Senior High School Day Held at FSTC

A host of high school students from many parts of the state gathered at Fayetteville State Teachers College on Saturday to participate in the school's first annual Senior High School Day program and to be guests of honor at the annual May Day exercises. Dr. J. Ward Seabrook, president of the college, greeted the group and following him Norman J. Suttles, manager of the local Chamber of Commerce, addressed the newcomers.

Two college students, Earl Garrett, senior, and Mavis Jones, sophomore, led a panel discussion in which the visiting groups participated. And LaFayette Parker, director of the school's Bureau of Placement and Follow Up, spoke on job-placement.

One means of entertaining the visiting high school students was a variety show given by the college students in which they demonstrated ability in dancing, speaking, singing, and in "tall-tale" telling. A tour of the campus and of the buildings followed, and in the evening the visitors were entertained at the annual May Day dance.

Among the schools that sent delegates were: E. E. Smith, Fayetteville; Carver High, Laurel Hill; Central High, Goldsboro; Chatham High, Siler City; Booker T. Washington, Clarkton; Oakridge, Lumber Bridge; and Chestnut High School, Fayetteville.

The faculty-student Committee on Planning was composed of D. Lemon Williams, chairman; H. L. Scott, co-chairman; Lloyd Blutch, Daniel N. Clark, Susie Davis, Edward Hargrave, Beulah Jones, and Daniel A. Williams. Students who served on the committee were: Charles Allen, Yvonne Thorpe, Earl Garrett, Johnny Pettiford, Marian Porter, Mavis Jones, and Annie Cogdell.

IDEAS IN EDUCATION

By JOHN CLARKSON

Education has been defined as a life-long process of changes, modifications, and adjustments. Each particular phase of education, as stated above, affects the individual emotionally, physically, morally, and in many other different characteristics of human behavior. Considering all factors and with this definition in mind, students on the college level should strive to improve themselves and to make preparations for future work and training.

Many educational institutions are placing a high degree of emphasis on student participation in out-of-class activities. The idea behind this action is primarily to prepare well-rounded individuals and to place extra-curricula activities into the same category as the "three R's."

During the turn of the century, a survey was made in education and from this survey information was compiled and handed down to educators in the form of a report. From this report came the "Seven Cardinal Principles of Elementary Education." Some of these principles are listed as health, command of fundamental processes, worthy home membership, citizenship, worthy use of leisure, and ethical character. It is to be noted that these factors are important in any profession; however, it should also be noted that no particular principle stands out alone and above the others. It is believed that if one combines these principles he will develop into an individual who is emotionally stable, mentally capable, and will be able to take his place in our democratic society.

Well-rounded students make well-rounded teachers, and well-rounded teachers make good citizens and help to make others good citizens. Therefore, in keeping with the aims and objectives of modern education, let us all turn our attention towards the idea of selecting some particular extra-curricula activity which will help us in building good active students for today and civic-minded citizens for tomorrow.

Holden-Wallace Wedding

In a beautiful double-ring ceremony, two long-time college sweethearts said vows quietly on Sunday, February 6, as they joined hands and hearts forever. The wedding took place at the home of the bride at 590 Hastie Loop in Fayetteville with the Rev. C. R. Edwards, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiating.

The bride, the former Miss Ethelyn Holden, was given in marriage by her father, Mr. James H. Holden. The affair was heightened by an assortment of fine wedding numbers under the direction of Mrs. Susie W. Currie. Among others were the ever-popular numbers, "Because," "Rosary," and "I Love You Truly."

Bride Was Beautiful

The bride wore a white bridal satin street length dress, fashioned in a round neckline and quarter-length sleeves with white satin accessories. She carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations tied with pink ribbon and sprinkled with "Baby Breath" flowers. Mrs. Maxine R. Andrews, the bride's attendant and maid of honor, wore a pale pink dress with black accessories and carried a bouquet of white carnations. Willie H. Wallace, the groom's brother, was best man. The bride's mother chose a light blue dress and pink accessories, and the bridegroom's mother wore a navy blue suit and white accessories.

College-Bred Couple

The Wallaces are college-bred folk. Mrs. Wallace is currently a junior at the Fayetteville State Teachers College where she is a member of the Young Women's Christian Association and of the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority. She is also an active member of the First Baptist Church, a teacher in the Sunday School, and the President of the Junior Inter-Denominational Ushers Association. Mr. Wallace, who was graduated from

ZETA HIGHLIGHTS

The Zeta Phi Beta Sorority was in charge of chapel exercises on April 22. The Sorority presented Mr. W. E. Currie, a band instructor at the E. E. Smith High School, and his group in a band concert. The program included such splendid numbers as "Russian Chorale and Overture" by Isaac, "Huldigungsmarsch" by Grieg, "Cathedral Hour" by Forest L. Buchtel, and "State Center March" by Pat Lee. Alphonzo Pindle rendered a trumpet solo, "Norine," with which the audience was very much impressed; and Margaret Walker chose a piano solo.

On April 23, Omega Beta and Gamma Upsilon Zeta Chapters sponsored their second annual Zetalite Ball. The climax of the affair was Soror Robinson's presentation of the Zetalites (debutantes) and their escorts. The band played a processional as the Zetalites were assisted over entrance steps into a garden and escorted into a circle in the center of the gymnasium. A special waltz was played for the Zetalites and their escorts only, after which there was dancing for everyone.

All Zetalites wore white evening dresses with wrist corsages of white carnations, while their escorts wore white coats and dark trousers. The Zetalites were Melba Lindsay, Thelma McLaurin, Doretha McRhane, Geraldine Malotte, Garvis Greene, Virginia Thompson, Betty Newman, Marian Anderson, Betty Allen, Mary Etta Tompkins, Nadine Wilds, Geraldine Williams, Ivey Adams, Maggie McPhatter, Frances King, Dolores Holmes, Frances Calvin, and Marion Murchison.

The proceeds of the ball will go for scholarship funds.
