Inside West, the parlors are a reminder of the old days. Today, West now has an outside patio connected to it.

Updated over the years as the landscaping has developed around the building. The fountain was in the old photo, the space in front of Alamaance was used as the main parking lot.

The interesting thing about Sloan is that the original picture has only one floor. Back then, Sloan was a dorm for women. It was built after the Elon fire to add more campus housing. For one semester only, it was one floor with a cap on the top. After school let out that spring semester builders added the other two floors.
