

from FUNDING, page 1

If this situation arises again this year, each group will be asked to send a representative on March 3, 4 or 5 to explain their financial plan to the committee.

Presentations will last ten minutes and will consist of two parts including the explanation and a question and answer period.

During the first five minutes, the representative may present or review anything which will persuade the committee to give them more funds.

The second half of the presentation will allow the committee to question the real needs of the organization.

"We try to ask them to try to prioritize their budget so that we don't cut something that is vital to their organization," said Richter.

The Budget Committee will meet with the SGA Senate after it reaches its decision.

Final decisions are then made based upon the size of the group, the organization's financial history, and the previous management of their budget.

Following the senatorial votes which take place on March 12, the results of the the SGA budget for 1998-99 will be made public and organizations will be expected to plan accordingly.

from SIDEWALK, page 1

The Town of Elon College as well as the college are joining forces with SGA to build these sidewalks in order to create a safer atmosphere.

The total cost of the sidewalk is estimated at $22,550; however, SGA will only be responsible for $7,517.

"This gives us [SGA] an opportunity for us to 'leave a mark'", SGA President Ashton Newhall said about the decision.

SGA's portion will come out of the rollover account, an account comprised of organizational leftovers, which currently stands at approximately $63,000.

An SGA senator said that procrastination may not be wise as Safe Rides was not formed until after the death of an Elon individual.

Maintenance of the new sidewalk will be kept by the Town of Elon College and there is the possibility of trashcans lining the facility.

Elon featured in national advertising campaign

Patrick Donovan
Pendulum Reporter

Elon College students can now sit down to eat their lunch with a new sense of pride.

Elon college food services were recently chosen by the ARAMARK Corporation as one of their most distinguished and outstanding accounts in the United States. Chosen from over a hundred possible candidates, Elon was one of several used in recent national ads seen in Time, Business World and U.S. News and World Reports.

Neil Bromilow, director of construction management, Gerald Whittington, vice president for business and finance, and Jeff Gazda, director of dining services for Elon, all appear in the College Coffee photo on the full page ad.

The advertisement will be run in the same magazines several more times this year until a new ARAMARK account is chosen for recognition.

In addition to colleges and universities, the corporation also has accounts with locations such as Camden Yards in Baltimore and Three Rivers Stadium in Pittsburgh.

Succeeding last year's winners such as Clemson University, Elon College now seems to be getting the publicity it needs.

Gazda said he believes this was all well deserved. "Our goal is to give the students what they pay for to the best of our ability," he said.

Mr. Elon 1998

IT'S COMING...

STAY TUNED FOR DETAILS

K A

You missed our first rush party?

There's still time.

314 W. Haggard Ave.

Tuesday, Feb. 17, 6 to 8 p.m.

"Stogies and hogies"