

Election results announced

from ELECTIONS, page 1

organization. "I knew it would be a tough race," he said. "I could have been a good leader and a good president. It was a good race and I was competing with two tough candidates.

"As of right now, I'm not sure if I will continue to work with the organization," Moyer said.

Townsend received 76.2 percent of the vote over Sean Branson for the office of vice president. Townsend, a junior from Potomac, Md., is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi, Lincoln Pre-med Society, Tri-Beta and the Academic Council for Math/Science 2000-2002.

"I am so overwhelmed and honored to have been chosen for this position," Townsend said. "I want to become completely familiar with the office. I want the whole senate to bond and run smoothly. I think it will be a great year."

Stejskal, who ran unopposed, will serve as secretary. She is a sophomore from Beaverton, Oregon, is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi and has co-coordinated on-campus blood drives.

"I felt very relaxed about it but I am really excited because it allowed me to start thinking about what I am going to do with the position," Stejskal said. Her plans include making Homecoming more of an event instead of a competition and better organizing SGA.

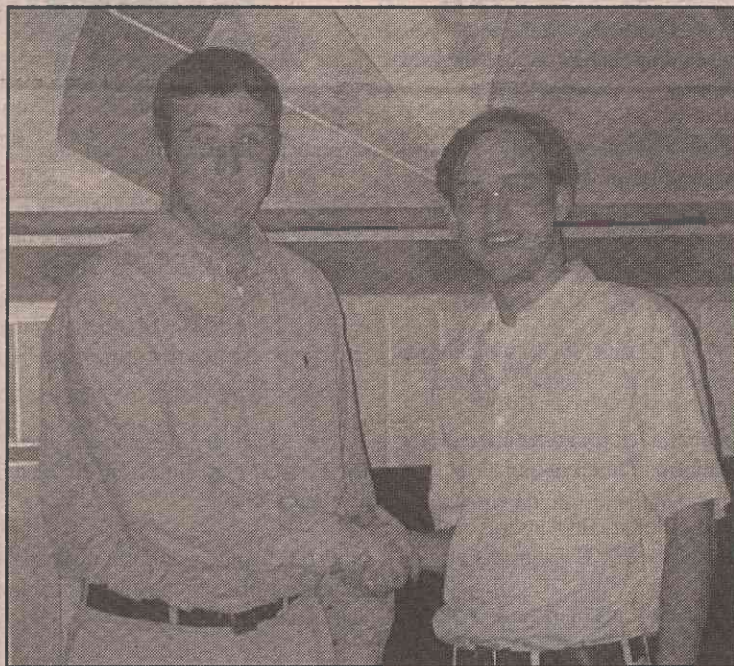

O'Shea, a sophomore from East Setauket, N.Y., is a member of Pi Kappa Phi, the Service Learning Community, Student Admissions Team and a University Guide. As a sophomore class senator, he has chaired SGA's committee on student issues.

"I am exciting about working with treasurers from organizations and being a resource to them, so we can better fund them and know where our funds are going," O'Shea said.

Sharon Blatt, chair of the elections committee, says the elections were a lot of work, but an enjoyable experience.

"My biggest fear was a run-off," she said. "Fortunately, that didn't happen. Students spoke what they thought."

The elections committee oversees the process and works with the pub-

Annette Randall/ Photo Editor

Trey Bolton, SGA president, congratulates Christian Wiggins, who will follow him in office.

“

If we come together, we can create the students' mission. It's up to the students to put us together as a team. But now it's up to us to work together as a team.

- Christian Wiggins

”

lic relations committee to promote the elections. The group also has to answer tough questions. In December, the elections committee had to decide whether Gosselin, who is spending the semester abroad, could be recognized as a candidate. According to the bylaws, a candidate must attend a mandatory election rules meeting in February.

"It is important that the SGA elections chair is prepared," Blatt said. "You need to know the bylaws backwards and forwards and have a strong committee."

For the senior class, Christian Brescia was elected president; Kristin Nicolosi, secretary/treasurer and Erika Miller, senator.

For the junior class, Jason Smith was selected president; Andrew Mackey, vice president; Mark Gustafson, secretary/treasurer and Cara Catafumo, senator.

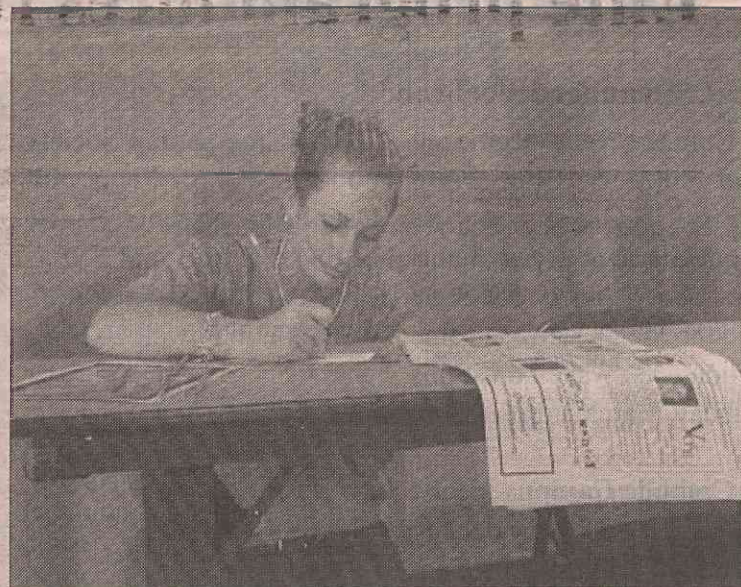

For the sophomore class, Chris Morse will serve as president; Andrea Rezendes, vice president; Darris Means, secretary/treasurer and Brian Gill, Kerry Foxx and Lillian Byers, senators.

Randy Touban was elected to serve on the judicial hearing board.

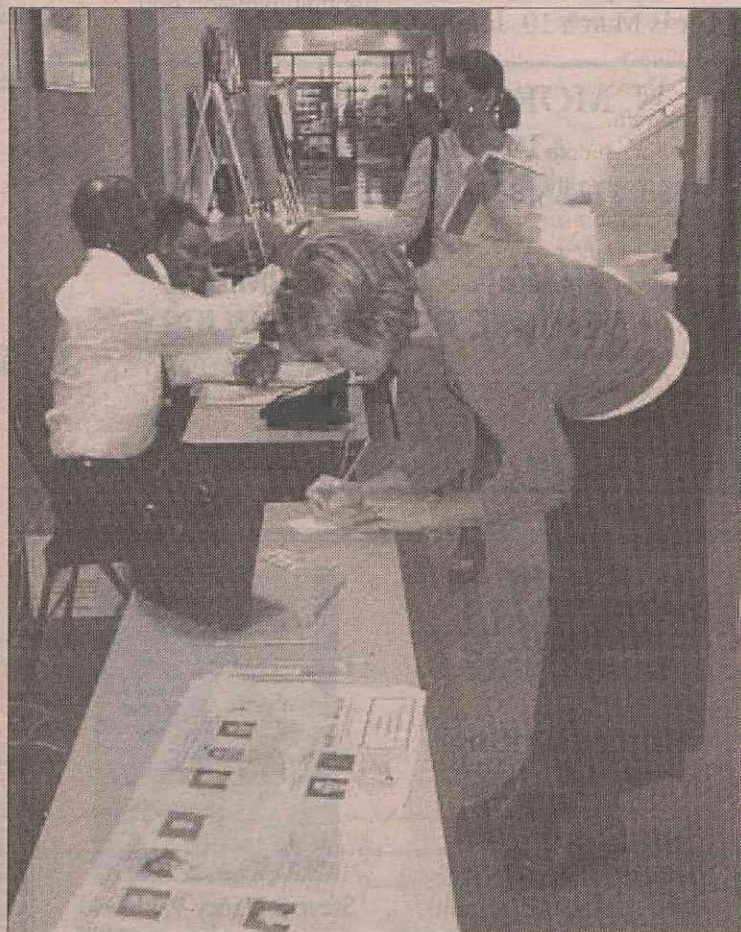

Annette Randall/ Photo Editor

Katie Townsend, vice president elect, joined other candidates campaigning in front of Moseley Center on Monday and Tuesday.

Annette Randall/ Photo Editor

Sophomore Lauren Kleinhans consults last week's Pendulum while

Annette Randall/ Photo Editor

Junior Lindsey Shplet votes in Moseley Center. Students cast 1,177 ballots.

See how SGA is working for you.

Go to a weekly senate meeting.
Thursdays at 7:30 p.m.
in 215 Moseley