

ALUMNI NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. David J. White, both members of the class of 1920, have moved into Miss Sallie White's cottage near the college. Mr. White is still secretary and treasurer of the White Realty Company of Greensboro.

Fred Morris '16 who has for the past year been post master at Kernersville, has recently with his sister Addie '18 as partner erected a wet-wash laundry in his home town. The probabilities are that the Morris laundry will be a success for there was a great demand for an establishment of this nature at Kernersville.

The following clipping concerning James Hoge Ricks '05 was taken from a Washington paper during the summer:

Judge James Hoge Ricks of the juvenile and domestic relations court, Richmond, yesterday was elected President of the National Probation Association at its seventeenth annual conference, at the Williard Hotel.

Alpheus F. Zachary '12 was married to Miss Lizzie Harris on June 31st, 1923.

Grady McBane '22 is teacher of Science in the Graham High School. Mr. McBane also has charge of the athletics in this school.

Bessie Guthrie '16 is teaching English in the Greensboro High School.

The town of Asheboro has organized a chamber of commerce with Dr. J. G. Crutchfield as president and T. Fletcher Bulla as secretary. Dr. Crutchfield, and old student of Guilford and better known to Guilfordians as "Jim," is a dentist located in Asheboro. Fletcher Bulla is a member of the class of 1911 and is Superintendent of Schools of Randolph County.

Association Members Standing

For the past six months it has been the ambition of the secretary of the Alumni association to have five hundred active members in the association. He had hoped that there would be at least a few classes with an active membership of 100%. The following table shows the date of graduation of the class, the number of members and the number paying their dues:

GUILFORD STUDENTS MAKE HIKE TO BATTLEGROUND

The annual hike of Guilford Students to the Battle ground took place last Saturday afternoon. Immediately following lunch the entire student body assembled in front of Founders hall. There under the guidance of Miss Louise the journey began. It is needless to say that pairs quickly grew out of this multitude of explorers. The purpose of this journey at far as the student body was concerned was very heterogeneous. Some went for the purpose of increasing their athletic ability. Then there was the bunch of curiosity seekers who were afraid something would happen real interesting if they had stayed at home.

And last one finds the select bunch who were only living in the present and visualizing the future. This class could be spotted, in pairs, the duality of which could only be detected upon close examination.

Owing to the luminosity of the sun little can be said of the frequent groans of some gallant youth who with a carefully prepared line was possibly forced to take the word "no" as a trophy of such an occasion.

After arriving at Green's camping ground the trampers covered the old historic place in small groups of two each.

Later in the day 800 hot dogs found their way down the usual routes accompanied by hot coffee and hard tack. Miss Louise then used her potent influence in turning the faces of the explorers homeward.

POULTRY EXHIBIT GETS THREE PRIZES AT FAIR

The poultry department of Guilford college had three prize winners out of three entries made in the Greensboro fair. Prof. Pancoast seems to be delighted over the results of first public appearance of the work of this new department.

He received first prize for a Barred Rock cockere and also first prize for Barred Rock pen and a third prize on the other cockerel.

Instead of five hundred active members there are about 150. The classes of 1909 and 1904 show the highest percentage of active membership, 57% and 55% respectively. It is urged that each graduate who reads this column do something to impress upon his or her classmates the necessity of paying the Alumni dues and the service they will be rendering to the college by so doing.

DEPARTMENT NOTES

On Saturday afternoon, October 13, Madame Hoffmann, Miss Hedwig Hoffmann, and Mrs. Raymond Binford attended a meeting of the American Association of University Women which was held at N. C. C. W., Greensboro, N. C.

Miss Hoffmann reports that the play practices are progressing nicely and much interest is being manifested in the work. From all indications a good play is expected.

A number of new chairs have been added to the Chemistry Lecture room, which help out considerably in the seating capacity. The room is able to accommodate about sixty students now with perfect comfort.

The new desks in the Chemistry Laboratory have been completed and assignment made to the students. These desks are a valuable addition as it greatly facilitates work in the laboratory.

AROUND THE CAMPUS

As yet the trip to the battleground has produced no complications with which Miss Louise will have to deal, but it is expected by the best authorities, that by the time Thanksgiving is over some pairs of results will be noted.

This column is just some more gossip and worthless opinion about things that we all see around Guilford. It has no lesson to teach nor moral to expound. If you want either of the latter we would misdirectly quote from Dante "Abandon all hope ye who read further."

We notice that Dr. Binford has advised a more economical use of water. We offer a suggestion that, Freshmen still be permitted to observe Saturday rites.

A rumor has been heard to the effect that Professor Farris has interested some of his classes in poetry. Girls, you should be careful in opening strange letters.

We understand that a new well is being dug. To protect such dogs as may be spending their evenings out, we submit that a good fence should be put around it.

Professor L. L. White told his psychology class that overeating was dangerous. We suppose that accounts for the satisfied smile that went up at the Founder's tables the meal immediately following.

Miss Alvin Stone spent the week-end at her home in Greensboro.

Miss Cora Brown and Orin Swanson spent the week-end at Pilot Mountain.

Miss Lillian Sullivan spent the week-end at Kernersville.

Mr. O. P. McArthur of Asheville was on the campus to see his niece, Mary Lou Wilkins.
