What Do You Say?

The approach of Autumn brings to the numerous colleges a renewal of interest in what is generally considered the greatest college sport. Football, unlike some other athletic games, cannot be played for any professional reason, but must be entered into merely for the love of the game. It requires the complete cooperation of 11 men and their utmost effort both mental and physical.

Some students and their parents object to football and such students should not play. But the men who go into it wholeheartedly develop a strong physique and a love for the game which they never lose.

In spite of whatever may be said, the fact remains that the athletic achievements of college are sized up to a great extent by its attainment on the gridiron. Here at Guilford we have a husky bunch of pigskin chasers out working hard every afternoon. Those men are standing bruises and knocks without flinching in order to make you proud of the work of your college team for the next two months.

There is something radically wrong with the attitude of the student body toward their efforts. It is easy to say we are behind the team, but those football players are human and unless they are shown in more certain terms that their efforts are appreciated by their fellow students, they are going to have a harder battle next Saturday when they meet a strong team and an enthusiastic group of rooters.

It is not our purpose to criticize harshly the men who do not play football, even though it would be justifiable. However, do the new students realize that Guilford has a football team? If they do surely they have not learned it from any pep meetings or organized support from the old students. Only twice has there been any attempts towards practicing the college yells, and then just as much interest would have been shown if the yells had been for volley ball. Wake up, cheer leaders and old students, as well as new ones, and let's put some pep into our teams.

If there is not something done in a few weeks there will be some students going around with their heads down saying that Guilford is losing out in football. It will be your fault, too, for no college team has ever been very successful without support. We are proud of those fighters who are on the athletic field every afternoon, so let's tell them about it.

Get in With the Spirit

There is every evidence of the development of a splendid religious atmosphere at the college this year. The Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations show signs of increased activity, perhaps largely due to the work of those who attended the Blue Ridge Conference last summer.

Now is the time when an extra effort should be made to get the freshmen to take an active part in the religious activities of campus life.

New students, never again will you have the opportunity you have now of making your college career the very best possible. The forces which will determine your future can be changed or molded now easier than at any other year of your life.

Consequently we wish to call your attention to the "Y" meeting each Thursday evening as well as the regular student Sunday school. It is doubtful if there is any phase of college life that does more toward the development of noble manhood, miles of running, and pass-discussions held at these times.

QUAKER QUIPS

Greeting, everybody. The Quip family has just returned from its vacation, full of pep for the year, and determined not to make cutting remarks or pointed suggestions.

Freshman decorated with medals for bravery are advised that green and gold are the junior colors. Better drop one or the other.

Until we become acquainted with the new cook we cannot discuss the hash, and consequently have no subject to fall back upon.

Having been accustomed to campfire breakfasts, we cannot be perfectly at ease on the new dining room floor. It maketh us to sit down in unexpected places.

We venture the following information to those it may concern: Bath tickets are unnecessary luxuries.

"Conflicts" are neither purchasable nor contagious.

Cuts are supposed to be distributed indiscriminately. If you don't receive one, report to the college surgeon.

The library is not conducted on the conversational method.

Our idea of a janitor is a fellow who makes you keep your room clean.

Dessert is a conglomeration of anything that does not lend itself to the production of hash and soup. Naturally it is a rare product.

"Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home;

Be it ever so homely, there's no face like your own."—Contributed

DEPARTMENT NOTES

Sixty-Four Take New Course

Sixty-four students have registered for Mathematical Analysis, one of the new courses offered this year in the Mathematical Department. This course embraces College Algebra, Plane and Solid Geometry, Trigonometry and Analytics. Professor Rhesa Newlin has charge.

Laboratory Gets New Material

Four hundred dollars worth of equipment has been ordered for the Physics Laboratories. Several new tables have been added to accommodate the unusually large class in Physics this year, which includes 40 students.

Many New Books

A large collection of new books from different war libraries has been donated to the library by Miss Annie Petty of Raleigh. As yet they have not been listed but will be accessible in a few days time. The librarian requests that the heads of the different departments hand in their list of books to be ordered during the next few days as she wishes to make the order. She also extends an invitation to students to submit lists of books in which they are interested and which they would like to see in the library.

Pleased With Nursing Class

Miss Kopf is very much pleased with the new class in nursing that has been added to the curriculum this year. A large number have registered for this course and the course promises to be very interesting and instructive.

The class in dietetics has been change to one in Methods. Although this is a small class there is promise of good work.

The first number of the Lyceum will be given on Saturday evening, October the 20th. This number will be given by the Filipino Quartet. The ticket campaign for the community will be put on between now and that time and the services of as many as possible are desired in this work.

Several new improvements have been made in the Biological Laboratory recently. Among the most outstanding ones are the new tables that have been placed along the southern end of the laboratory for the purpose of making room for eight more students. Five new microscopes have been purchased so that it is now possible for five more students to work at a time.

Mr. Paul Jones, traveling secretary for the Fellowship of Reconciliation, will be at the college on October 21st and will address the student body during his stay here.
