QUAKER BASKETBALL SEASON OPENS DEC. TWENTIETH

King's College and South Carolina Pay First Visit to G. C.

Guilford's basketball team faces a fairly heavy schedule, which begins Dec. 20 at Greensboro and ends March 2 with Trinity at Durham. Between those dates Guilford makes a week's trip to South Carolina and western part of the state, two trips to eastern Carolina and plays seven games on her home court.

King's College and the University of South Carolina make their first visit here, this year. Although the crimson and gray have never met the western Tennessee battlers on any field of sport, yet a glance at King's College's record shows us that real players are produced there. University of South Carolina is an old rival but up until this year Guilford has made the trip to their battle ground. It will be a great drawing card to have these two strangers on our floor this year. Don't forget the dates; King's College, at Guilford, Jan. 31, and U. S. C. at Guilford, Feb. 8.

Coach Doak's warriors make their first trip to the eastern part of the state Feb. 12. On this stay they meet Wake Forest, N. C. State, and wind up with Elon, Feb. 14. Following this short trip is a week's journey to South Carolina and western North Carolina. Guilford will meet, Furman, Wofford, Asheville Y, Lenoir, Statesville Y, and Davidson on this trip with the seven home games against Greensboro Y, King's College, N. C., State U. S. C., Wake Forest, Davidson, and Elon. Guilford's program is no light one. Following is the schedule in full.

Dec. 20, Greensboro Y. at Greensboro.

Jan. 13, Greensboro Y, at Guilford.

Jan. 31, King's College at Guilford.

Feb. 6, N. C. State at Guilford.

Feb. 8, U. S. C. at Guilford.

Feb. 10, Wake Forest at Guilford.

Feb. 12, Wake Forest at Wake Forest.

Feb. 13, N. C. State at Raleigh.

Feb. 14, Elon at Elon.

Feb. 17, Davidson at Guilford.

Feb. 19, Furman at Furman.

Feb. 20, Wofford at Wofford.

Feb. 21, Asheville Y. at Asheville.

Feb. 22, Lenoir at Lenoir.

Feb. 23, Statesville Y. at Statesville.

Feb. 24, Davidson at Davidson.

Feb. 27, Elon at Guilford.

March 1, Durham Y. at Durham.

March 2, Trinity at Trinity.

Y. W. BAZAAR A SUCCESS

The annual Y. W. C. A. Bazaar which was held Friday night, December 15, in New Garden hall was a decided success. The attendance was unusually large, a fact which insured the financial as well as the social success of the affair.

The dining room of New Garden was effectively decorated with the various Christmas colors and the booths were artistically arranged in different parts of the dining room from which were sold many useful gifts. Persimmon pudding with whipped cream was served and this added much to the enjoyment of the evening.

SIX MEN WIN PLACES IN TRYOUTS FOR COLLEGE DEBATING TEAM

Will Meet Hampden-Sydney
On Cancellation of U. S.
War Loans

The tryouts for places on Guilford's debating teams which will meet Hampden-Sydney this year, were held by the Debating Council on Thursday evening, December 14. Ten men came out for the tryouts. Six of them won places on the team, two alternates being chosen along with the four regular debaters.

There was quite a lot of competition aroused among those seeking places on the team and the judges, Dr. E. C. Perisho, Professor F. C. Ancombe and Professor Robert Dann, experienced some difficulty in choosing the team from the group.

The successful men were: J. Spot Taylor, John W. Cannon, Hershel Macon and William Blair, with Fred Winn and Thomas R. English as alternates. All these men have had quite a bit of experience in debating, although Taylor is the only man who has represented Guilford previously in an intercollegiate debate. He was a member of last year's negative team.

The two literary societies each have three men on the team. Taylor, Cannon and Blair are from the Henry Clay literary society, while Macon, Winn and English are members of the Websterian society.

At a meeting of the debaters it was decided that Taylor and Blair with Winn for alternate should compose the affirmative team. The negative team, which goes to Hampden-Sydney, is to consist of Macon and Cannon with English as an alternate.

The question decided on for debate between Hampden-Sydney and Guilford is "Resolved, that the United States government should cancel her loans to her allies made during the period from April 6, 1917, to November 11, 1918." The date of the debate has not been definitely decided upon but it will be sometime the latter part of February.

Two years ago Guilford won both sides of a dual debate from Hampden-Sydney. All loyal supporters of Guilford await with interest the outcome of her second forensic clash with the Virginia college.

DR. HOBBS DISCUSSES PURPOSE OF EDUCATION

The purpose of education was the gist of Dr. L. L. Hobb's lecture in chapel Wednesday morning. "Education's purpose," said Dr. Hobbs, "is to prevent deception."

Words in themselves are deceptive, he continued. It has been said that language was designed to enable one to conceal his thoughts. It is almost impossible not to deceive other people. But education, does at least, enable one to disillusion himself, which means that by education, we can see ourselves in our proper relation to other people:

"DO IT FOR GUILFORD" CHALLENGE OF BANQUET

Annual Affair Unusually Successful; L. L. White Acts
As Toastmaster

"Do it for Guilford" was the challenge Prof. L. Lee White, toastmaster, flung out to the students at the annual student-faculty banquet held Saturday night, December, 16. Fifteen rahs for the faculty was the deafening yell of the students as they filed from the dining hall of Founder's after the most successful and enjoyable banquet ever tendered the students by the faculty of Guilford College.

The dining room of Founder's was converted into a typical banquet hall, with long tables and glistening silver and in keeping with the season, every column, mantel and corner of the room was the resting place of a shimmering Christmas tree, scintillating in the red and green lights.

Each class entered, singing a song of their own composition, and were directed in their respective places by Professor Pancoast, master of ceremonies.

Professor L. L. White as toastmaster, kept enthusiasm at a high ebb by his wit and humor. Flinging "The Challenge" "Do it for Guilford" into the resounding hall he adroitly swung the method of procedure into a semi-business organization form. In answer to this challenge he proposed that each class respond with a toast on some advantage or need of Guilford.

In response, Edward Holder, '25, responded with a toast on "Health and Recreation" which was followed by Beulah Allen '27, on "Building and Grounds." "The Intelligence and Methods Bureau" by Janie Mae Butler, '26 and "The Social Welfare Department" by Eva Holder, '24 completed the first half of the program.

Prof. J. D. White, listed as "The Efficiency Expert," explained to the students some methods of raising money for their Alma Mater employed by the members of the colleges.

Dr. Perisho discussing the "Psychology of Business" stated that the psychology of business was summed up in the parable "To him that hath it shall be given and from him that hath not even that which he hath shall be taken away."

"Nothing succeeds like success" he continued. "Guilford College is a growing institution and its growth can be and will be attributed to some of the principles that help to establish strong business organizations." First, the individual who shows interest and works; second, co-operation of employer and employee, which may be compared to co-operation of faculty and student; and third, the constituency of the organization.

"This business institution of Guilford is situated in one of the most progressive states in the union and there is no reason why it cannot become the greatest co-educational school in the greatest state of the union, North Carolina."

STUDENT SECRETARY FROM N. C. C. W SPEAKS ON WOMEN IN INDUSTRY

Miss McDonnell Tells of Her
Work in Atlanta Factories

Miss McDonald, student secretary of the Y. W. C. A., from North Carolina College for Women, gave a lecture at Y. W. Thursday evening on, "Student industrial co-operation."

Student industrial co-operation work is carried on under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. and its purpose is to be an integrating factor between college girls and industrial girls.

Miss McDonnell gave brief sketches of her experiences last summer in this work. Twelve college girls went to Atlanta, Ga., and secured jobs as ordinary laborers in cotton, paper and overall factories. One was an usher in a vaudeville show and one clerked in a ten-cent store. Miss McDonnell herself worked in a cotton factory as a spooler, being on the right shift from six o'clock at night until six o'clock in the morning. She was required to work the twelve hours without any rest and there were no seats provided for any of the workers. The lighting system was so poorly arranged that one woman had almost lost her sight in two years time.

From this experiment the investigators found that there was no movement to better the conditions of the factory workers and that very few of the girls received enough to support themselves safely. It requires about fifteen dollars a week to live in a city and the average wage was seven or eight dollars. The majority of the girls have no money for recreation.

Miss McDonnell believes that these girls are not different from other girls, except that circumstances forced them to live this monotonous, and in many cases disagreeable life. It is a problem which the Y. W. C. A. as women and as an association should take definite and active steps to solve.

MISS RICKS EXPLAINS FACILITIES OF LIBRARY

Miss Ricks, who had charge of chapel Friday, December 15, told the students how to acquire a working knowledge of the library and its resources, giving special attention to the value and use of the Reader's Guide.

The librarian discussed the merits of several of the magazines and periodicals separately and urged the students to become better acquainted with the library facilities.

Allene Johnson Elected Supt. of Sunday School

At a joint meeting of the Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. held last Sunday afternoon, Allene Johnson was chosen to succeed Hershall Macon as superintendent of the college Sunday school. The new superintendent will take charge immediately after the holidays.

Other matters of interest and importance to the student body were arrived at.

CHORAL SOCIETY GIVES BALFE'S "BOHEMIAN GIRL"

Miss Byrd Wins Audience in Title Role; Sings with Finish

Before a large and enthusiastic audience the Guilford college choral society presented Balfé's familiar opera, "The Bohemian Girl." Fifty voices were in the chorus, and under the direction of James Westley White, the chorus songs with precision and splendid tone, each number being infused with its true feeling of pathos or pleasure as required.

Miss Beatrice Byrd, singing the music of the title role, was in splendid voice and sang with a very impressive effect, especially in the well known air, "I dreamt That I Dwelt in Marble Halls" and in the "Gypsy Bride" song. Mrs. E. C. Caldwell, singing the music of "Gypsy Queen" was especially well suited to the part and sang her number with splendid tone and dramatic intensity. Especially effective was her duet with J. Foster Barnes. Mr. Barnes' solos were also well received.

J. Gurney Briggs, tenor of High Point, sang with feeling and remarkable interpretative art, the old favorite, "Then You'll Remember Me," as well as other airs. Then semble singing of the quartette was splendidly accomplished, the voices harmonizing effectively.

Mrs. Robert Dann, at the piano, gave sympathetic and satisfactory accompaniments for both chorus and solos.

SENIOR CLASS ENJOYS NOVEL CLASS MEETING

The New Garden senior girls were hostesses to the senior class at a very delightful party in the basement of New Garden Hall on Tuesday evening, December 12, from 6:30 to 9 o'clock.

When the seniors arrived at the back door of New Garden they were escorted into the basement which was attractively arranged with holiday decorations. Immediately much excitement resulted because the room was profusely decorated with large bunches of mistletoe.

A short Christmas program was given by the girls. Allene Johnson told the story "Christmas Day in the Evening," and Ruth Reynolds read a Christmas poem from James Whitcomb Riley. This was followed by a vocal duet by Vera Farlow and Josephine Mock, and a Christmas hymn on the victrola.

But the most interesting feature was yet to follow in the removal of the gifts from the Christmas tree. The refreshments consisting of oranges, nuts and delicious sea foam candy were then served.

The merriment was kept up by a number of interesting games and music until 9:00 o'clock when the guests reluctantly departed, having said farewell underneath the mistletoe.

Bertha Neal and Ione Lowe spent the week end at Pleasant Garden as the guests of Kathleen Riley.

Everett Holliday, '22, was a visitor on the campus last Saturday.
