EDITORIAL

Editors this issue, Grady McBane and Ruth Outland.

A better college does not hang on any one rule or phase but on a better college spirit. This can be obtained by one fellow always doing the right thing in the right place. It takes all the fellows working as one. Through cooperation only can the right spirit prevail upon the campus. Cooperation is the keynote to the success of all reforms. Only through cooperation were the Allies victorious in the world war. This method of working and living has caused such great results that surely it can be used to help the college.

You, who have elected Guilford for your Alma Mater hold in your hearts an unspoken wish that it will be greater for your four years spent within its walls. Then, what are you doing to make it greater? Are you casting your vote for officers for the Athletic Cabinets, and the leaving them to do all the work without your backing? Are you placing in your Christian Association cabinets the most capable officers, and then, forgetting the existence of the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A? Are you a member of a Literary society because it is the proper thing to be and then failing to do your part of the society work? Are you the kind of fellow who, at a ball game, yells the loudest for Guilford, and then in your own room can not find language to show your contempt for the college?

If this description applies to you you are not helping to create a better college spirit and a better college depends upon the spirit and attitude of its students.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Thursday night, since through a misunderstanding there had been no leader appointed, the Y. M. C. A. meeting was turned over to volunteers and two interesting and helpful talks were made.

The first of these talks was made by Professor Dann. His talk centered around the negligence of people in their relation to God. "To know God it is necessary to have fellowship with God." Some people, the speaker went on to say, do not think of God's benefits enough and never discover that they can work with God. A man who raises produce from the soil, is prone to look upon the produce as the result of his labor, forgetting the important fact that all things come from God. This state of mind too often leads to self-satisfaction, and instead of coming nearer, the person draws further from God.

President Binford then expressed in a very clear and forceful way a few of the important factors which go to make up the true christian experience.

"Christian experience is a definite thing and people, in their present environment, are apt to overlook the essential factor. In order to obtain that peace, faith, and sublimity of the Christian life one must devote oneself to reverence and respect of the Divine One, and make up one's mind to bring his or her life into harmony with the good. By thus doing a conscientious beginning is made in Christianity." The speaker went on to say that there comes a time in the lives of all when a definite stand must be taken one way or the other. People are not born into the kingdom of God by a single act, nor do they mature into that Christian fellowship with God by a single act. It is by prayer, that you achieve a personal friendship with God, and in that way modify God and have God modified in you, and thus make your friendship as valuable to God as his is to you.

Fellows, did you ever stop to think that if you spent half as much time choosing your friends as you do your courses how much better off the majority of us would be? Did you ever give the Y. M. C. A. a serious thought? The boy who cares enough about his own salvation to go once a week to worship, shows at least a trait of character worthy of any one. A friend picked from such a group of boys, would be a friend.

Why not turn out next Thursday night and look the thing over? You may be good, but don't you think a little improvement would help? Think it over and let's see what "our" Y. M. C. A. can do.

MOVIES

The college has been fortunate in securing three photoplays of the highest type which will be presented within the next few weeks at Memorial Hall. They are all movies of unusually high order and should be Saturday night, February 12. This enjoyed by large audiences.

"The Miracle Man" is to be shown is considered one of the very best productions ever screened. Maude Adams, a beautiful star, plays the part of heroine in the play. Be sure to come and see the wonders which the Miracle Man performs.

On Saturday evening, February 26, Materlinek' story, "The Blue Bird" is coming to Guilford. This is a play which will appeal to all. Do not miss it.

And on the night of March 12 Mary Miles Minter, a favorite movie star, can be seen at her best in "Sweet Lavender."
