

ALUMNI NEWS

R. L. Tremain '21 is principal of the Rural Industrial high school at Philadelphus, N. C.

Anne Shamburger, an old Guilford student, is instructor in Peace Institute, Raleigh, N. C. Miss Shamburger will teach elementary biology, general science and physics in this institution. Last winter Miss Shamburger was a student at Johns Hopkins University of Baltimore.

Leslie Barrett, is entering upon his second year as pastor of the Friends church of Buffalo, Ohio. Mr. Barrett's election to remain in this city was unanimous.

Curtis Newlin '22, who was a student in the graduate school of Haverford college last winter, has gone to Poughkeepsie, N. Y., to take up his work at Oakwood school, in addition to which, he will have charge of the athletics.

Helen Bostic '23, is teaching this winter in the Liberty High School, Liberty, N. C. She will have under her direct supervision and teaching, the classes in French and Latin.

Hope Motley '23, a major in home economics under Miss Noles, will take charge of the home economics department at Walnut Cove this winter. Miss Motley was at Guilford several days ago previous to her location at Walnut Cove.

Miss Motley, following her graduation last spring, visited her sister in Sioux Falls, S. D., a city intimately associated with Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Perisho. It was Miss Motley's regret that she was not able to see Dr. and Mrs. Perisho while in South Dakota but she missed connection and failed to meet them.

Alpheus White '14, will take the principalship of the Jamestown high school during the present winter.

Baxter Richardson '13, at present in State work in Illinois, was a visitor at the college recently. He received the Haverford Scholarship and his wife, formerly Miss Helen East of the same class, took the Bryn Mawr Scholarship.

CHORAL SOCIETY ELECTS FRANK CASEY PRESIDENT

The Choral Society of Guilford College held its first meeting of October 1. The attendance numbered about fifty. Professor James Westley White will act as director as heretofore. The following officers were elected: president, Frank Casey; secretary, Ethel Watkins; monitor, Frank Crutchfield. During the fall months they will work on Max Bruk's Cantata "Fair Ellen." For the spring work Mr. White says the society will prepare "The Mikado" by Guilbert and Sullivan. This will be given in costume and action.

Miss Nora Coltraine of Greensboro was on the campus Sunday to see her niece Miss Ruth Stephens.

Mr. Fred Charles of Winston-Salem was a visitor on the campus Sunday.

Miss Alvin Stone spent the week-end at her home in Greensboro.

Get Into Christian Service, Says Hobson

"Get into the game of Christian service," said Rev. Hobson in leading Y. M. C. A. last Thursday evening.

"My first experience with the Y. M. C. A.," said the speaker, "was in Emporia, Kansas. I suffered a chill while walking along the streets, and fell helpless on the sidewalk. Here I lay till a Y. M. C. A. member came along. He helped me reach the home of an acquaintance and since that time I have always been an enthusiastic supporter of this great organization."

"The lives of the students show what kind of a college they attend," asserted Mr. Hobson. "So each one should live a true, clean, Christian life, the only one which is worth while."

The speaker then gave an account of two men: one a poor young man, but a Christian, who became a prosperous business man; the other an outlaw who after evading the officers for many years at last was captured.

"Put up a fight to get people to become followers of Jesus," he continued. It takes a man with backbone to be a consistent Christian, but that is the only life that will bring happiness.

Know, Do, and End, Is Talked at Y. W. Meeting

The Y. W. C. A. meeting held on Tuesday evening, was jointly conducted by President Osborne, Margaret Levering, and Elizabeth Cude with the three questions "What do you know?" "What can you do?" and "What is your goal?" respectively, for discussion.

In considering the first question, President Osborne explained the significance and extent of Y. W. as an organization, and showed the relationship which exists between the local and national organization. "Y. W. C. A.'s?" she explained, "exist in over thirty countries of the world and in all nations, the members stand for Christian character, Christian living and Christian fellowship."

In conclusion, Miss Osborne called attention to the notable work of Y. W. C. A.'s in various cities.

In a brief discussion on "What can you do?" Margaret Levering mentioned the fact that the members of the Y. W. can set the standard of moral life on campus. "Each member," she said, "can do active work right here, and she must do it in order to make the most of the association." In dealing with the question "What is your goal?" Elizabeth Cude said:

"Of course there is something we each had rather do in life, but have we considered whether that something is what will benefit ourselves and others most? Every girl has her own particular task to fulfill, which if she neglects it, will always go undone. If our task is small, let us do it just as well as though it were great, for when the great Scorer comes to write against your name He will not ask did you win or lose, but how did you play the game."

Mr. Elsie Hadley was the guest of Miss Ethel Watkins Sunday afternoon.

Mr. W. I. McCracken was among the regular callers last Sunday.

Mrs. Thos. C. Barber has been the house guest of miss Ruth Ragsdale for the past week.

BIG PROSPECTS AHEAD FOR TENNIS AT GUILFORD

Guilford should be stronger in tennis this year than in the past four or five. This statement is made after a careful survey of old and new material. Considering the the successes of last year which consisted of victories over State, and Elon, a tie with Trinity, and a near victory over Wake Forest, this prophesy might seem a little out of proportion. However, here are a few convicers as noted on the courts.

Twenty-five men are daily fighting for a place on the varsity five. Last year there were only fifteen. Five old english "G's" fly back and forth across the courts, where only two could be counted last season. Six of the new men are tennis players of no small merit now, and with the coaching of Prof. Pancoast they should make someone hurry for their place.

Brown, of year before last varsity squad, is the biggest addition. The letter men back are, Winn, Short, Joyce, Reynolds, and Harris.

Volley-Ball Attracts Large Bit of Interest

Volley-ball is creating more interest among the students than was hoped. Teams representing the different sections of Cox Hall have been organized, and interesting contests are being staged daily. That the men are enjoying this milder form of exercise, and that the contests are exciting to the last point is assured by the yelling, and cheering floating in from that section of the athletic field. This branch of sports is finding many friends among the students.

Madame Hoffman Gives Tea to Student Advisees

On Wednesday afternoon from 4:30 to 6:00 Madame Hoffman delightfully entertained her student advisees at tea, this being the first tea given on the campus this school year. Those who enjoyed Madame Hoffmann's hospitality were: Misses Frances Hodgkin, Annie Wagoner, Ruth Skeen, Mary Webb Nicholson, Nellie Morris, Grace Kimrey, Jonnie Conrad, Annie Finch, Julia Wolff, Priscilla Stuckey, Viola Tuttle, Elizabeth Niblock and Maude Simpson.

Junior Class Holds Its First Meeting of Year

On Tuesday evening, September 25, the junior class held its first meeting of the year. The meeting was called to order by Fred Winn, the former president of the class.

The election of officers occupied the greater part of the evening. The result of the election is as follows: president, Frank Casey; secretary, Edward Holder; treasurer, Ralph Landis; marshal, John Reynolds.

Miss Gertrude Atkins is spending the week-end at her home in Ashboro.

Miss Ruth Ragsdale is spending the week-end with her parents at Madison.

Mrs. R. L. Landis and baby have recently arrived at Guilford, from Cleveland, Ohio. She and Mr. Landis are to keep house in Archdale hall.

"Miss Beulah, a Batesville belle of twenty summers, is visiting her twin brother, here, age 32."
