

THE PENDULUM

Volume XXII, Number 22

Informing the Elon College Community

April 10, 1997

INSIDE

EDITORIALS/ LETTERS

2-4

COMICS

14-15

NEWS

Exploring the dangers of artificial tanning: is the look worth the risk?

6

George Padgett and his communications seminar class raise money for The NAMES Project with "West End Awareness" tonight.

4

Students get ready to stand in line in an attempt to get the classes they need at the times they want.

16

A&E

Val Kilmer hides his true identity in "The Saint." Erik Akelaitis reviews the former Batman's newest movie.

11

SPORTS

Both the men's and women's tennis teams end its regular season and look forward to the 'second season.'

19

Twenty-three Organizations Receive Raise in Funds

Michelle Cater
Asst. Managing Editor

The Student Government Association budgets, distributing a total of $320,481.15 to 50 campus organizations, were released earlier this week.

"I think all but one or two budgets got cut from what they requested and a lot got cut from what they got last year," said incoming Executive Treasurer Mark Richter.

Contrary to what Richter said, The Pendulum's calculations show that 23 out of the 38 organizations with comparable data had a budget increase.

"Well, I guess I was wrong," Richter said after learning The Pendulum's calculations.

The organization to receive the largest increase was the Liberal Arts Forum. The group is responsible for many of Elon's speakers including Joycelyn Elders, and SGA see BUDGET, page 4

Media Board Among the Groups Cut

Michelle Cater
Asst. Managing Editor

The Media Board's current SGA budget of $49,200 will be cut to $45,000 for next year. One reason for the cut was ESTV's decision not to air movies on campus and to use the $6,000 it spends on movies for other equipment and programming, said SGA Executive Treasurer Mark Richter.

"Since ESTV has decided to stop showing movies, SGA has decided to set aside $6,000 for a movie see MEDIA, page 5

Freshman Laura Thorpe (at podium) was one of several students who spoke Monday afternoon at a renaming ceremony for the Center for Service Learning in the Moseley Center. The center changed its name to the John Robert Kernodle Jr. Center for Service Learning. Allison Poinsett/The Pendulum

Week of Fun and Games Start For Greek Groups

Jeff Wirick
Editor-in-Chief

Sunday officially begins a week of unity, fun and games for Greeks at Elon. It's also a chance to do something for the school, said co-chair Jennifer Hamblen.

During April 13-20, 14 Greek organizations will compete in 22 events, from tug-o-war to basketball to dance to a Trivia Bowl. There will also be a time capsule ceremony Wednesday and an all-Greek party April 19 at the Greek Court.

Hamblen said the time capsule ceremony will educate students on the history of Greek organizations at Elon.

"Each organization will give a see GREEK, page 5

Pendulum F.Y.I.

Thirsty?

Worldwide Annual Per Person Consumption of Coca-Cola

Every day more than 750 million eight-ounce servings of Coca-Cola are consumed worldwide.

Photos Bring AIDS Quilt To Life

Tricia Ziegler
Pendulum Reporter

Six Elon students spent three full days photographing the AIDS Quilt in Washington, D.C. They raised about $1,200 to cover materials and expenses. They came back with almost 100 rolls of film.

Their work, 32 photographs in all, is currently displayed in the Art Lounge in Moseley Center through May.

The photographs in the exhibit were taken by Aime Bauer, Dana Burzymowski, Darcie Cascone, Lindsay Richards, Shannon Stevens and Tricia Ziegler.

The Quilt, which commemorates those who have died of AIDS, covered most of the Mall. It was displayed in its entirety October 11-13.

Photography professor Ken Hassell said the students went beyond just completing the project as an assignment. It became a personal commitment to an important community issue, he said.

Stevens agreed.

The senior philosophy and psychology major wasn't even taking a photography class when she decided to go on the trip. She said now she feels more in touch with people suffering from AIDS and said she has a better understanding of the issue.

"The most rewarding part is seeing the exhibit," she said. "I've never been able to put so much effort and energy into a cause this worthy and important."

A Six Month Commitment

Hassell said the project has been a six month commitment from the time the students began raising funds last fall, through the winter and spring semester when the students were making their final prints,

see QUILT, page 5