

In ancient times the poet's rhymes
Did tell how sights like this were seen
When man and maid together strayed
On Guilford's sunny campus green.

Those days of yore will come no more
For hopes and hearts are torn in twain
When Miss Louise amid the trees
Sees Cupid at his work again.

When things are sent to the laundry
Their beauty is ended for good,
The method of washing is dreadful (They could change it if they would).

The niggers boil clothes and scorch them
And put them thru a machine,
And finally give them a soaking,
That turns them blue and green.

As the girls get back their laundry
Such scolding and fussing you hear
Good tempers, as well as finery,
Are being ruined I fear.

THREE TOUCHDOWNS

the effect of overwork upon our back field. Bryant made another effort to play, in spite of his badly wrenched knee, but was again injured and had to be helped from the field. Wake Forest came back strong and with an excellently working backfield succeeded in making three touchdowns. These were made largely by the good work of Robenhorst, and Pruette. In this period Reddick was forced out of the game by injuries. Wilson, who succeeded him, played a good game, but lacked Reddick's experience and judgment.

While the whole Guilford team played aggressive football the work of Newlin, Reddick and Fort deserves especial mention. Newlin was clearly the star backfield man of the game and his line plunges were from the standpoint of good football, the feature of the afternoon. Reddick played an almost perfect game at end both on offense and defense. Jones proved his ability to carry more than his share of the backfield work and showed himself an experienced and hard playing backfield man.

The team is showing a steadily improving form and the ragged features of the earlier games were not apparent. Coach Doak is to be congratulated on the amount of football he has succeeded in teaching the team. Saturday's game showed little evidence that this is Guilford's second year in football.

The line up follows:
Guilford Wake Forest
Stafford left end Bowers
Henley left tackle Gay
Babb left guard Coble
Fort center Blankenship
Zachary r. guard Lamens
Walser r. tackle Tatum
Reddick r. end Davis
Jones q. back Pruette
Cameron l. back Robenharst
Bryant r. b. . . . Pace
Newlin f. b. . . . Blanchard
