CLAY-ZATASIAN RECITATION

Zatasians Visit the Senate.
Unique and interesting
Program Given

After looking forward for some time with pleasant anticipation to a grand and glorious event when they should visit the Henry Clays, the members of the Zatasian Literary Society on the evening of May 13, 1921, were escorted into the Senate chamber, where they were allowed to sit through the first session of the senate of the sixty-seventh Congress of the United States. The Chaplain offered a brief prayer, after which Algie Newlin, acting as president, asked the clerk to call the roll, a quorum being present, the business of the day was taken up, the main feature of which was the discussion of the Colombian treaty. The discussion was begun by Senator Lodge, (J. C. Newlin) from Massachusetts who gave a ten minutes talk in favor of the ratification of the treaty. This was followed by Senator Borah from Idaho (L. L. Williams) Senator Pomeroy from Ohio (Edward L. Hollady) and Senator Johnson from California, (Gladstone Hodgkin) also made speeches on this subject. After the discussion the vote was taken, the majority being in favor of the ratification of the treaty. Senator Overman of North Carolina (Spot Taylor) brought up a tariff bill which was amended by Senator Williams of Mississippi (Everett Hollady). This matter being referred back to the committee on ways and means, the most important business of the day was then taken up. Senator Knox of Pennsylvania (B. L. White) presented a bill which he said was being discussed all over the United States, and which deserved the special attention of the senate. This bill provided for the enlarging and remodeling of the east parlor of Founders Hall, at Guilford College, North Carolina. The main feature of the change to be made was the discarding of the glass door and the large mirror which seemed to disturb the peace of some of the occupants as shown by telegrams from interested Guilford couples. Senator Knox's eloquent plea was answered by Senator Ashurst of Arizona (E. Shaver) and Senator McNary from Oregon (R. Marshall) who were strongly opposed to this bill. After humorous speeches on both sides of the question, the president referred the proposed bill to the committee on marriage and divorce.

The President made a speech of welcome to the ladies present, and gave them an opportunity to address the Senate. The latter were very glad of the opportunity to address such an august body, and expressed their appreciation of the splendid program. The Senate then adjourned and each Senator sought out his partner and proceeded to entertain her royally for the rest of the evening. Conversation and mirth overflowed while the delicious menu was being served. This consisted of Waldorf Salad, cheese apples, sandwiches, ice cream, cake, coffee, and mints.

DR. AND MRS. BINFORD ENTERTAIN THE JUNIORS.

Newspapers Put to Various Uses.
Refreshments Served.

Much anticipation and enthusiasm was aroused among the members of the Junior class when they received a very timely invitation, which had been cut from newspapers, to be present at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Binford on Tuesday evening, May 10. An invitation to the home of the president brought back memories of the first year spent at Guilford College by the Juniors and they realized how well they would be entertained.

The newspaper idea was carried through the entire evening. Portions were secured by matching clippings from newspapers. After each person had found a portion they were given newspapers and pins to make a dress or costume for his or her partner. Costumes of all kinds were made. Some of the dresses were altogether new style and every one felt very much dressed up when wearing the dress planned by his or her partner. After each person was well dressed a costume parade was given and the judges who were Mrs. Binford and Miss Noles decided who had won the prize. The next was an animal contest. Each person was given a news paper on which was written the name of an animal to be torn from the paper. General games were also played and were enjoyed and were enjoyed very much.

Newspapers were again given to every one. This time they were for napkins. Refreshments were served consisting of cake and ice cream.

It was then time to go home but no Junior wished to leave until Mrs. Binford had favored them with at least one piano solo.

The Juniors left more jolly than ever before exclaiming what a great time they had had.

GIRLS' ATHLETICS

Y. W. A. A. Closes Successful Season
Letters and Monograms Awarded.

Guilford is closing one of the most successful years in Girl's Athletics that it has ever known, and as a result the Association has spent more money for Athletics this year than has been spent in any year in the past.

In the fall one of the first things the new cabinet did was to revise the new constitution and draw up new rules and regulations, governing the winning of letters, in hiking, baseball, basket-ball and tennis. A list of by-laws and eligibility rules were also written for the association. Volley ball was introduced as a new sport and altho not a large number of the girls have taken an active part, quite a number have shown much interest in the new sport.

The base-ball manager has purchased a number of new balls and bats, which enables all the girls who wish to play base-ball. During the fall term four baseball teams played on all the regular practice

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION HOLDS IMPORTANT MEETING

New Constitution Adopted, Officers Elected.

The regular Spring meeting of the Young Men's Athletic Association, which was held May 16, was the most significant athletic assembly held at Guilford in several years. At the very outset it became a revolutionary body by taking up the question of constitutional revision. An entirely new constitution, which had been drafted by a committee from the athletic Council and approved by the Council was submitted to the Association for its consideration. After considerable discussion about the provisions of article six which deals with the qualifications of officers of the Association the constitution was accepted without alteration, by an overwhelming majority.

Under the new constitution, authority is centralized, thus creating a responsible executive. The new office of Faculty Manager was created. This officer is held responsible for the general supervision of athletics. It is believed that under this system of centralization the affairs of the Association will be conducted on a more business-like basis, which will mean better athletics for Guilford.

A report of the financial status of the Association was given by Professor Newlin of the Faculty Athletic Committee. Coach Doak was given a vote of thanks for the excellent service he had rendered during the year.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: president, L. L. Williams; vice president, J. H. White; secretary, Dewey Crews; Basketball manager, J. Curtis Newlin; Basketball manager W. T. Cox; Tennis Manager, Everette Hollady; track manager, F. M. White.

LETTER MEN HONORED AT CHAPEL EXERCISE

Base ball and Basket-ball players Receive Letters.

The Young Men's Athletic Association took the chapel period Thursday morning, for the purpose of rewarding honors to basket ball and base ball men. B. S. White, president of the association, conducted the exercise. He began by recounting the recent trip of the baseball team through Virginia, telling of the splendid spirit of the squad as others observed it. This news made every Guilfordian feel proud of the team, even though it did not win a majority of the games played, for they knew it played with a sportsmanlike spirit. If the team was defeated the spirit of it was unbroken, for it knew that all achievements did not crown the efforts of the team which succeeded in getting the most runs across the rubber. It is such spirit as this will make athletics better for Guilford and it is hoped that it will permeate all of our athletic teams.

The following men were awarded basketball letters, having met the re-

WEBSTERIANS HOLD ANNUAL CONTEST.

Macon the Successful Contestant

The thirty-fifth Annual oratorical contest of the websterian literary Society was held in Memorial Hall, Saturday evening, May 14th.

Although there were only three orations delivered, much credit was reflected upon the society of which they were representatives.

In the first oration, "The Laborer's Place," Charles R. Rollinson very interestingly traced the Laborer's place in the development of America. He also presented many of the problems that are now confronting the laboring classes and, in a very convincing manner, showed how that education must be the secret.

In the second speech, "The Future of the Forest," Samuel P. Harris gave some very striking illustrations of how our forests are being devastated, and showed the great loss that is being inflicted upon our country by the destruction of our timber.

The last oration, "Attaining the Ideal," was delivered by Hersal L. Macon. The speaker very gracefully presented the fundamental courses of the world's political and economical unrest. He also contended that the Ideal will be attained only when the world will have recognized Christ and his teachings.

The audience was then favored with an instrumental duet by Misses Ada McCracken and Alta Rush.

The judges for the evening were Miss Bessie V. Noles, Fred H. Morris and Professor Balderston.

After the decision of the Judges Fred H. Morris gave some very encouraging remarks and awarded the medal to Hersal L. Macon.

GUILFORD'S ATHLETIC STARS TO MEET AGAIN

Baseball Game Planned.

On May the thirtieth at eleven o'clock in the Henry Clay Hall, There will be a meeting of the Letter Men. Every old Man is cordially invited to be present and take part in the meeting.

The object of the meeting is to discuss athletics in general. We, the Guilford students of to-day are very grateful to you, for the excellent way in which you represented the college on the athletic field in the days of the past. We are also very anxious to hear you give a talk reminiscent of former years, as well as to advise with us for the future.

For a number of years the varsity baseball team has been playing, a team composed of the Alumni on Monday of commencement. The varsity team would be pleased if it might have an opportunity to play this year, however, the team and Coach Doak would rather see two teams composed of old Guilford Letter Men play on Hobbs Athletic Field Monday afternoon of commencement at two o'clock.

Please remember the day and arrange to be present. Lay aside your business for one day and enjoy athletics once more. Come, for we want to see how you look in a Guilford uniform again.
