EDITORIAL

Among the many improvements on the campus this year, the new poultry yard and the fine flock of chickens should be placed near the top. The credit for this valuable addition must go to Professor Pan-coast, head of the mathematics department, who has personally directed all of the work.

Now is the time to begin to prepare for mid-term examinations. Early preparation would probably be an aid physically, since there would be no need for loss of sleep later.

Judging by the interest being shown and the work being done at this early date, Guilford is going to have a Glee Club right this year. Several other student activities should profit by the example set by these men.

That there is a strong religious atmosphere among the college students has been shown by the extra good attendance at the meetings conducted by evangelist Hobson. The services Saturday night struck a vital blow at those who can smoke or leave it alone.

The Business Staff of Guilfordian Asks Aid

The Business Staff of the Guilfordian is at present putting on an extra drive to secure advertisements. The business concerns which buy ads from us do it either to support the college or as a money making proposition.

Since we only solicit ads from reliable and up-to-date people we wish to make a special appeal to the students to trade with our advertisers. They are probably more interested in you and your college than other business men are, and surely they will treat you just as well if not better than any one else.

Mention the fact that you saw their advertisements in the Guilfordian, and by so doing you can be sure of accommodating yourself as well as your paper.

Don't Lose Faith; Your Team Met Big School

The big score which the Trinity warriors piled up against our men last Saturday shouldn't cause any one to lose confidence in our team. New students especially should remember that we went against one of the best teams in the state.

We take our hats off to Trinity for she sends out good teams. However, when we consider the number of men from which her teams are selected, and the money which she has to back her athletics in comparison to Guilford's resources we can see at once that our team made a good show.

Guilford is small institution, and founded on the principles and ideals of a small institution. However, practically all intercollegiate contests are entered into with much larger schools. In spite of this we are proud of our boys and the way they fight always.

Do You Wait on the Two Who Keep 200 Waiting

Probably due to the work of the International Relations Club Guilford students have a special interest in the topics and news of the day. We consider this interest as an asset to the student body. It also means that there is a rush for the library each morning when the two copies of the Greensboro Daily News are brought in.

The two persons who get the paper feel themselves lucky, so they quietly take a seat back in the corner of the reading room and study the paper from beginning to end. During this time a dozen or so others are standing or sitting around and often wasting a study period in the hopes of being able to see the headlines at least.

This situation should be remedied. If over two hundred students must depend on two papers then each person should greatly limit the time which he keeps the paper, especially in the morning. The continued stories and such literary articles should not be read until the afternoon, for if one person keeps the paper fifteen minutes or more it probably means that some interested person will not have the chance to read any of the news of the day.

$240,000 ALREADY PLEDGED

Dr. Perisho Optimistic

Of Dr. Perisho's visits to the various counties he reports the following: "Everywhere I was cordially received and well entertained. Graduates and former students showed universal interest in Guilford College and the Endowment Campaign. Many old students and friends of the college regretted that they were unable financially to make more than a very small pledge toward the new Endowment but it is a matter of satisfaction, that practically all the men and women who even attended Guilford either have made a pledge or say they will do so."

Dr. Perisho is at present in South Dakota on a lecture tour, but he will return to Guilford about the first of November and will resume his work during the fall and early winter months.

Fifteen Conversions at Revival Led by Mr. Hobson

The series of meetings, which is being conducted at Guilford College meeting house by Rev. Tilman Hobson, has been well attended by the community people and by the college students.

An outstanding result of the meeting so far, is 15 conversions, and the decision of 20 young people to dedicate their lives to some form of Christian service.

DEPARTMENT NOTES

More New Books—

A new collection of books for the Home Economics Department has arrived and is now in the library. The funds for buying these books were raised from the proceeds of the Haverford Banquet at which the Domestic Science girls were waitresses. The list is as follows: Woodman: Textiles, Vultes Household Chemistry, Gardener's Public Health Nursing, Ely's Elementary Principles of Economics, Munsell's Color Notation, Hill's The Up-to-Date Waitress and Matthew's Elementary Home Economics.

Increase in History Students—

There is considerable increase in the History Department. Professor Anscombe says that when he came here six years ago there were only thirty-five students in the Department of History, whereas now he has nearly one hundred and twenty, an increase of eighty-five.

New English Section—

Owing to the increase in numbers of students in the freshman class it has been found necessary to form a new section of English one. This section, the instruction in which will not be different from that in the others, will be headed by Miss Kopf. This is another evidence of the increasing popularity of Guilford.

New Chemistry Material—

The Chemistry Department of Guilford College is the largest in the history of the college. There are sixty-two students in Chemistry. To take care of the increase in the number of students over last year an entire new section of laboratory desks in being installed in the laboratory, making desk room for 65 students. The advanced laboratory has been outfitted for students in Qualitative Analysis and Organic Chemistry.

William Wesley Blair of the senior class and Paul G. Knight of the class of '25 will assist in the department this year.

Larger Space in Laboratory—

The working space of the biology laboratory department has been materially increased by the removal of the cases of bird eggs so long a part of the department. This space has been taken up by the installation of new dissecting tables. $500.00 worth of additional equipment has been added to the department. Five new microscopes have been installed which increases the capacity for individual work from fifteen to twenty.

LECTURE ON TOBACCO

He also mentioned that one drop of nicotine would kill a dog, and that two drops of empy rheumatic oil would kill a cat, though cats are supposed to have nine lives. In closing he begged all young people to keep strong and clean and to refrain from the tobacco habit.

Miss Virginia Galloway spent the week end at her home in Greensboro.

Miss Ethel Hedgecock spent the week-end at her home in High Point.
