

5 Film minor could make it into the big picture at Elon.

7 T.G.I.F. on Moseley's terrace gives students a place to relax after a long week.

10 Golf team keeps on swinging through season.

REMINDER:
See your adviser about next semester's class schedule!!

THE PENDULUM

April 6, 1995

Informing the Elon College Community

Volume XX, Number 20

VP candidates review in progress

Amy Logerwell
Asst. Managing Editor

After two weeks of vice presidential candidates visiting the college, the Academic Vice President Search Committee, provost and president are reviewing the evaluations made by faculty, staff and students.

"Now it's really a lot of paper work," said Jean Schwind, English professor and member of the search committee.

The four candidates finished their visits March 24.

The four candidates are:

- Richard Bernard, vice president for Academic Affairs and professor of history at Simpson College in Iowa;
- Julianne Maher, dean of City College and associate professor of linguistics at Loyola University in New Orleans;
- Clair Myers, interim vice president for Academic Affairs at Elon College; and
- Elizabeth McDaniel, associate vice president for Academic Affairs and professor of special education at the University of Hartford in Connecticut.

After the last candidate left, the search committee, Provost Gerald Francis and President Fred Young met to discuss their impressions of the candidates.

"We summarized everyone's visit, and it was very informative," Schwind said. "We discussed the pluses and minuses of each one. The members of the committee laid all their cards on the table."

Later that day, about 30 faculty members met informally at philosophy Professor John Sullivan's house to discuss their impressions of the candidates.

Laura Helvey, political science
See VP, Page 4.

Back to school, again
Junior Kristi Wooten unpacks her car outside of Trollinger Apartments after returning from Charlotte after spring break.

Tonya Hubart/The Pendulum

Final vice presidential candidate visits Elon

Amy Logerwell
Asst. Managing Editor

The fourth candidate for vice president says she wouldn't bring a set agenda to the job.

"I think it is wrong for an administrator to come in with an agenda. It needs to be made once they are in the position," said Elizabeth McDaniel, associate vice president for Academic Affairs and professor of special education at the University of Hartford in Connecticut.

"I know what I value in higher education, but I don't want to take people where they don't want to go."

McDaniel said she would like to find out what the college's issues are to help put them into place.

During McDaniel's visit to

Elon, March 22-24, she gave a speech on the Future of Higher Education and the Private College. In her speech, she said six things will change higher education: an emphasis on reform, a need to refocus, emphasizing what students need to know to graduate, assessment, fewer students taking classes on campus, and new technology.

"These six elements keep me busy. We better pay attention or we could get lost," McDaniel said. "We can no longer be complacent and do things as usual."

At the University of Hartford, McDaniel oversees 16 programs.

McDaniel said the focus of the college should be student learning. "Most institutions say they are focused on student learning, but very few really are

Amy Logerwell/The Pendulum
Elizabeth McDaniel

"We need to be clear what a student knows and needs to know to graduate with a certain degree. This needs to be emphasized throughout and not just when they approach their junior year," she said.

McDaniel believes the role of
See McDaniel, Page 4.

SGA officials unsure about budget hearings' details

Stacey Ward
Staff Reporter

SGA budget hearings are scheduled to start Monday, but student government officials didn't know Tuesday how much money they will have to divvy up, who's on the budget committee, or where the hearings will take place.

About 90 on-campus organizations and programs recognized by the Student Government Association are eligible to receive funding. Organizations may sign up outside the SGA office, Moseley 231, for a hearing time.

Budget proposals are due by 5 p.m. Monday. Organizations should provide 10 copies of their proposals.

The SGA Budget Committee is scheduled to discuss the budget proposals April 18. The SGA Senate would vote on the budget April 21.

Last spring, SGA officials had about $325,000 to divide for this school year. The Student Union Board received the most funding with $70,000. The Media Board, which oversees the student-run media on campus, received $54,500.

Most organizations give themselves a 10 percent leeway when asking for money from the SGA. They should give exact numbers, said Barb Carlton, SGA adviser.

Monday through Friday, organizations are scheduled to present their budget proposals to the Budget Committee. They have five minutes for their presentation and five minutes to answer questions from the committee.

Zuni Johnson, SGA Treasurer and Budget Committee chairman, had not selected committee members by Tuesday.

SGA officials were waiting Tuesday to hear how much they have to divide up for the 1995-96 budget. The Registrar's Office is scheduled to present the projected budget numbers to the committee soon, SGA President Larry Williams said.

SGA's budget comes from stu-
See SGA, Page 4.

Student arrested on assault charges

Erick Gill
Editor in Chief

A former Elon College basketball player was arrested March 21 for assaulting an Elon College student.

Winfred "Monty" L. Bumper, 23, of 2008 S. Mebane St. was arrested by Burlington police for assault on a female. According to an arrest warrant, the incident occurred March 20 at his apartment.

The Pendulum is withholding the alleged victim's name at her request.

Bumper, a communications major, could not be reached for comment. A Pendulum reporter called his family's home in Greensboro Monday and Tuesday, but Bumper didn't return phone calls

Tuesday night. His phone in Burlington has been disconnected.

According to the warrant for Bumper's arrest, he "grabbed (the Elon student) by her shoulders, lifting her off the floor, then dragging her down the hall, throwing her on the couch and pushing her face with his hands, while stating 'I'm going to kill you,' striking
See Assault, Page 4.