Banish 'Em from 1996 Speech

Every year, Lake Superior State University presents its list of words needing banishment from the English language. It was begun in 1976 by former LSSU Public Relations Director Bill Rabe. Some of the winning words needing banishment in 1996 are...

Cyber: "Cyber-ANYTHING sets my teeth on edge. Writers try to outdo each other finding finishes or flourishes to the 'c' word. (Examples: cyberconcert, cybermall, cyber-community.)"

-Michelle Mooney

Online: "Where is the 'line' that everyone is on? It sounds like someone should be — not a computer user."

-Michelle Batterbee

Virtual reality: "Is it, or isn't it?"

-Jean Barnard

Revisit: "Please stop revisiting issues, ideas, statements, etc. How about revisiting Aunt Martha?"

-Jack Pollard

Upscale: Examples include "upscale homes," "upscale villages," "upscale, rural neighborhoods," even "upscale soft drinks!"

-Nancy Fletcher

Common sense: "If it's so common, why doesn't everyone have it?"

-Maple Valley H.S. English Class
