

ALUMNI NOTES

As predicted in last issue Joseph M. Dixon, '89, was elected Governor of Montana. This will be interesting news to his many friends and relatives in North Carolina. Mr. Dixon is a member of the first class to graduate from Guilford College. Other members of the class are Robert H. Cronk of Pickering, Ontario; Edward B. Moore, prominent farmer of Siler City, N. C., Robert Cromwell Root, an influential member of the Rose League, stationed at Berkley, California; Florina Worth, now Mrs. R. B. Johns, wife of the president of Carolina College, Maxton, N. C. Three members of the class are deceased: Lola Stanley Moore; Lucius A. Ward and Campbell White.

Otis E. Mendenhall, '95 of High Point, N. C., was elected to the State Senate from this district at the recent election. Mr. Mendenhall has always been a loyal member of the Alumni Association serving as president several times.

C. Gordon Gainey, '04 of Fayetteville was elected to the Board of County Commissioners of Cumberland County at the election just passed.

E. P. Dixon, '04 of Saxapahaw, N. C. was elected to the Board of Commissioners for Alamance County. Reports indicate that he failed in leading his ticket by just one vote.

The Methodist Sunday School Training Institute to be held in West Market Methodist church, Greensboro, N. C., Nov. 21-27, is under the immediate supervision of O. V. Woosley, '05, as Educational Director and N. R. Hodgkin, '09 Secretary. This is a great work and we are glad to see Guilford Alumni taking the lead in such matters.

Though somewhat delayed we are none the less glad to announce through the Alumni column the marriage of Gladys May Highfill to Allen Marshall on September 20th. Gladys is teaching at Dennis, N. C., but expects to make Winston-Salem her home after this school year.

consideration and will use this for his own development.

A student of any college should have the welfare of his college at heart as well as his own personal development. He represents his part of the college whether he works or not and should be anxious to contribute the best within him. He should have or cultivate an appreciation of public functions which are worth while and should be determined to show by his attention that he is able to appreciate. The world is reading the college partly through its students and it is reading the students through their words and acts. May no opportunity pass unobserved, or unused that could be used for the worthy purpose of learning how to be truly great. Not until a person learns how to get below the surface into the real deep of thought, love and sympathy, not until he is willing to make opportunities, rather than wait for them, will he learn this great lesson of doing well, and prove himself able to live the real life.—A student.

the art galleries of that city were shown.

Another phase of the entertainment was the moving pictures. Several comedies were given and on Saturday evening a most interesting drama.

The following pictures were appreciated by the students: George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Woodrow Wilson, Warren J. Harding and Calvin Coolidge.

Another feature of the program was the community singing. The popular songs of the day were thrown on the screen with appropriate illustrations and sung by the audience.

Mrs. Dawson, wife of the director provided the music for each entertainment.

POST ELECTION CELEBRATION

the interment of Defeated Democratic candidate for president. The elaborate funeral procession, with the pall bearers dressed in white, and the numerous bright torches made a complete circle of the campus square and stopped in front of Founders Hall to eulogize the fallen candidate. Here the plans of the Republicans were blocked.

The national minority party is the majority party at Guilford, and before the funeral procession reached Founders every member of the Democratic club had rushed out and toward the procession, and with the women of this club occupying the windows of Founders, all together, sent up such a yell for their standard bearers, State and National, mingled with jeers for the Republicans that the eulogy could hardly be heard by those standing at the shoulder of the speaker. After interment the beautiful mound was wrecked and the casket cremated.

One noticeable feature of crossfire of cheers, jeers and yells was that the Republicans made no reference to their own defeated candidates in North Carolina, while the Democrats yelled quite frequently for Morrison.

Both parties pretended to be highly elated over the outcome of the election. The Democratic club members only the state election, while the Republicans seemed to forget that they are Carolinians, and shout only for the victory of their national candidate.

SUNDAY MORNING CHAPEL

"Co-operation" was the subject for Sunday morning—chapel was lead by Berry Lee White.

Mr. White in a very forceful way impressed the Guilford students of the great need of co-operation in college life as well as in the life after school days are passed. Co-operation is essential to any organization. So it is in life—in the home communities, in all phases of life. May we as college students learn this great lesson of co-operation.
