

Editorial Policy

The staff of the Wayne Communique looks forward to this year's paper with much anticipation. We invite all to contribute to your paper.

I would like to explain some of the policies of the Communique. As reporters, the staff will present facts to you from an unbiased position. We are not here to slant the news or let you see only our side of it. Truth in reporting is a must. Our concern, of course, will always be the student, school-related functions, and the promotion of involvement.

Editorials will be considered for publication whether harsh or complimentary. Editorials will be open to all students to express their opinions on any subjects. Although all editorials may not be published, all opinions will be considered.

Finally, the paper will concern itself with the student and his contributions. If you know of a club, group, or individual who has done something to warrant recognition, then please let the staff know.

All articles, opinion, or questions can be given to the staff by means of a basket located in the Student Union. Please feel free to use it at any time; this is your paper.

Home-coming in Bangladesh

Millions of weary, despairing refugees, mostly women and children, who left camps in India are now returning to their homeland . . . the new nation of Bangladesh. Exposed to the elements, they cling to life, hoping for a roof over their heads . . . but there is no roof; there is no house; no crops; no livestock, nothing except a few scattered heaps of rubble here and there.

The Bangladesh Government asks CARE's assistance in mass construction of simple, one-room shelters. CARE must find $2,000,000 in order to build 62 villages before the arrival of the next monsoon rains.

This construction is a co-operative endeavor. CARE provides simple building block machines, roofing materials, burnt bricks, and cement. Participants, selected on the basis of most pressing need will furnish sand, soil labor necessary for molding the blocks, and timber required for door, window, and roof frames. The Bangladesh Government will provide additional needed personnel and internal transportation.

Although this simple housing construction is of top priority, food, clothing, and medical supplies are also urgently needed. CARE provided these other essential items in the refugee camps in India. CARE must now continue to meet these needs in Bangladesh.

For CARE to succeed in its vital relief and rehabilitation efforts in Bangladesh, it must have the generous support of its donors. Won't you help in this enormous, humanitarian task by sending your contribution today to: Bengal Relief Fund-CARE, Inc., 615 Forsyth Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. 30303.

Rated X

College yearbooks yearly nearly die of dreariness when they're issued every June. It's refreshing to see one that's not the run of the paper mill — one without pictures of sorority sisters and their brothers crammed onto a divan, quarter-and-half and full-backs in their varsity drag, and beauty queens with shining teeth and pimpleless complexions.

But last June, along came "Gumbo", a production of Louisiana State University and one of the first X-rated yearbooks. "Gumbo" got itself into producing an honest representation of campus life. Maybe she was too honest.

Included in the book was a photograph of a red, white, and blue marijuana cigarette; a series of satires on such sanctions as motherhood, and four photos of nudes taken in art classes, which changed the bookrating from R to X.

"Gumbo" was a partial success. Students loved the book and, for the first time in the college's history, "Gumbo" went into a second printing.

The State Legislature, however, wasn't so pleased. A resolution of disapproval was passed. Said one legislator, who once attacked the teaching of Shakespeare in the school system, "I've never seen more nasty pictures. A student cannot show it to his little brother or sister."

And the LSU student-body president reported, "Anyone who thinks that book has pornographic value hasn't seen very much good pornography."

"Gumbo" follows an inevitable student press pattern. Four years ago, campus papers ran what were labeled "obscene" words, back when the watchword, "telling it like it is," was telling it like it was.

Now it seems that yearbooks have gotten in the picture by getting in the pictures of nude bodies, student smoking habits and other aspects of life of campus. Maybe one provocative picture is worth a thousand four-letter words.

LIFE

Life is a gift to be used every day,
Not to be smothered and hidden away.
It isn't a thing to be stored in the chest
Where you gather your keepsakes and treasure your best.
It isn't a joy to be sipped now and then
And promptly put back in a dark place again.

Life is a gift that the humblest may boast of
And one that the humblest may well make the most of.
Get out and live it each hour of the day,
Wear it and use it as much as you may.
Don't keep it in niches and corners and grooves,
You'll find that in service its beauty improves.

Give A Helping Hand

The SGA urges all returning students to welcome the new students with a friendly smile. Offer them your help in adjusting themselves to WCC. Remember you were new once. Let's make Wayne Community College a warm and friendly campus.

Dean of Students

Welcome to your college. I am sure that you will have a rewarding year at Wayne Community College.

There has been a lot of planning to insure that your experiences will be beneficial, academically as well as socially, this year. Hopefully, you will take advantage of the academic preparation by the instructors and the many activities planned by the SGA.

The Student Services Division of WCC is here to serve you, the students. Counselors are available for personal problems, career planning, academic problems, financial aid, assisting in part-time or full time employment, transferring to other colleges, vocational rehabilitation and to assist you in any situation that may be a problem to you. Feel free to come by at any time to meet these individuals.

Your SGA officers have been busy during the summer making plans for varied and exciting activities for you throughout the year. You may look for a more successful SGA this year.

Become involved in your college. Make suggestions for improvements that can be made. Remember, this is your college. All the resources at WCC are for you. With your help, participation and study, you can make this the best year of your life and make WCC an even better college.

During the year I hope to meet each of you, and if I can be of any assistance to you, just let me know.

Best wishes for a successful year.

FEDERAL GRANTS

Many federal grants are also available, particularly for low income families. Some offer an added bonus to those who graduated in the top half of their high school class. There is a free booklet for the asking that describes these grants. Write to: FEDERAL AID FOR COLLEGE STUDENTS, Division of Student Aid, Office of Education, Washington, D.C. 20202.
