FSTC Opens 76th Annual Session

The fall term got under way at the Fayetteville State Teachers College, Fayetteville, on Monday, Sept. 14, and classes began the following day. The formal opening followed closely upon the heels of a six-day period of orientation of some 200 freshmen and new students to their new surroundings. In an informal assembly address Dr. James W. Seabrook pointed out the necessity of cooperative effort in carrying forward the school's program for the year. The round of activities was replete with tests, lectures, tours, registration, health examinations and a series of social affairs including a reception at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. Ward Seabrook. At the vesper program, Dr. Walker B. Healy of Fayetteville, spoke from the topic, 'Strong in the Grace of God.'

The fall opening found an extensive building program rapidly taking shape. Items that make up the program include: an infirmary for $135,000; additions to the laundry, $55,000; repairs and additions to the Industrial Building, $74,000; renovation of Vance Hall, $105,000; repairs and equipment for other dormitories, $35,000; campus improvement and roads, $52,000; enlargement, seating and lighting of athletic field, $52,000; additional equipment for library, $6,000; and funds for a new boiler, garages, and a campus telephone system.

FAYETTEVILLE PREXY IN OPENING ADDRESS

"The one purpose of our college is to train elementary school teachers whose scholarship, citizenship, and personality will warrant their favorable consideration by school superintendents and principals throughout the country," declared Dr. James W. Seabrook, president of the college, in his first assembly address of the school year.

After outlining the goals toward which the college will work during the year, he insisted that a college student can do no better for himself or for his college than to make an all-round good record. "The record made by its students go a long way in adding status to a college."

In conclusion, Dr. Seabrook pointed out that "education is more than a matter of scholarship alone—that its total objective is the molding of successful personality, and that therefore any evaluation of a student should be an appraisal of habits and qualities of character as well as of scholarship."

Miss E. Louise Murphy, Mrs. Lorena C. Carter, and Miss Delores McNair, New York University; Miss Mary E. Terry, Mr. Lafayette Parker and Mr. Henry Eldridge, University of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Mildred Jones, Catholic University; Miss Mamie Wilkerson, North Carolina College at Durham; Mr. Harold Scott and Mrs. Minnetta Scott, University of Connecticut; and Miss Florence P. Eaton, Art Institute, Los Angeles, Calif.

Dr. Margaret S. Frierson served during the summer quarter as visiting professor at North Carolina College at Durham and Miss Susie Davis held a similar position at Winston-Salem Teachers College.

Addition To Library

The browsing room in the college library is one of the many additions that have been made since last fall. This room is set aside for students, faculty members, and visitors who may want to browse in privacy.

The browsing room is comfortably furnished with a colorful leather lounging set, a table, chairs, a bulletin board, beautiful paintings, antique sculpture, and many fiction and non-fiction books.

We are happy to have Mrs. Evelyn Groves, a graduate of Chicago University, on our library staff.

New Dormitory Asso. News

The New Dormitory Association, under the dynamic leadership of Mrs. Daisy G. Coles, got off with a bang this fall. The warm and cordial hospitality exemplified by her gave each of us a desire to work hard and accomplish many things. From the outset the members of this association developed a feeling of oneness as old roommates were reclaimed and new ones accepted. In order to have a success in any phase of life, one must exert himself. This is the attitude we are taking as we go about our year's work.

As one of our beginning activities, we gave a Silver Tea on October 18. The centerpiece, which was given by Mr. H. M. Eldridge, consisted of white chrysanthemums and fern. In the future we plan to present a series of movies such as "How to Think," "How to Make Good on Examinations," and "How to Study." We also plan to donate to the Athletic Scholarship Fund.

Our Homecoming decorations consisted of two football dummies made by the members of the New Dormitory Association. One represented F.S.T.C. and the other E.C.T.C. At the beginning of Homecoming the bronco was up with the ball and the pirate was out on the ground. It was embarrassing to notice the outcome as the pirate knocked the bronco to the ground and stood up with the ball.

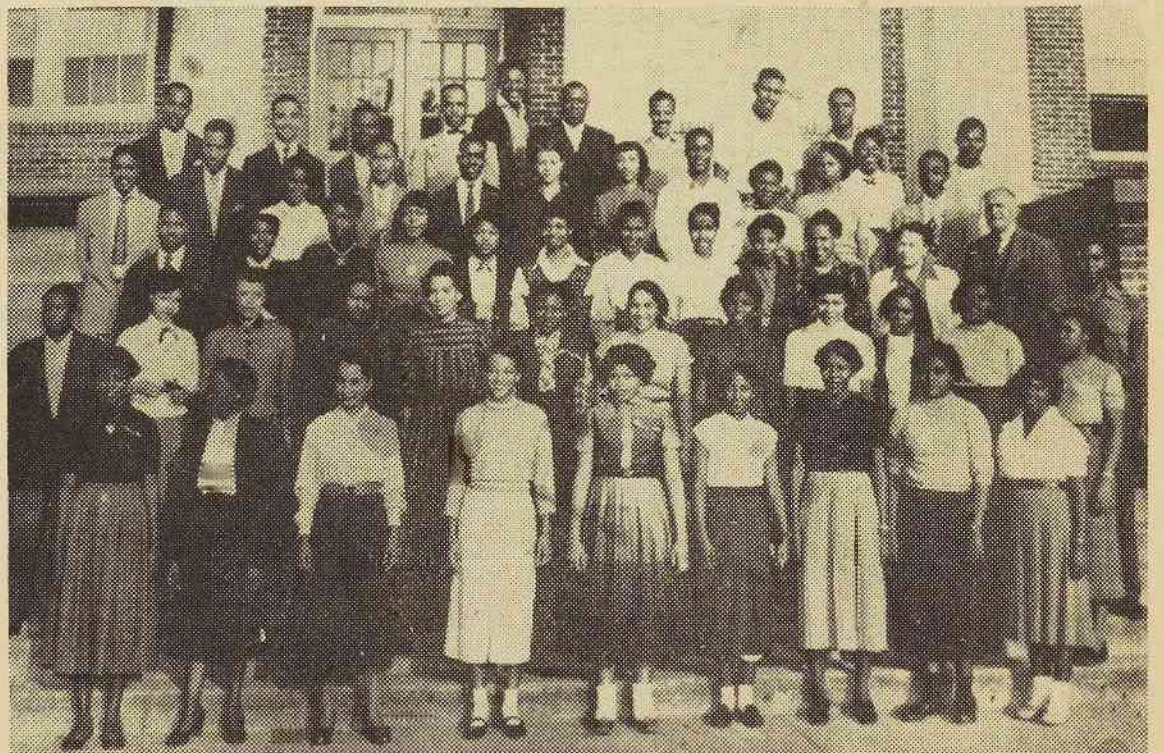

Another accomplishment is the filling of our bookcase in our dormitory office. Some books were secured from the library while others were given by faculty members. These include texts on family life, personality, grooming, manners, thinking, social graces, and a lot of interesting novels. The office, recreation room, and parlors are provided with current magazines and newspapers which aid in developing well-rounded individuals.

The New Dormitory Association officers for this year are: President—Odessa Walker; Secretary—Theresa Hogans; Asst. Secretary—Doris Pridgen; Treasurer—Dorothy James.

Sponsor: Ellaine Mitchell.
 Directress: Daisly G. Coles.

the session is approved by the U. S. Veterans Administration. A limited number of scholarships are available for the Summer School.

Students of the Summer School will leave New York on the SS Stavangerford, June 23, 1954. Reservations for return trip are available August 21, September 3, 15, and 29, 1951.
