

Dinner & A Movie

"Shakespeare in Love" and Errichiello's reviewed

Brie Bittenbender

The Pendulum

Shakespeare in Love

William's life directly influenced his writing in such a passionate way.

and you liked it, you should still visit once a month. If you haven't tried you are definitely missing out.

This was actually one of the better movies that I have seen in a while. I think one thing you must know to be able to enjoy this movie is "Romeo and Juliet." If you do not thoroughly love the tale of the world's most tragic couple, then you will not be extremely pleased with "Shakespeare in Love."

The story focuses on a young Will Shakespeare, played by Joseph Fiennes, and his lover Viola, played by Gwyneth Paltrow.

Paltrow is getting to be such a name, I could simply say Gwyneth and be understood.

As for the movie, it made me want to leave the theater and fall passionately in love with someone I could never have. It was definitely an intense film and it did an amazing job of intertwining the life of Shakespeare as he wrote his famous "Romeo and Juliet."

The story worked its way into elements of the play "Romeo and Juliet" and reflected how

I can honestly say that I was much more impressed with this movie than I expected to be.

Take a date or a friend, laugh or cry, either way this film will entertain and inspire.

Errichiello's

If you tried it and you love it, visit once a month. If you tried it

Errichiello's fettucini alfredo, al dente pasta and creamy, rich alfredo makes for a meal that your taste buds will fall in love with. It comes with a salad, so try to fill yourself on that.

That way you won't have to finish this decadent, but stomach enhancing dish.

If you have an extra inch in your jeans, try

Errichiello's fettucini alfredo, al dente pasta and creamy, rich alfredo makes for a meal that your taste buds will fall in love with. It comes with a salad, so try to fill yourself on that.

That way you won't have to finish this decadent, but stomach enhancing dish.

"Tangeena Barren," modern band & website

Lisa McChristian

The Pendulum

In today's multimedia, fast paced society it's not surprising that a band like "Tangeena Barren" would create their own graphic, fast paced web page.

The pop-funk band from Philadelphia, relocated to Chapel Hill over a year ago. They felt Chapel Hill was becoming a big music scene producing bands like "The Squirrel Nut Zippers," "Ben Folds Five" and "Superchunk."

The band chose their name from the psychic dwarf woman from the film "Poltergeist."

"Tangeena Barren" is a band big on self promotion and that shows on the wild and very informative web site they have created.

From the flaming background and psychedelic mushrooms, www.tbarren.com, is a visual treat.

The site is easily accessible. You can check out individual photos, bios on band members Charlie, Mike, Dan, and Zeek, gig dates, songs, and the latest band news.

If you've never heard their music, with a click of a mouse you can check out two of their songs, "Talk about Life" and "Just Another Day."

With "Just Another Day's" heartfelt lyrics like "Nobody talks like or feels or thinks like me, I'm torn up inside where no one else can see," the band expresses the isolation that many college students sometimes feel.

There's an amusing contest section. The web viewer is given ten questions like:

"What is Zeek's real name?"

"What does Mike never wear on stage?"

"Who's the shortest Barren?"

"Name one Prince song that TB covers."

If you e-mail the band with at eight out of ten questions correct, they will send you a free band t-shirt and bumper sticker.

I must warn you this is no "girlie" web site. Web viewers get to watch a little cartoon man jog across screen wipe out his genitalia and urinate and the "News and Contest" section. There are also two gyrating women in bikini's at the bottom of each section of the site.

The band seems to be on the upward track to stardom. Clips of several "Tangeena Barren" have been accepted to air on several episodes of MTV's "Road Rules."

I would highly recommend checking "Tangeena Barren" and their web site out. You can see them live Saturday, March 13 at The Lighthouse.

Do you have a band, CD, play or movie that you would like The Pendulum to review?

If so, let us know at ext. 2331

Cinelon brings American film classics to Elon

Cinelon, the student film society, is planning a series of screenings of classic American films. These films will be shown on Wednesday evenings at 7 p.m. in Carlton 304. Below is the screening schedule.

2/24 Mr. Smith Goes to Washington (1939) Starring Jimmy Stewart, Directed by Frank Capra

3/3 Maltese Falcon (1941) Starring Humphrey Bogart

3/10 No Screening

3/17 Casablanca (1942) Starring Humphrey Bogart & Ingrid Bergmen

3/24 No Screening

3/31 On the Waterfront (1954) Starring Marlon Brando

4/7 North by Northwest (1959) Starring Cary Grant, Directed by Alfred Hitchcock

4/14 Doctor Zhivago (1965)

4/21 2001: A Space Odyssey (1968) Directed by Stanely Kubrick

4/28 MASH (1970) Starring Donald Sutherland

5/5 One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest (1975) Starring Jack Nicholson, Directed by Stanely Kubrick

WSOE 89.3FM
ELON COLLEGE, NC

First Annual WSOE

Band Fest and Card Tournament

February 27

Featuring:

- the beans
- The Aristocrats
- the Montgomery Burns Band
 - System
 - 21 Stew
- Twisted Kites

McKinnon Hall-- Tournament: 10 a.m. Bands begin at noon