In view of the fact that the Easter holidays are due to arrive at this week's end, the Guilfordian board announces that publication of the next number will be postponed a week. A number of the boys and girls will be away from the College while others will linger around the hill and find amusement in tennis playing, socials and other forms of amusement. Whatever be the plans we wish for our friends and readers much happiness during the holidays.

Guilford College has always been esteemed in the eyes of the public and the alumni for its beautiful campus and buildings. The new green grass is already beginning to spread a carpet on the campus. The buds are swelling bigger every day and the shrubbery will all soon be in full bloom. But how about those wild onions which seem to be crowding out the grass? The general appearance of the campus at present seems to be in a neglected state. Students do not seem to know that there are or ever will be any walks. The walks leading from the library to the main driveway is all cut up with automobiles especially just in front of the library. Who is responsible for these existing conditions? Can someone advise a remedy?

ANNUAL MINSTREL PLAYS TO A CAPACITY HOUSE

with the family sitting on the steps surrounded by a group of negroes singing old plantation melodies. While the others were singing "Old Black Joe" he himself, his progress marked by the spot light, limped into the circle and was given a place of honor. Mrs. J. F. Davis Talks to the Girls of the Student Government Association

Mrs. Davis began with the question: "Why did you come to Guilford College?" Some go to college because their parents wished it, others go that they may learn to serve better. The reason which brings students to college is not as important as the way they conduct themselves after they enter. They have to learn to live with people and be subject to the laws of the institution. Obedience there, is the first requisite of a successful school career.

From childhood people want to be a part of some organization. Organization promotes order, order law, and law obedience. A splendid organization in college that should promote order is the Student Government Organization. This may be compared with a little commonwealth where the members make their laws and elect their officers. Student, or self-government will be successful if all the members are absolutely truthful at all times both in word and deed, and are willing to sacrifice for others. Thus each may develop his own character as every new step of sacrifice helps him in the future.

Such a company of girls as there is at Guilford College needs no stronger government than Student Government. By it each may grow stronger, for she should realize that she is an important part of the government. The purpose of Student Government is not for one student to spy on another, but to develop the highest sense of honor in herself. People should never watch for evil except in themselves. At college is the place for boys and girls to become masters of themselves, for "who masters best himself, best serves his state and his fellowmen."
