MANDARINS, DOLLS AND 'SIMMON PUDDING

COMBINATION OF PLAY AND BAZAAR PROVES BIG SUCCESS.

Y. W. C. A. Is Resourceful Entertainers.

The Y. W. C. A., showing its usual good taste and good sense, presented a pleasing combination Saturday evening, December 13th, when it staged a short Chinese play, followed by a sale of novelties from home and abroad and of delicious "eats."

The play had for its title "The Turtle Dove." The story deals with how Chang-Sut-Yew, the hero, to escape the decree of the God of Fate that he should die, has disguised himself as a servant and is employed by a wealthy mandarin. He becomes infatuated with the mandarin's beautiful daughter and is pursued by the father's wrath. To avert a calamitous ending, the God of Fate appears and decrees that the hero shall live forever upon a willow plate.

The costuming of the cast deserves special mention, as does the general presentation of the play. Miss Frances Moore as "chorus" performed her part of introducing the players in a most creditable manner. Miss Mabel Ward as the gong bearer, acted her part well, as did also Miss Edna Raiford, property man. Miss Edith Macon in the role of the mandarin is to be commended. Miss Marina White as Chang-Sut-Yew and Miss Elizabeth Yates as Kiverlin, acted in a very clever manner their parts as "Turtle Doves."

On the whole, the play was well staged and reflects credit upon the association.

Following the play everybody was invited to visit the three booths. The novelty booth, presided over by Misses Florence Martin and Thelma Cloud, was brilliantly attired in its holiday regalia. Here, bags in all colors, shapes and designs, handkerchiefs, dolls in their best dresses, aprons, caps and pictures were to be found in bright array. These articles were donated by the girls of the Y. W. C. A.

In another corner of "Mem" hall, people who had just arrived from far Japan were seen surrounded by the many beautiful things from that beauty-loving land. Here also the Red Cross girl could be found doing her bit, selling Christmas seals. Those serving in this capacity were Miss Ruth Outland and Alma Chilton.

Last but by no means of least importance was the "Eats" booth. Surrounded as it was by crowds of people the delicious lemon tarts, persimmon pudding, oyster soup and hot cocoa with which its tables were covered could scarcely be seen.

This bazaar cleared between fifty and sixty dollars, the largest returns of any yet held in the history of the Y. W. C. A., and the association feels very grateful to every person who contributed to it in any way.

GUILFORD WINS OPENING GAME

Zachary and Smith Star for Guilford.

Coach Doak's basketball quint bagged the first game of the season last Saturday afternoon by swamping the Draper Y. M. C. A. team by a score of 52 to 6. The game was, from the beginning, a walk over for the collegians who started the scoring in the first minute of play. The visitors were clearly outclassed in every phase of the game. During the greater part of the first half it seemed as if the visitors would be blanked; however, Newman succeeded in making good a free shot from a foul. At the close of the first period the score stood 26 to 1. In the last half the "Y" boys showed considerable fighting spirit for a few minutes and succeeded in pocketing two goals from the field and one from a free try a goal.

For Draper, Newman, Seawell and Nance, three former college basketball stars, did the best work.

For Guilford, Zachary at right forward, and Smith, formerly with Asheville High School, were most familiar with the basket. Zachary, the individual star of the game, came out with twenty points to his credit. Smith scored fourteen points, twelve from the field and two points from four goals.

GUILFORD CHORUS TO SING "THE HOLY CITY."

Great Musical Treat Offered to Guilford Audience.

The Guilford College Musical Department has set a high standard in the past in the quality of its musical performances, and this year the same standard will be maintained by the rendering of "The Holy City." Much time and practice has been spent in preparation for reproducing this musical classic and never before has more skill and earnestness been shown both on the part of the chorus and its able director. And it is hoped that the members of the chorus will be well rewarded for their efforts in this work by having a large and appreciative audience at the rendition of this oratorio, on Thursday evening at Memorial Hall.

This oratorio will be well worth going a long way to hear. Don't miss it. Reward such a remarkable undertaking by coming yourself and bringing your friends with you.

Misses Harmon, Tomlinson, Williams and Henley, of the Guilford chorus, will do some of the solo work along with Mr. White as bass soloist, who will be assisted by a tenor from Boston.

WHIRLWIND CAMPAIGN AMONG STUDENTS

AGE-LONG DREAM OF REVOLUTIONISTS REALIZED.

Founders Girls Have discovered How to Bring in the Dimes and Nickels and at the Same Time Live a Life of Luxurious Ease.

The campaign among Guilford students to raise their quota for the endowment fund is being pushed forward with great enthusiasm since the rally on December 6. It is the policy of the classes that each member shall pledge himself to the amount of fifty dollars, which with our present student body of about two hundred and fifteen persons will add about ten thousand dollars to the fund. These contributions, to be paid in small amounts annually, are to be raised without the aid of parents, and in order that ways and means of meeting part of their obligation while still in college may be provided, a council has been appointed to which all matters relative to the campaign are to be referred. On this council are three faculty members and ten students, each class, including preparatory students having elected two members. It is the business of this council to publish all contributions, to pass upon all schemes for raising money, and to provide with work as far as possible those desiring it.

If one only has the price, one may truly live in luxury at Guilford since this campaign was launched. For a small sum, your boots are polished to a fine luster, your room is swept and dusted and your windows

MISSSES ALMA CHILTON AND FLORENCE MARTIN ENTERTAIN FRESHMEN GIRLS.

How glad the Freshmen girls felt on last Sunday afternoon that their names were on the Freshmen Bible Class roll and that they had been faithful attendants. Why? Because the teachers of that class, Misses Alma Chilton and Florence Martin, had summoned the entire class to a little informal tea. As the hour approached a group of merry girls gathered in the parlor at New Garden. As each entered she was given a piece of paper, a pencil and a penny. It was then announced that there would be a penny contest, and it was surprising how many things were asked to be found on one small penny.

After this was over refreshments consisting of raisin, olive and fruit sandwiches and cocoa were served by Misses Katherine Campbell and Nell Carrol.

Following the refreshments various games were played.

CLAY-PHILOMATHEAN RECEPTION

Henry Calys Prove Themselves to Be Most Acceptable Hosts.

Friday evening, Dec. 12, was one of the most enjoyable occasions of the year, for it was for that evening that the members of the Henry Clay Literary Society invited the Philomatheans to be present at their annual reception, given in the Henry Clay Society Hall.

Even before the Phils left their own society hall they had a foretaste of what was coming. Attractive program and menu favors were given them. These favors were in the shape of a Quaker hat, and the initials of the two societies were painted in gold letters on the crown of the hat.

Norman Fox, sergeant-at-arms, escorted the Philomatheans to the Clay Society Hall.

The house was called to order and the regular business was begun. Mr. Barrett, in the capacity of president, extended a most cordial welcome to all visitors, after which the program was rendered.

First, Mr. J. Curtis Newlin in a very attractive and interesting manner gave a sketch of the life of the much loved Quaker poet, Whittier, and in closing read a beautiful passage from "Snowbound."

A debate was the next feature of the program, the query being, "Resolved, That the United States should assume mandatory over Mexico."

The affirmative was upheld by Gladston Hodgkin, who argued that the United States would be justified in setting up a democratic government in Mexico for the welfare of the people, and that it was the duty of the United States to take this step.

The negative was upheld by Hugh Moore, who advanced the theory that the United States had no legal right to interfere in Mexican affairs and make virtual serfs of the people.

The judges, Misses Donna McBane, Myrtle Cox and Mary Dixon, decided in favor of the affirmative.

Perhaps no other number on the program was enjoyed more than the music selection, "Annie Laurie," sung by the Clay quartet, Fox, Ennis, Farlow and Casey. Paul Nichols gave a reading, "The Angels of Beuna Vista."

After a cogent critic's report by Harry Johnson, President Barrett called for speeches from visitors. On behalf of the Philomathean Society Misses McBane, Hayworth, Outland, Reynolds and Moore expressed the pleasure this occasion afforded to all those who love the Brown and White. After adjournment came the general "mix up," each one trying to find the number corresponding to the one on the back of his or her program. After the confusion had
