VIRGINIA TRIP CLOSES SEASON, QUAKERS DROP FOUR AND WIN ONE

Guilford closes its baseball season with a week's trip through Virginia, April 23 to 30. The Quakers played five games, meeting some of the strongest teams in the state. While the team took only one game it played top notch ball in all the contests.

The Quakers opened the Virginia trip with a two game series at Hampden-Sidney; losing the first game 2 to 3, and the second exhibition 4 to 2.

A comedy of errors, or perhaps a tragedy of errors best characterizes the initial contest. Ferrell, on the mound for Guilford, pitched a bumper game, allowing only three safe bingles. The Quakers clearly outclassed their opponents in the use of the willow but in the fielding game the team looked like a wash woman. A grand total of eleven errors, most of which came at critical points in the game spells the tale of defeat.

The second game was passed up to the Hampden Sidney lads to the tune of 4 to 2. The Virginians found their batting eye and knocked the agate for 10 clean bingles driving McBane from the box in the second frame.

After the second inning which Hampden-Sidney turned into a slugfest, sending across enough runs to sew up the game, the Quaker machine tightened but they were never able to overcome the lead secured.

H. B. Shore who relieved McBane checked the batting rally and held his opponents in good check for the rest of the game. Only once did the Hampden-Sidney lads cross the rubber on his delivery.

The Quakers tallied one run in the fifth and their final score in the sixth.

VOICE RECITAL AT MEMORIAL HALL

Saturday night Memorial Hall was filled with an appreciative audience to hear the last general vocal recital of the pupils of James Westley White, instructor in voice, and director at Guilford. An interesting program was given in a splendid manner, each pupil demonstrating that he had his resources well in hand, and reflecting credit on himself and his instructor. The college has three graduates from the voice department at the college this year and the dates of the individual recitals were announced last night, as follows: Miss Clara Henley, of Taylorsville, on May 15. Miss Hope Motley, of Danville, Va., on May 24; Miss Esther White, of Seattle, Wash., on June 2.

- The program follows:
- (a) Cob-Web G. Smith
 - (b) Into the Sunshine ... J. L. Clarke Evelyn Henley.
 - (a) Her Portrait O. J. Fox
 - (b) My Love T. A. Coerne
 - (c) Miss Kitty O'Toole ... D. Prothrow John Reynolds.

GUILFORD WINS FROM ROANOKE 4 TO 6

Guilford won the third game of the trip from Roanoke College 4 to 2. Babe Shore pitched a brand of ball that was entirely too much for the Virginians, and this together with the guilt edge support afforded him by his team mates was responsible for the victory.

Newlin did deadly work for the Quakers when it came to swinging the bludgeon, garnering four bingles out of five trips to the plate. Captain Litts, the Virginians' star third baseman, was also effective with the willow. He slashed out a circuit drive in the lucky seventh and added a two base hit besides.

Guilford started the scoring in the second when hits by Winn, Smith and Shore netted one run. The home run drive of Litts in the seventh

PROF. GRAVES ADDRESSES ENGLISH MEETING

Methods of Newspaper, War Correspondents Discussed.

Methods of handling newspaper in Europe during the war was the theme of a lecture delivered in Memorial Hall, April 26, by Professor Louis Graves of the Department of Journalism at Chapel Hill, at an open meeting of the English Department.

Mr. Graves, a man of wide journalistic experience, recounted in interesting fashion many facts based on his own observations in Europe following his transfer to the American press section after the armistice, and his experience in Paris after his discharge from the army.

The speaker began his lecture by telling how the newspaper work during the war was systematized. There was a press section to which newspapers had correspondents. The reporters could go out anywhere to get news. They could follow as close to the firing line as they wished, and when chance would permit, they could have an interview with the officers. They reported the news to the press section where it first had to pass through a censoring committee. Any future plans of the officers as to the position of the troops were cut out. As the firing line would advance the general staff would order the press section to move up. The press section was not stationary; it was allowed to be moved wherever the staff thought best.

Sometimes newspaper reporters got the privilege of going out on the battle fields and to different scenes of historical events where they picked up much news to store away and use for future writing.

After Mr. Graves was discharged he stayed in France as a freeplace newspaper man and wrote articles for papers and magazines of the United States. He also spent much time studying the French newspapers.

Mr. Graves also spoke to the class in Journalism, Tuesday afternoon, upon the subject of newspaper feature articles.

DR. PERISHO REPORTS INTERESTING TRIP

On last Sunday morning, Dr. Perisho spoke at Neuse in Wayne County, in the afternoon appearing at the Goldsboro Friends' meeting.

On April 24, Dr. Perisho gave a Commencement address at the Group Center Commencement at Eureka. On the 25th and the 26th, he spoke at Woodland and Saulston at similar occasions. Dr. Perisho states that from six to ten schools were represented at each group center. The program as a rule began at 9:00 or 10:00 o'clock in the morning and continued until late afternoon. The literary contests and the Commencement address was given in the morning and the athletic events took place in the afternoon. At the noon hour, a regular picnic dinner was served at each of these places.

While at Woodland, Dr. Perisho aided in forming a Guilford Club. William Moore was elected president; Mabel Edgerton Barden, vice president; Frances Moore, secretary; and Leslie Pearson, chairman of the executive committee.

The later part of the week, Dr. Perisho spent in Alamance county. On May 2, he returns to Alamance, delivering the Commencement address at Sylvan high school, Snow Camp, on that day. May 3 he will deliver a similar address at Trinity high school, and May 4, at Bessemer high school, Greensboro.

GUILFORD DELEGATES REPORT INSPIRING CONVENTION

Seventh National Convention of Y. W. C. A. Meets at Hot Springs

The seventh National Convention of the Young Women's Christian Association met in Hot Springs, Arkansas, April 20-27.

The convention opened with a registration of approximately two thousand delegates, leaders and representatives from all parts of the United States, also including a number of foreign students and secretaries.

All trains well met by members of the Hot Springs Association, and the delegates transported from the railway station to the Hotel Eastman, the Convention headquarters. From here assignments were made to homes and hotels of the city.

The convention was called to order by Mrs. Frederick M. Paish, president of the sixth National Convention which met at Cleveland, Ohio, in 1920. The first session was given over to greetings and responses from the Hot Springs Association and various organizations represented.

With the exception of the first, the order of meetings for each day was: 9:00 Morning Worship, Address. 10:00 Business of the Convention. Noon. 12:00, Meeting of Convention Committees.

1:00, Luncheon Conferences. Afternoon. 2:00, Sectional meetings, Student Assembly, 3:00, United Convention. Evening: 8:00. Opening worship, Address:

Miss A. Maud Royden, of London, the most prominent speaker of the Convention gave a service of addresses on "Women and the World's Future." In her characteristic powerful manner, Miss Royden impressed her audiences with the fearful responsibility and high privilege of American leadership in the world today.

"Hope, so characteristic of America," said Miss Royden, "is a lost virtue outside her bounds—therefore, America must keep the spirit of life in the world."

On Saturday evening the "Doings of the Dollar," a pictorial presentation of the national program and budget in tableaux, movie, and music, was presented to a packed house at the Auditorium theater of Hot Springs.

Some of the important issues of the convention were:

I. The report of the Commission on direct individual membership in the national organization, standards of City Associations, report of the National Board, content and extent of the national budget.

These matters were discussed before and voted on by the United Convention at business sessions.

Of especial interest to delegates from North Carolina was the address by Professor Edward C. Lindeman on "World Peace and Rural Leadership."

Other important speakers and representatives were: Mrs. Robert E. Speer, president of the National Board of the Young Women's Christian Association, Mrs. Sherwood Eddy, Chairman of Foreign Dept.; Miss Mabel Cratty, general secretary of the National Board; Mrs. Luke Johnson, Director of Women's Work, Atlanta, Ga.

Bishop Robert E. Jones, Methodist Episcopal Church, New Orleans, La. Miss Anne Lamb, Calcutta India. Mile Felene Gablet d'Alvilla, Brussels, Belgium, Judge Florence E. Allen, Cleveland, O., Dr. Jeroslave Case, Czechoslovakia.

The kindness and hospitality of all the good people of Hot Springs will long be remembered by delegates to the Convention. Every business corporation of the city literally flung

"CLARENCE" BENEFIT PLAY FOR ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Bright Sparkling Comedy of American Life.

After a month of strenuous rehearsals, the cast for "Clarence," the play which is being presented by the Dramatic Council for the benefit of the Men's Athletic Association, is rapidly rounding into shape. Work on the scenery is also coming on apace and everything seems propitious for a creditable performance.

The play itself, a four-act comedy by Booth Tarkington, is a thoroughly delightful one. When it was playing in New York the New York Times said of it, "It is as American as 'Huckleberry Finn' or pumpkin pie," while the New York Tribune remarked, "To our mind 'Clarence' is the best light comedy which has ever been written by an American."

Briefly its situation is this, Clarence, the hero is a discharged hero. He has no medals, no shoulder bars, no great accomplishments. One of the "five million," he served where he was sent—though it was no further than Texas. As an entomologist, he found no field for his specialty in the great war as it was fought in Texas, so they set him to driving mules.

Now reduced to civil life and seeking a job, he finds a position in the home of one, Wheeler, a wealthy Englewood man with a family. And because he has "been in the army" he becomes guide, philosopher and friend to the members of that same agitated and distracted family group. Clarence's position is a difficult one. In addition to his duties just named, he tunes the piano, he mends the plumbing, he plays the horn—and around him revolves such a group of characters as only Booth Tarkington can offer.

Corra and Bobby Wheeler, the flapper and the prep school youth, are portrait sketches warranted to appeal to every one, even to their originals. The irascible father, the "incompetent step-mother," the pretty Irish maid and her disgruntled lover, the butler, are all there. Nor is a love story lacking, for Clarence's liking for the young governess is returned in spite of the efforts of the grass-widower, Stem, to frustrate it.

An evening of real fun should be the experience of all who see this second production of the Dramatic Council, which will be staged in Memorial Hall on the evening of May 13.

HISTORICAL FILMS TO BE STAGED BY COLLEGES

The State Department of Education in N. C. and the N. C. Historical Society are co-operating in the production of a number of films which set forth the earliest settlements and later history of N. C. The film of seven reels showing the attempt of Sir Walter Raleigh to form settlements in eastern Carolina, have been completed for more than a year and has been very popular. Three series of them have been in constant use since last fall.

During the coming year these two departments plan to prepare films on:

1. The Chowan river settlements
2. The Neuse river settlements
3. The Cape Fear river settlements
4. The Scotch Irish Settlements
5. The German settlements
6. The Moravian settlements
7. The Quaker settlements.

Different colleges in the state are being asked to co-operate with the department of education and the historical societies in staging these films. Guilford College is asked to stage that of the Quaker settlements.
