Elon in Costa Rica

Apply Now for the Fall 2007 Semester!

This program is now available both fall and spring semesters.

WHY COSTA RICA?

In addition to its natural beauty, Costa Rica is an ideal location in which to study the rapid social, cultural, economic, political and environmental changes that face much of the developing Latin American world. The program is based in the capital, San Jose, and includes many opportunities and activities to learn about issues facing contemporary Latin America as well as enjoy Costa Rica's natural wonders.

WHAT CAN I STUDY?

In addition to studying Spanish, courses taught in English will include: An Upper Level General Studies (Media and Culture for Fall 2007), Business, Political Science and Environmental Science (this will count towards the science requirement).

*No previous Spanish language experience is required.

WHAT WILL IT COST?

Elon tuition, room and board, plus international insurance. International airfare up to $800 is INCLUDED in the program cost, as well as excursions to places like the Monteverde Cloud forest, Arenal Volcano, hot springs, waterfalls and banana plantations! A short international trip to Panama or Nicaragua will also be included.
