

EDITORIAL

By observation, it has occurred to the editor that a change has come over the student center at Wilkes Community College.

No longer do you hear the cry of, "Play the Rook" or "Shoot the Moon."

Now, to match the intellect that has been reached by our students, they have turned their attention to the playing of bridge, the game of wits and intellect.

Now, teacher, we have reached the level seemingly of other college students as we kill our extra time with this game of brains against brains.

Has it come to pass that no longer are we the deficient students that we have been called and can we now flunk out if we want to by our own choosing.

IS GOD DEAD?

The story has been told that a man in a large Florida city, who was injured in the city as a result of a hurricane and filed a law suit against that city.

The suit was thrown out of court because the accident was an act of God after which the man filed a suit against the principle churches in the area as agents of God.

That suit was also thrown out of court, after which the man filed a law suit against God.

And, in fact God is not dead, he is only in hiding to avoid prosecution.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED ABOUT DRAFT

Q. I am 18 years old and will not be 19 until after December 31, 1969. Do I have a selective service random sequence number?

A. No. Your random sequence will be determined by the first drawing held after you become 19.

Q. Once I receive a random sequence number, will this number change from year-to-year as new drawings are held?

A. No.

Q. I am 20 years of age, currently deferred in Class 2-A. My deferrment will terminate in June 1970. What will be my liability after the termination of my deferrment?

A. If you are placed in 1-A and found to be acceptable for military service, you will be placed at the top of the available list, provided your number was reached while you were deferred. If your number was not reached while you were deferred, you will be placed in a lower priority group, whether you were deferred until June 1970 or for the entire year.

Q. I am a 22-year-old student classified 2-S. Because of my high random sequence number, I wish to be classified in 1-A rather than 2-S. How can I get a 1-A classification?

A. You will remain in 2-S as long as the reason for your deferrment exists. Your local board was obligated to classify you in 2-S, since this was the lowest classification for which you qualified. However, if your local board receives evidence from your school that you have ceased to be a satisfactory full-time student because you have withdrawn, graduated, terminated your enrollment, or become a part-time student, then your local board will have a basis to reclassify you from 2-S.

Q. My random sequence number is 262. I have heard that my chances of being called for induction during 1970 are slim. A. There is no way to determine when any registrant in 1-A, who is subject to random selection, will be called for induction.

Q. I was ordered for induction to report in December 1969. My local board postponed my induction until February 1970. Does the lottery affect me?

A. No. Unless there is some reason for your being deferred, you should expect to report on the date in February that the local board advises you to report. The lottery does not affect the status of any registrant who is ordered to report for induction, when the original reporting date is prior to January 1, 1970.

Q. Suppose I transfer for induction and the board I transfer to orders me to report in January 1970?

A. Your case is just like that of a postponed registrant. You will be expected to report for induction as ordered by the transfer board.

Q. What effect does the random selection method have on deferrments?

A. Local board deferrment policies are not affected by the random sequence method of selecting registrants for induction.

Q. When will there be another random sequence drawing?

A. Plans call for a drawing to be held during each calendar year, but no date has been set for the drawing to be held during 1970.

Q. I am 19 years old and in 1-A. If I stay in 1-A all of 1970 and my random sequence number is not reached during 1970, how will it affect me?

A. Whether you are in 1-A or in some deferred classification, if your number is not reached you will be placed in a lower priority category.

Q. I have just been placed in Class 1-A, but will be 26 years of age in March 1970. If I request personal appearance and appeal, will I still be subject to induction if I reach age 26 before my appeal is settled?

A. Yes, if your random sequence number is reached before you become 26 years of age. No, if your random sequence number is not reached prior to your 26th birthday.

Q. I have a 2-A classification
