PHILOMATHEANS ENTERTAIN WEBSTERIANS

PHILOMATHEANS ENTERTAIN WEBSTERIANS

Delightful Irish Program Rendered In Celebration of St. Patrick's Day

The inter-society receptions are always looked forward to as among the brightest spots of Guilford society life and it is safe to say that the Friday night reception of the Philomatheans at Memorial Hall in honor of the members of the Websterian Literary Society fully lived up to the expectations.

The guests were met at the door by the marshal and ushered into the hall, of which a part had been screened off so as to leave just space enough for the gathering. The guests were given the seats of honor in the center. The hall was tastefully decorated in the green symbolic of St. Patrick and the Irish. The program was a continuation of the same idea and very cleverly carried out.

Miss Edna Raiford as an introduction to the program of the evening, told in a clear, simple manner some of the legends of the Irish concerning their patron saint. "A Little Bit of Heaven" was then rendered quite effectively by Miss Clara Henley. This is one of the old Irish melodies that one never grows tired of hearing and Miss Henley put the expression necessary in her song to make it appreciated.

A lively debate between Misses Ruth Outland and Isla Thompson of the affirmative and Misses Ruth Reynolds and Nell Schoolfield of the negative, on the question that England should now grant Ireland her independence, was won affirmatively. The question was well developed and debated on both sides. The rebuttal were specially spicy and exciting.

A piano solo, "Evening Chimes," by Miss Thelma Cloud, was heartily applauded. Misses Carroll and Hayworth then gave a clever Irish character sketch in costume. With real Irish wit they scored nearly every one present in one manner or another.

A few words in appreciation of their hostesses' hospitality were then spoken by the guests. Miss Elsie Clegg, as President of the Society, responded to these. After the rendition of a very clever report by the critic, Miss Gertrude Hobbs, the Society adjourned to the Society halls in Founders, where the culinary skill of the hostesses was shown in the following delightful menu:

Fruit Cocktail
Chicken Salad
Saratoga Chips, Pickles
Saltines Mint Punch
Pistachio Cream Cake
Mints

At a late hour the Websterians departed voting the Philomathean to be jolly hostesses and delightful entertainers.

CURTAIN RISES SATURDAY NIGHT AT 8:00 O'CLOCK

The curtain is all set to rise Saturday night at 8 p. m. on "Mistah Johnson" and his gang of niggers. Rastus and Bones have just gotten in a new barrel of jokes from Professor Brinton out on the Pacific coast, and are working them over as fast as possible. Sambo and Sugarfoot have disappeared clear off the earth. At last reports Mistah Johnson was looking for them under "Mem" Hall with a four-horse wagon whip in his hand. It is unknown whether they were looking for hen roosts or family skeletons, probably both. The management is not worrying very much about them though, as they have a reputation exceeding that of the Katzenjammer Kids for getting out of trouble.

Quaker feet are getting limbered up as "Kat" jazes out the notes. Tambourines have had the dust shaken off them. Ragtime has chased Mozart off the stage temporarily. Till after Saturday night. A surprise spectacle in last act! Do you know who is going to sing? And what? Come see!!

Guilford Girls Represented At Raleigh

Y. W. C. A. Training Council Held At Meredith

The Y. W. C. A. Cabinet members of Guilford enjoyed a pleasant weekend at Meredith College, Raleigh, when the annual Y. W. C. A. training council was held March 12, 13 and 14. The colleges represented were Elon, Greensboro College for Women, Guilford, Meredith, Peace and Trinity. The leaders of the council were Miss Mary L. Cody, executive secretary of National Educational Department, Y. W. C. A., Pearl Forsyth, secretary of Educational committee, South Atlantic Field, Adele Ruffin, colored secretary of South Atlantic field, Elsie Heller, student secretary, Willie Young, also student secretary, and Madge Sills, undergraduate field representative, Greensboro College for Women.

The opening meeting of the council was held Friday evening at 8:30 and the program for the regular meetings was decided upon. Saturday morning President Brewer welcomed the delegations at chapel, and Miss Young then talked concerning the attitude of students toward world-wide problems. The important issues of the Cleveland Convention were brought out, and the vital need for clear thinking concerning the votes was especially emphasized.

Miss Forsyth, the chief speaker at the council, lead three discussions on Christian fundamentals. Such questions as "Would there be any knowledge of Christianity should we be born again and never hear nor know the meaning of the word God?" and "What is religion?" were ably discussed. Miss Ruffin brought a wonderful appeal for her race before the council as to a better race and industrial understanding. Madge Sills brought the message of a more

GUILFORD REPUBLICANS ORGANIZE

The Republicans of Guilford College amid much enthusiasm and speech-making, organized into a working body here Monday afternoon, March 15.

The meeting was carried on in true convention style. Algia I. Newlin as temporary chairman, made the keynote speech of the convention, outlining the principles upon which the Republican party stands and defining the main issues of the coming campaign. The convention was then thrown open for the election of a permanent chairman. Leslie H. Barrett was unanimously chosen for this position. Mr. Barrett, in his speech, appealed to the Republicans of today to continue the principles of our great Republican leaders, Lincoln, McKinley and Roosevelt, and to reinstate those principles into our government at the coming election. Miss Ruth Outland, who is the chief leader of the G. O. P. faith among the girls of the college, was elected secretary of the club. H. L. Johnson was elected a member of the National Executive Committee and S. Gladstone Hodgkin, chairman of the State Executive Committee.

In a hotly contested election the following were chosen as delegates-at-large to attend the National Republican Convention in Chicago: Mark C. Mills, J. T. Maddox, J. C. Newlin and Eleanor M. Gifford. Each of these delegates was in turn called to the floor and wave after wave of applause rolled through the convention hall, as they fired the people with principles of Republicanism.

The committee on platform submitted a platform embodying the principles and issues adopted by the Republican State Convention. In discussing the various planks special emphasis was laid upon the extravagance of the present administration and the North Carolina Revaluation Taxation Act was heavily scored. Planks embodying many needed local reforms were also incorporated in the platform. The convention goes on record as supporting Henry Cabott Lodge and his associates for their stand concerning the present international situation.

The Republicans are up and doing. Speakers of note are scheduled to speak here this spring and student political debates are anticipated.

Bring your girl and friends along. They'll enjoy the jokes and ragtime.

Charles M. Woodman, pastor of the West Richmond, Ind., Friends Meeting, spoke at the regular chapel hour Friday of last week. Mr. Woodman spoke on world relationships and the student's place in them. The bassalureate sermon this spring will be delivered by Mr. Woodman.

OPENING BASEBALL GAME WITH LENOIR COLLEGE.

On Thursday afternoon, March 25, Coach Doak will put his baseball forces to the first test of the season by matching them with the Lenoir College aggregation. Lenoir played the first game of her schedule last Monday, meeting A. and E. in West Raleigh. The relative strength of the two teams cannot be stated yet, as Guilford has not played any games.

The Guilford line-up for the game is as yet rather uncertain. One of the "Shore" boys will very likely occupy the mound and either Kiser, Gilbroth or Stanfield will be at the receiving end. The infield will be filled up by four men from the following list: Morlette, Frazier, "Jim" Newlin, Stout and Fox. It seems now, that Johnson, Cummings and J. C. Newlin will occupy the outposts.

Meet your old classmates at "Mem" Hall Saturday night, alumni!

MISS HAZLETT, A SECRETARY OF STUDENT VOLUNTEER MONUMENT VISITS GUILFORD

A Report of Davidson Conference Given In Chapel

Guilford students were glad to welcome Miss Hazelett as their visitor on Monday and Tuesday, March 16 and 17. While here, she gave two inspiring talks to the whole student body and held conferences with many students who are considering the foreign mission field as a prospective field of work.

On Monday evening, Miss Hazlett based her talk on the subject, "Why One Should Be a Volunteer for Foreign Service." She showed clearly that no student should be satisfied with the plan for his life until he has considered all fields of work, in the light of the high standard of service. Life work should be chosen in the field of greatest need. After the need is seen clearly and even
