Ralph Nader, known as the godfather of activism, will be speaking at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, April 7 in Whitley Auditorium.

The speech, which is sponsored by the Liberal Arts Forum, is free and open to the public.

Nader, who was recently named one of the most influential Americans in the 20th century by Time Magazine, will be speaking on energy and the environment and the responsibility of corporate America.

Amy Tobias, one of the student coordinators of Nader's visit, said the Liberal Arts Forum chose Nader because they felt respected consumer activist and said he "is promoting a democracy we just don't have in this country."

This will not be Nader's first visit to Elon. Cassebaum said he spoke here in the 70s. His speech prompted several students to form PIRG, the Public Interest Research Group.

Nader will be available to answer questions after his speech.
