GUILFORD WINS ONE AND LOSES TWO

Trinity Wins on Foul Shooting — Carolina Too Fast for the Quaker Team—Greensboro Y. M. C. A 30, Guilford 33.

The Quakers on account of their numerous fouls lost the game with Trinity College last Monday night by the close score of 22 to 20. Guilford outplayed the Methodists in field shooting, they having 14 points from field goals against the latter's 8. The Quakers were playing too hard though for the referee's liking, and as a result about thirty fouls were called on them, of which Martin, the visitors' left guard, safely negotiated 14.

Zachary was the individual star of the game. He made 14 points from the field and pocketed three fouls. Anderson and Raiford also played an exceptionally good game for the home team. The former was, however, put out of the game on account of fouls before the finish.

For the visitors Martin and Starling did some fine work. The passing of the whole team was exceptionally good.

Line-up:

Trinity—Richardson, center; Ferrall, left forward; Sterling, right forward; Martin, left guard; Hathaway, right guard and captain.

Substitutes: Guilford, Stafford for Anderson. Trinity, Barrett for Richardson.

Score: Trinity 22, Guilford 20.

Referee: Stuart of Guilford.

Guilford Loses to Carolina.

In a fast cleanly contested game on the Greensboro Y. M. C. A. floor the Tar Heels piled up a 50 to 23 score against the Quakers last Thursday night. Guilford put up a plucky fight, but was not able to keep up with the Carolinians, who, it is claimed, have one of the strongest teams they have had in years. The aerial worts as well as the long shots for goals of the University boys were exceptionally good.

Carmichael was probably the star player for the Tar Heels. Zachary played his usual good brand of ball for Guilford. He and Frazier had the greater part of Guilford's score chalked up in their favor. Smith and Cox did some fast work as guards. A large crowd of both Guilford and Carolina Alumni and students were present for the event:

Line-up:

Guilford.	Position.	Carolina.
Raiford	L.F.	Shepherd
Frazier	R.F.	Carmichael
Zachary	C.	Lipfort
Smith	R.G.	Douglas
Cox	L.G.	Rourk

BASKET BALL

Guilford to Play Greensboro Y. M. C. A. at Guilford Saturday Evening, Jan. 24.

The close score of Saturday night's game between these two teams promises that this contest will be one of unusual interest to lovers of this sport. Guilford's line-up will probably be Zachary, center, Frazier and Raiford, forwards, Smith and Anderson, guards.

MYRTLE COX TALKS ON PRAYER IN SUNDAY MORNING CHAPEL

Guilford student body was favored last Sunday morning with an inspiring and helpful talk by Myrtle Cox on the subject of prayer. The leader read as a scripture lesson from Luke II, where Jesus' disciples asked Him to teach them to pray, and in response the Master gave them the great model prayer.

The leader brought out the fact very forcefully that we in this day need to ask our Saviour to teach us to pray. Men, whether heathen or Christian, pray to their gods. If heathen they pray to wooden or stone gods, and if Christians to the Great Spirit God. The question is, do we pray aright? Are our spirits in harmony with the praise and petitions that we offer? Do we make prayer a mockery because we are not sincere in our asking? These are questions to be considered if prayer is made effectual.

Some of the essentials of prayer, Miss Cox told us, "are solemnity, sincerity, faith, forgiving spirit, perseverance, constance, and prayer in the Saviour's name. First and always in praying we should praise God. After this, according to the teachings which Jesus gave, we may ask for things necessary for our spiritual and physical needs. Jesus' life was a prayer life and He called on His disciples for sympathy and help in times of crisis. Now again is a great crisis and men need to realize afresh the value and consolation in real earnest prayer.

ZATASIANS RESUME WORK WITH ENTHUSIASM.

The two meetings of the Zatasians since Christmas have shown an unusual amount of enthusiasm.

Especially was the meeting on Friday evening, Jan. 15, full of interest and pep. The program was as follows:

- I. Present Day Problems—Miss Richardson.
- II. Things to Be Found in the Library—Miss Edith Harrison.
- III. Reading—Miss Neece.
- IV. Vocal Solo—Miss Mock.

After a splendid critic's report by Miss Williams, society adjourned.

Y. W. C. A. ABROAD AND AT HOME

Miss Elizabeth Gaines Talks to the Y. W. C. A. Girls.

Last Saturday afternoon Miss Elizabeth Gaines, student secretary of the South Atlantic Field, spoke to the members of the Y. W. C. A. of the problems of girls in different parts of the world.

The Y. W. C. A. is a large organization, doing work in many countries. Its doors are open to meet the needs of women and girls. In China it is at work, and the need for more workers is great. China is a thickly populated country whose people are in strife and ignorance. Ninety-seven per cent of the people are illiterate. It is difficult for them to get national solidarity because they have so many dialects. China needs a new religion to take the place of the crumbling ones. Do we dare to pass by the open door of China? There are thirteen hundred and nine Y. W. C. A. Associations now in China, but they have only dark, unattractive, rented rooms for the secretaries.

Japan is another country that needs our helpful consideration. It has a bad factory system. The average wage per day is fifteen cents, and the time for working is ten hours per day. There is much disease; womanhood is abused. Japan is turning to us for our ideals. At present there are only thirty-three Y. W. C. A. Associations in Japan.

In India the doors are open to us for physical, moral and spiritual assistance. One hundred million people of India lie down hungry every night. India's women, however, have more rights than those of China. Some Indian women are doctors, some politicians, and others poetesses.

South America is making progress in intellectual and material things, but not in spiritual things. They, as well as the European, are looking to the United States for spiritual inspiration.

Even in our own country there is need for help. The doors are open for student workers. Not even all the colleges have Y. W. C. A. Associations. Many, however, are now asking for them. The Y. W. C. A. has a work to do among the industrial girls, the colored girls and the foreigners. They must be taught to think right. "No nation rises above its womanhood."

What can we as students do? We can give ourselves—we can give our minds and thoughts—we can give our prayers. More is gained by prayer than the world knows of. Each in our own little corner can live a true consecrated Christian life, doing as much as we can for the Master.

1920 QUAKER READY FOR THE PRESS

Send in Your Orders for them Now.

Manager White, of the 1920 Quaker, gives out the information that the material for the first part of the annual is already in the printer's hands with the balance about ready to follow. Practically all the pictures and cartoons were sent in to the engraver before the holidays. A few more athletic and student organization pictures are to be made at the earliest convenience. By getting the material in this early the publishers have promised to have the book out by April 20th.

All Alumni, old students or friends of the college who desire one of these annuals are asked to send in their request to David J. White as soon as possible, so their order can be sent in. The price of the Quaker this year will be $3.00 net.

HONOR SYSTEM DEBATED BY WEBSTERIANS.

The minds of everyone being filled with the thoughts of the approaching Final Exams, the literary exercises of the Websterian Society were Friday night changed to an extemporaneous debate on the advisability of having the honor system on examinations at Guilford. Shields Cameron and Herman Raiford advanced the affirmative of this question against Arthur Lineberry and John Dorsett, who attacked the system from the negative standpoint. The latter won the decision of the judges, who were Beeson, Rolison and Harris. The argument of the affirmative was to the point that the honor system was best for character building, as it left the matter of fairness to one's personal conscience and not to the mere fear of being apprehended. Inability to do one's best on examinations because of nervousness from having so many instructors moving around was also brought out as a strong argument for the system.

The negative's strong argument against the system being adopted at Guilford was on account of the mixing of college and preparatory students here. They contended also that character was built better by force than by personal effort. That is, in this case, that fear of being caught was a greater incentive to honesty on examinations than obedience to one's conscience.
