Quaker Celebrates Easter With Two More Victories

N. Y. U. and Elon Overcome by Holiday Onslaught of Quaker Willow-wielders

Blanking New York University to the tune of 5-0, and copping the annual game from Elon 7-3, were the Easter activities of the Quaker diamond artists. These two successes marked up three victories for Guilford out of the first three contests.

The game with N. Y. U., March 30, in Greensboro, played in foggy weather, was featured by the pitching of Ferrell, the hitting of Hayworth and English, and the fielding of "Block" Smith. Ferrell with his twisters held the Yankees to four scattered hits. While Guilford smacked out nine for counts. Hayworth, out of three trips to the rubber, binged out the same number for safe hits. Nereus English faced the New York hurler four times and swatted the sphere twice for gains. "Block" Smith made a perfect day for fielding by finding a home for four flies in his glove.

For the visitors Flynn was the outstanding man both in his action around the keystone sack and in his swinging the stick.

The scoring of the Crimson and Gray group started in the first frame when Frazier was squeezed home by a hit from Winn. The other four markers were added in the sixth, seventh and eighth by a series of hits aided by inefficient handling of the ball by the north-erners. Hayworth and Ferrell both knocked out two baggers.

On Easter Monday, at Greensboro, before a crowd of 1200 in a very exciting contest, the Doak machine convinced Barker, the Elon star hurler, that they could hit the old apple. The Quakers made fifteen hits, out of which, they turned only seven into runs, while the Christians marked up eight hits against "Babe" Shore, three of which netted them a counter apiece.

For the first five innings the outcome looked remarkably like it was going in favor of the visitors. Up to the sixth inning the score was 2-1 in favor of Elon. These two runs were unearned, being made on a series of errors by the Guilford infield. However, the tide turned in the sixth, when "Block" Smith let a wicked grounder out.

QUAKERS DROP TWO GAMES ON RECENT EASTERN TRIP

Hoodoo on Quaker Slugging by Wake Forest and State on Recent Invasion of East

Starting their Easter trip April 4, by playing Wake Forest at Wake Forest, a five inning game in the rain, Guilford lost by a 1-0 score. On the following day she took the blank end of a 8-0 score from N. C. State.

The Quakers have played errorless ball against the Baptists but failed to grasp the significance of the twirls of Stamey the Wake Forest moundsman. Only one hit was made by the Doak nine, a single by Frazier in the first frame. Burge on the mound for the Crimson and Gray allowed the opposing team six hits.

The feature, of the next day's game with the State crew, was the uncanny manner in which Guilford's opposition could pound the ball. Two pitchers were used against the heavy swatters but of no avail. Shore and Ferrell for Guilford allowed State 12 hits, while on the other hand Curtis yielded only one scratch hit to his visitors.

State's failure to bunch hits kept the scoring well scattered throughout the game.

FLOTOW'S "MARTHA" TO BE PRESENTED BY CHORUS

"Martha," music by Friedrich von Flotow will be presented in concert form by the choral society of Guilford college at a near date. The society met on Monday night and started rehearsals under the direction of James Westley White. Mr. White announces that soloists will be secured from both Winston-Salem and Greensboro to sing the principal parts.

"Martha" is an opera that has been presented in the greatest opera houses over the world. The late Enrico Caruso considered the role of Linonel, in the opera, one of his favorite interpretations and a revival of the work is announced for the 1923-24 season of the Chicago Civic opera company with possibly Amelita Galli-Curci in the title role.

The scoring for the chorus is characterized by strong melodies and brilliant climaxes, and also offers unusual possibilities for an endsi ri acf.... vbgkj cmfwycm quartet. Among the solo parts may be found "The Last Rose of Summer," loved by the whole English speaking world, and "Like a Dream," a melodious air for the tenor.

ENDOWMENT CAMPAIGN NEARS GOAL IN COUNTY

High Point Passes Half-way
Mark; Winston Will Start Soon

With subscriptions totaling over $100,000 Guilford county is rapidly approaching her goal in the endowment campaign for our college. Guilford's part of the state's $175,000 is $125,000. That this amount will be raised from the territory to be canvassed is now certain.

The campaign in Greensboro under the leadership of R. J. M. Hobbs has reached the $60,000 mark. Together with the Guilford College community, Greensboro will raise $75,000. The college community has already subscribed $7,500, of which amount nearly $4,000 was contributed by the faculty of the institution. The campaign is continuing quietly now, following the wide advertising done during the active drive.

D. Ralph Parker, chairman of the campaign in High Point, reports that approximately $35,000 of the $60,000 pledged has been subscribed. High Point is at the same time supporting a $250,000 drive for the Y. M. C. A. The canvass there has been limited to Friends and old students of Guilford, and has not covered the field of the Y. M. C. A. More work is to be done in High Point which will result in raising the amount to the goal set. This work is planned to continue throughout the summer, and is receiving the support of W. C. Idol, J. Elwood Cox, R. R. Ragan and other prominent High Pointers. "There is no doubt that the Furniture City will raise her full quota of $60,000, but we are going about it in a very quiet manner," said one of the city's financiers.

C. C. Smithdeal, president of the alumni association and vice-president of Forsythe county club, will head the campaign in Winston-Salem which is to be launched, May 1. The goal is set at $25,000. The drive will be worked quietly but thoroughly by the alumni.

Thomasville has not been thoroughly organized as yet but the movement is being directed by Brown and Austin Finch, alumni of Guilford. Drives will be launched in Randolph county and Wayne county during the latter part of April and May. The total amount of $175,000 bids fair to be subscribed from the state by the middle of summer.

DR. SAGE INVESTIGATES
GUILFORD STUDENT LIFE

Representative of General Education Board Is Pleased

Dr. E. C. Sage, one of the secretaries of the General Education Board of New York City, visited the college for two days the past week. He was accompanied by Mrs. Sage and his son, T. Bartlett Sage.

The purpose of the visit of Dr. Sage and his son to Guilford was to make an investigation of what Guilford college is doing for the general welfare of the student body outside of the class room.

Dr. Sage spent quite a little time in conference with the representatives of the student government association, Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., the four literary societies, debating council, dramatic council, glee club, mens' athletic association and physical culture for women. He made special inquiry regarding the work of the Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A. and the department of religious education.

Before leaving the college Dr. Sage expressed himself as very much pleased, not only with the outside activity of the college but with its scholastic work.

FRESHMAN GIRLS WIN INTER-CLASS BALL GAME

The final game of the girls' basket ball season was played Wednesday evening, March 28, between the freshmen and sophomores. The wearers of the green swiped the big end of 11-7 score.

The gymnasium was temporarily transformed into a boiler factory as the screeching enthusiasts followed the successes of their respective class artists.

The teams were matched evenly enough to hold the interest of the spectators throughout the contest. Both teams put up a snappy fight. From the beginning the freshmen held the lead, it remained thus until the final whistle blew and the score board told the tale.

Individual honors for the freshman squad go to Jones and Armfield as guards. For the sophomores those deserving special mention are Zachary as guard and Ward as center.

Varied Program Is Well Executed; Features are Popular

The college clee club made its final bow of the season on the home stage at Memorial hall, last Saturday evening, April 7, before a large and highly appreciative audience from college and community. The club, under the direction of Miss Beatrice Lynne Byrd, and the orchestra, with Miss Virginia Robinson as conductor, delivered one of the most enjoyed entertainments of the year.

A number of unusually good features were presented on the program. The most impressively romantic was that of the gypsies. After Drdla's wistful "Souvenir," a violin solo by the gypsy Benbow Merri-man, "Gypsy Trail" and "Gypsy Life" were given by the quartette, Frazier, Mackie, Crutchfield and Casey, in vivid costume.

The sailors, Joyce, Reynolds, Farlowe, and Barbee were quite clever and attractive. "Sailing" and "The Boatswain Bold" were well received. The sailor's hornpipe was a brilliant exhibition of the mariner's Terprichorean art. The most ner's Terpsichorean art. The most ly Steal Away," which was literally interpreted by the quartette.

As readings, "She Always Ponders Her Nose" by Guest, and the "Essay on the Duck," were given by James Joyce in a very impressive manner, which was enthusiastically applauded.

Frank Casey's whistling solo was one of the most exquisite and beautiful numbers. The birdlike trills in the "Sunshine of Your Smile," and and "The Bluebird of Happiness" delighted the audience thoroughly.

The "Juba Dance" by J. F. Cude on the jewsharp was greeted gleefully, this classic instrument being unusual on the concert stage. His encore was "Japanese Moon." J. G. Frazier's impersonation of Harry Lauder in "Roamin' in the the Gloamin,'" received much applause.

The glee club numbers, "Marching Men," the pathetic and splendid

ONE VETERAN ROOSTER MEETS HIS WATERLOO

Formal parties have no attraction when one receives an invitation with a chicken foot painted on it, maybe.

Those who were summonsed in this manner to Ione Lowe's and Rosa Elliott's room, Friday evening, from 8:30 till 10:00 o'clock, found that the chicken foot was symbolic of a chicken stew. There was chicken soup, chicken gravy and then the real chicken besides barrels of coffee and scads of pickles and cake.

Those who were invited were: Jo Mock, Bertha Neal, Eva Holder, Marion Ward, Sallie Wilkins, Mabel McBane, Gladys Futrell, Alice Thompson, Henrietta Lassiter and Edith Spencer.
