"EVERYBODY'S QUAKER"

The senior class has adopted the slogan, "Everybody's Quaker" for the 1924 Annual. In order to make it "Everybody's Quaker" we are asking for the support of the students, faculty and alumni. The Quaker is a friend to everyone. This little "FRIEND" which has such a pleasing disposition, is worthy of your personal acquaintance. Not only will every loyal Guilfordian enjoy the companionship of this book, but it will introduce our college to everyone that comes in contact with it.

This Annual has already been introduced to the majority of the students and they were well pleased with it. But in order to make it a success the circulation must be 100% efficient among the friends of Guilford. You can make this Annual your Personal companion by sending a deposit of $1.00 to R. G. Lassiter, Circulation Mgr., Guilford College, N. C.

SOCIETY NOTES

Extemporaneous Program Given By "Phils;" Officers Installed

The following new officers of the Philomathean Literary Society were installed at the regular meeting on Friday evening, December 7, president, Marrie Beaman; secretary, Edna Coble; marshal, Virginia Galloway

Following the installation, short extemporaneous program was given. A five minutes talk on Love by Edith Macon commenced the program. The debate, "Resolved that class meetings are more enjoyable when the room is decorated with mistletoe than with other decorations," was discussed with interest. A rising vote of the society resulted in a unanimous decision for the affirmative.

The musical numbers included an instrumental solo, Grieg's "Norwegian Wedding March" played by Arveva Jackson, a vocal solo by Virginia Galloway and a quartet by Ina Goldstone, Katie Cooper, Nellie Morris and Delphia Smith, all of which were apparently much appreciated.

Shakespeare Evening Given In Zatasian Hall Friday

A program of unusual literary merit was given by the Zatasians, Friday evening, when the society made a rather thorough study of the life and artistry of Shakespeare.

The introductory number of the program was a paper on the "Life of Shakespeare" given by Pherlie Mae Siske. In this account, she pointed out the four distinct periods in Shakespeare's life, showing how he began his literary career and his gradual ascent to eminence. Ghita Tuttle gave an essay on Shakespeare's place in literature attributing to him the primal place in all literature. She mentioned the marvelous insight which he gives to character, his voluminous vocabulary and supreme artistry.

Two songs composed by Shakespeare were played on the victrola and were particularly enjoyed since this phase of his writing is generally overlooked. Geneva Highfill, in dealing with "Shakespeare's Sonnets," showed how he became the supreme master of the English sonnetiers, and illustrated the fact by reading one of his famous sonnets. The concluding number of the program was an essay by Ruth Levering dealing with the "Humor of Shakespeare" as an essential element in his life.

Henry Clay Meeting Is Marked by Peppy Debate

With the "peppiest" debate of the season, the Henry Clay Literary society gave one of its most successful programs of the year, last Friday. The evening was also specially marked because of two lady visitors, Miss Elizabeth Parker, member of the college faculty and her visitor, Mrs. Abbott.

The forensic fray was between Alton Watson and Silas Starnes of the affirmative and Eugene Doub and Marvin Shore of the negative. The question discussed so heatedly was one centering around tax exempt securities. The judges gave the decision to the negative.

Harvey Dinkins next appeared on the floor, scheduled to give a reading. He was very successful in interpreting an almanac of Josh Bilings and had to halt from time to time until the laughter could be quieted.

Louise Holton spent Sunday at her home in Jamestown.

Gladys Watson of Greensboro College was the week-end guest of Katherine Shields.

Elizabeth Cude spent the week-end at her home in Winston-Salem.

Laura Ballinger spent Sunday at her home in Pomona.
