college.

Provost Gerald Francis will address the board on the Long Range Planning Committee's suggestions for the college. Among its priorities are the library, science and communications facilities.

Francis said he will make these recommendations to the trustees and "wait and see what they say."

"If all goes well we will send out our plans to all the faculty members," Francis said.

A new stadium is included in The Elon Vision, but Francis said the committee believes a library and science building are the first priority.

"I think in general a new library facility is very important," Bass said. "How we perceive it is very different though. We have a lot of options. We want the best facility and want to have the best approach."

President Fred Young, who is a board member by virtue of being the president, said last fall that his priorities for improvement of the college are the library, science facility and dining facilities.

In the afternoon, the trustees will hold their business meeting and hear recommendations from Educational and Financial Affairs committees. The trustees will also hear from the investment committee and talk about the construction and renovation projects.

The Board of Trustees meeting is scheduled to end at 3 p.m.

Last year, the trustees approved

The Elon Vision, a plan for Elon College "to be recognized as one of the top private undergraduate institutions in the region."

"We hope everything works out, but we'll go forth and see what happens," Francis said.

The Elon College Board of Trustees include 34 members. Six ex-officio members and three trustees emeritus, who are non-voting members.

Crime Watch

On Feb. 23, Ern S. Abernathy of Davidson, N.C., was cited on North Williamson Avenue and charged with possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Andrew W. Stowe of Springfield, Va., was cited on East Haggard Avenue and charged with running a red light.

On Feb. 24, an unknown vehicle collided with a 1989 Chevrolet owned by Kendall B. Yarboro of Roxboro, N.C., while the Chevrolet was parked in Jordan Center parking lot. Estimated damage to the vehicle was $150.

Sherri A. Tomlin of Elon College, N.C., was cited on Williamson Avenue and charged with underage possession of a malt beverage.

Joseph V. Mattern of Mebane, N.C., was cited on Haggard Avenue and charged with displaying an expired registration.

Matthew C. Livesay of Wanchese, N.C., was arrested on N. O'Kelly Avenue and charged with aiding and abetting a DWI. Bond was secured at $300.

On Feb. 25, a 1985 Ford collided with a 1990 Chrysler driven by Jason E. Fellows of Millington, Md. The accident occurred on West Haggard Avenue. Total estimated damage was $900.

On Feb. 27, Lynn F. Terrell of Elon College, N.C., reported that someone stole her mountain bike from the bike rack at College Manor Apartments. Estimated value was $390.

All information gathered from the Town of Elon College Police Reports.

THANK YOU TO THE FOLLOWING PEOPLE WHO SUPPORTED THE SENIOR CLASS GIFT BY BUYING A BRICK!!!

- Alpha Kappa Lamda
- Macon Albertson
- Jeremy Aldridge
- Josh Atwater
- Kimberly Baugher
- Karyn L. Cagno
- Dodie Carawan
- Craig Carter
- Penny Davis
- Virginia Ellington
- Thomas Ezell
- Suzie Ezell

- April Gilbreath
- Julie Hall
- Lisa Hall
- William Harvey III
- Cheryl Haworth
- Natalie Irvine
- Kerry Kirwan
- Michele McCormick
- Melissa Morrison
- Amy Mueller
- Tammy Plotka
- Amy Queen

- Naomi Shropshire
- Darby Soar
- Sean Stepleton
- Christina Vengazo
- Meredith Webster
- Tricia Wissinger
- Caroline Allred
- Zeta Tau Alpha

DON'T LET MAY ROLL AROUND WITHOUT LEAVING YOUR MARK ON ELON - BUY A BRICK!

CHECK YOUR CAMPUS BOX FOR INFORMATION OR STOP BY THE DEVELOPMENT OFFICE.