JAMESTOWN DEFEATED BY THE SECOND TEAM

On last Tuesday afternoon Principal E. J. Coltrane, of the Jamestown High School, brought his basketball tossers over here only to receive a rather severe defeat by the Guilford second team. The High School boys played a very good game and showed that they were able to cope successfully with the best high school teams of the State. On an average, they were several pounds lighter than the second team men. In addition to their smallness they were at a great disadvantage due to the fact that they have been playing on an outdoor court and were not accustomed to playing on a floor.

Guilford started the scoring only to be followed immediately by a goal by the Jamestown boys. Notwithstanding the fact that Walser played guard, he led the Guilford aggregation in scoring, throwing seven field goals. He was followed by Worth next in order, who shot six field goals and the only foul goal. Grady Burrus, the little left forward, exhibited some real head work and played a good game throughout. "Shorty" McCrary came in at the beginning of the second half and threw three field goals.

It would be hard to say who played the best game for Jamestown for they all did well. However, C. Holton had two points credited to him, while R. Holton and Gibbons were each able to pocket four points in the first half. In the second half they had changed their line-up quite considerably placing Hodgkin at center. During this last stretch of the game he was easily the star on his team throwing three field goals.

At the close of the game the score stood 45 to 19 in Guilford's favor.

The line-up was as follows:

Guilford.	Jamestown.
Worth..... r. f.	C. Holton
Burrus..... l. f.	Gibbons
Moore..... c.	R. Holton
Mendenhall.. r. g.	Hodgkin
Walser..... l. g.	Miller

Substitutes, Guilford: Riddick for Mendenhall, McCrary for Moore; Jamestown, English for Gibbons. Field goals, Walser (7), Worth (6), McCrary (3), Burrus

VISIT OF JOS. ELKINTON

During the past few days, Joseph Elkinton, of Philadelphia, has been a pleasant visitor at Guilford and has made several splendid addresses to the student body. On Saturday evening he lectured to a large audience in Memorial Hall on his recent travels in China and Japan. Mr. Elkinton has just returned from an extended tour through these countries, and in a most delightful way he described Oriental life and conditions. A valuable asset to his lecture was a set of brilliantly colored illustrations. Mr. Elkinton always has his pictures colored in Japan as he contends that even American art is yet far behind the Japanese in this particular.

On Sunday morning he spoke in the Yearly Meeting house, and in the afternoon he addressed the Quaker study class on the Mysticism of the Quakers. Mr. Elkinton is one of the most earnest believers in mysticism in America, and his talk on this subject was made vivid by the relation of personal incidents.

The visits of Mr. Elkinton are always enjoyed and this particular occasion proved to be an exceptional treat to the students.

DECLAMATION CONTEST

On Thursday afternoon of last week a committee composed of ten girls, five from Philomathean and five from the Zatasian Society met in President Newlin's office to discuss with him plans for the contest to be held at Guilford this spring.

The committee decided that the presiding officer at this contest would be the president of one of the girls' societies and the chief marshal from the other—these to alternate if the contest continues to be annual.

A medal is to be given by the two societies to the successful contestant, who is to be determined by judges appointed at the discretion of the faculty.

(2), Moore (2), Mendenhall (2), Hodgkin (3), R. Holton (2), C. Holton (1), Gibbons (1), Miller (1). Foul goals, Worth (1), Gibbons (2), C. Holton (1). Referee, Stuart.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

Junior girls had charge of Thursday evening prayer meeting last week, the week before exams.

As is usually the case at such times our spirits were not so light as they might have been, for even to the bravest of us examinations look formidable indeed.

It was a very, very suitable occasion for a Pollyanna meeting and that was what the Junior girls decided it should be. For the benefit of those who might not have read the book Orna Gray gave a short sketch of the life of the little girl Pollyanna, whose ambition and joy it was to play and to teach everybody else to play "the game."

It was not very easy for a poor missionary's daughter like Pollyanna to play the game, but as she said, the "harder it is, the more fun it is." To have benevolent church members send you a pair of crutches when you are a little girl and longing for a doll is not really the very worst thing that could happen to one, so Pollyanna decides to be glad because she does not need the crutches. There! I almost told you about the game. And what is the game? Just this: to find something agreeable in every circumstance that arises, and something to be glad about.

The meeting was left open for any one who would to tell what she had to be glad for. Several girls gave appropriate Scripture texts and others gave reasons why they were glad. A great many of us did not voice our feelings, but all the same we were summing up the things we had to be glad for.

Mission classes were organized several weeks before Christmas and have been doing good work. A great deal of interest has been manifested by the splendid attendance at these classes. Ruth Coltrane is teaching South American Problems, Deborah Brown teaches Islam, a Challenge to Faith, Sallie McGeehee, Mexico Today, Hazel Armstrong, The New Era in Asia, and Callie Lewis The Emergency in China.

Miss Ellen White spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. J. L. Cartland.

Miss Preston spent Sunday with Juliette Ballinger.

REV. MR. TURNER SPEAKS.

Usually we have one of our faculty or one of the students to speak to us at our meetings on Thursday evenings, but this week we had Rev. J. C. Turner, pastor of the First Baptist church of Greensboro, with us. Many of us remember Mr. Turner from last year for he gave us an excellent talk at that time, and we were expecting a good talk from him this time. We were not disappointed for the speaker came prepared to give us something worth hearing.

With the words "Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of righteousness," as a text the speaker proceeded to his discourse, the subject of which was "Fidelity." "First," said the speaker, "one must be faithful to one's God." Surely the speaker presumed that every one has his God and that we, living as we do in a Christian land, had the true God as our God. "In this age of false doctrine," he continued, "one must be on one's guard less one becomes careless toward his God."

"One must be loyal to duty," said Mr. Turner. "We must recognize our duty and be faithful to it even unto death if it should be necessary. There is no other way.

Continuing the leader added that we must be faithful to the small things in life. Few of us will ever be called on to do any great thing, the great things are comparatively few. This last thought is certainly worth some consideration. Many of us spend our whole life trying to find some great thing to do, when on every side of us are myriads of small things that need doing.

We feel indeed grateful to Mr. Turner for his talk. If we will all be faithful to our God, to our fellowman, and to our duty, we have no fear about the crown of righteousness.

COLLEGE HAPPENINGS.

Prof. Brown, director of music at the Normal College, has invited the Guilford chorus to take part in a sacred cantata, Gaul's Holy City, to be given in Greensboro some Sunday afternoon in March.
